

GREECE TELLS INSULL TO GO

JOHNSON WARNS WEIRTON STEEL MAY LOSE EAGLE

Court Fight on NRA Appears Certain.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Threats of prosecution and possible revocation of their NRA Blue Eagle failed tonight to deter Weirton Steel company officials from approving final plans of their employees' representative organization to elect a collective bargaining committee tomorrow.

"If we are illegal let the courts decide the issue," Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the steel concern, told Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who had been called in after the national labor board failed to halt the election.

Johnson Releases a Telegram.
Gen. Johnson had released a telegram in Washington in which he complained of inability to reach Weir on the telephone. The text of the telegram follows:

"I am informed that, in breach of your agreement with the national labor board, and in overt defiance of your obligation under the steel code and section 7-A of the national industry recovery act you will tomorrow hold a company dominated election for the selection of representatives of your employees."

Calls It Violation of Law.
"I have endeavored without success to reach you on the telephone and was met by a refusal by your secretary to put me in touch with you. I am informed that Gerard Swope of the industrial advisory board has had a similar experience."

"This is to advise you that in my opinion you are about to commit a deliberate violation of federal laws and that, if you do so, I shall request the attorney general to proceed against you immediately. In the meantime I shall at once call an open meeting to determine whether your Blue Eagle should be withdrawn and whether you should be henceforth denied the privileges of the steel code."

Some time after the telegram had been dispatched, but before it was made public, "Hugh" and "Ernest," as they call each other, talked on the telephone for half an hour.

Weir Says He Backs NRA.
It was understood Mr. Weir explained to Gen. Johnson that it was impossible for him to take a hand in the election. If he did so the act would have been in direct violation of the often-quoted section 7-A of the NRA and why hadn't the labor board convinced the employees' committee of the necessity of a change in their election bylaws at the time they were in Washington last week?

"The steel man earlier had reiterated that he is 100 per cent behind the NRA, but that his concern has 'contracted' with the employees' organization, as provided by section 7-A, and could not break that agreement."

From his surprise on learning that Johnson had released the telegram, Weir indicated he had been of the opinion the general had approved holding of the election, with the decision of legality to rest with the courts.

Discuss Questions Fully.
"Gen. Johnson reached me by telephone some time after sending the telegram referred to and before its receipt we discussed the matter fully," Mr. Weir said. "He then stated that he did not understand the facts that the matter had only been brought to his attention last evening and we both agreed that it was a matter for the courts to decide."

"Nothing is to be gained, as I see it, by newspaper reports. I do not consider that the company has any right to interfere with the form of organization which our employees have chosen. If the national labor board thinks we have violated any law or broken any contract let it proceed in the courts. Meanwhile we shall not interfere with our employees holding the election which they are entitled to hold tomorrow under their by-laws."

The main controversy between the labor board and the "company union" is over the form of nominations of committeemen and the designation of 98 general committeemen by the board instead of 49 provided by the employees. "The company union" nominated 98 candidates Tuesday, and elections may vote only for these.

Nominations by Petitions.
The board desired to have nominations by petitions bearing 10 signatures, somewhat similar to its conduct

INDIANA PRISON BREAK LEADER FOILS CAPTURE

John Hamilton, a leader of the gang of killer bandits who escaped on Sept. 28 from the Indiana penitentiary at Michigan City, yesterday shot and killed Sgt. William T. Shanley, detective squad leader. Sgt. Shanley was 43 years old.

The killing took place in an automobile repair shop at 5320 Broadway. Sgt. Shanley and his squad had been sent there to arrest Hamilton.

The killer escaped, but his woman companion, Mrs. Elaine De Kant Dent, was captured.

Winner of Hero Award.
Sgt. Shanley, the winner of one of The Tribune's hero awards, was the thirteenth policeman killed this year in the line of duty. His murder marked the third time in recent weeks that attempts of Chicago police to trap desperate gunmen have met with failure.

The first was on Nov. 1 when Verne Miller, the ex-sheriff who became a southwestern outlaw, shot his way out of a police trap in a north side hotel and escaped with a woman companion. He was murdered later by other gangsters in Detroit.

Again, on Nov. 15, police laid a trap for John Dillinger, a leader of Hamilton's gang, at Irving Park boulevard and Kessler avenue. Dillinger, who also had a woman companion, sprayed machine gun bullets at the police and escaped in a bullet-proof car.

Killer Is 34 Years Old.
Hamilton is 34 years old. He had served two years of a twenty-five year sentence for auto banditry when he and nine companions made their break from the Indiana prison. Since then he is believed to have taken part in several bank robberies led by Dillinger and Harry Pierpont, another of the escaped convicts, and possibly also in the attack on the jail in Lima, O., in which the gang freed Dillinger and killed the sheriff there.

Sgt. Shanley and his squad, consisting of Patrolmen Martin Mullen, the driver, and Frank Hopkins, were cruising yesterday afternoon when Chief of Detectives Schoemaker sent them an order by radio to communicate with him. They did and were sent to look for a green roadster in the block on Broadway in which the repair shop is situated.

Find Green Roadster.
After a search the squad found the automobile in the repair shop, operated by Frank Kuhn and Arthur Ullrich, where it had been taken to have a fender straightened. They were informed that a man and woman who had left it said they would return for it in a few hours. Sgt. Shanley reported this to Chief Schoemaker.

That he had a desperate gunman to deal with was indicated by Schoemaker's warning to Shanley to be careful and the fact that Shanley had crawled on a bit of paper the name of Dillinger, leader of the gang.

The squad car had been parked at Catalpa avenue and Broadway, a block and a half away. Mullen had remained behind the wheel. As 4 o'clock neared Sgt. Shanley sent Hopkins to tell Mullen to take the car to the detective bureau to turn it over to the night squad which came on duty then.

Fugitive Enters Garage.
While Hopkins was gone, Hamilton and Mrs. Dent entered. What happened then was described by Sgt. Tower, 4635 Lawrence avenue, a mechanic in the shop.

"The couple came in and walked over to the car," said Tower. "Sgt. Shanley walked up to them and asked, 'Is this your car?'"

"Hamilton told him, 'No, it belongs to my wife,' and the woman took out a vehicle license receipt and handed it to the officer. Sgt. Shanley told Hamilton, 'Keep your hands out of your pockets,' and began to pat his hip pockets for a gun. As he did so Hamilton pulled a gun out of a shoulder holster and shot Shanley twice.

"Sgt. Shanley yelled: 'I'm shot! Call the police.' Then he fell down."

"I'LL SHOW YOU HOW TO RUN IT"

VICTIM TALKS GUNMAN'S PRICE DOWN TO 25 CTS

O. F. Holsten, manager of the General Rug and Carpet Cleaners, 4447 North Kedzie avenue, was standing at State and Maple streets yesterday when a stranger with a pistol concealed in his overcoat pocket leaned against him and said:

"Give me your money."

"That's a fine way to approach me for money," retorted Mr. Holsten. "Why don't you ask for it like a man?"

"Well, I just came from a conference where I heard some bad financial news," declared the victim. "But I can spare something. Here's a quarter for you."

The bandit took the coin and fled.

RAIN TURNS TO ICE ON STREETS, DELAYS TRAFFIC
Rain which began falling early last evening and froze as it struck the streets caused great inconvenience in Chicago to pedestrians and motorists. Traffic was somewhat slowed by the slippery pavements and walkers had to guard carefully against falls. After the rain a dense fog shrouded the city, making it impossible for those in the streets to see beyond a short distance.

The weather forecast indicated that the rain would turn to snow today and that by nightfall the temperature would fall sharply. Shippers were warned to protect freight against temperatures close to 10 degrees above zero. Tomorrow, it is expected, will be generally fair.

A Westerner's Word Picture of Tennessee

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—A Northwesterner who described natives of east Tennessee as "a shabby dressed, illiterate, and ornery set of individuals," and their women as "a 'wild, drab lot,'" was riding a bus out of the mountain country tonight after resigning as superintendent of a CCC camp near here.

He is H. D. [Buck] Weaver of Spokane, Wash., superintendent in the forestry service of a conservation camp at Loyson, near the Norris dam site, who quit his job after publication of a letter he had written to his wife in Spokane and getting notice to resign.

Rising Tide of Protest.
A howl of protests arose from all over east Tennessee after Weaver's letter was reprinted in a Knoxville newspaper Monday. It had first appeared in the Spokane (Wash.) Chronicle. Congressman J. Will Taylor demanded that he be "reprimanded, or better still, removed."

So official word came today that Weaver has been relieved of his job in the "back country of the drawing south, where crying Negro babies break the stillness of the air," and can return to the timber wolves and howling coyotes of the northwest.

"You can hardly realize the situation," Weaver said in the letter to his wife. "There has been no progress here in a century. The people are mostly illiterate despite the schools of questionable efficiency. Even the small kids smoke cigars openly and many of the old women chew 'home made twist' or smoke corn-cob pipes."

"Women a Wild Lot."
"The women are a wild lot indeed. They make no effort to beautify themselves—rather going to the other extreme in trying to achieve drabness. Powder and rouge are considered evil."

"Long, shapeless gingham dresses are the mode seven days each week, and high lace shoes are the rule rather than the exception. The female of the species seems the spark plug of the family. She is up before dawn doing her housework, later in the day re-appearing in the fields to pick corn or tend the stock. The males seem to come. This is always bolstered by 'bird-chicken' on a log."

"Birth control has not gained headway here and 'stair-step' families are the rule. The girls marry young. The good old-fashioned Baptist faith has charge of the souls of the people—and they take it seriously. The church affords the only social life of the community."

"It is odd to note the superstition with which the natives watch the maneuvers of the government," he continued. "They fear that they are going to be tricked out of their farms by some sly trick. Many of them have refused to let the Tennessee Valley authority come on their land to stop soil erosion without expense to them. They have been down-trodden for generations and cannot believe that the United States treasury is to be dumped in their laps."

Indignation ran high after the letter was published. Weaver was not without a champion, however, as one man, a Methodist minister, emerged in his behalf today and asked that east Tennesseans be "generous enough" to hope that Weaver could remain here until his "logical fallacy" was corrected. But Weaver was already on his way to Spokane.

Slain in Torch Mystery; Body Bound in Wire

The body of Jack Jobb, 53 years old, caretaker of an apartment building at 117 North Ada street, bound with wire and charred by fire, was found early this morning in a vacant lot in the rear of 1300 Washington boulevard.

The Des Plaines street police, summoned to the scene by a boy who had seen the body smoking on the ground, were unable to determine whether Jobb had been shot or beaten to death or whether his clothing had been saturated with gasoline and ignited while he was still alive.

Body There Only Short Time.
The body was still warm when the investigators arrived, and it was assumed it had been placed in the vacant lot only a short time before the discovery was made.

Some attempts at concealment had been made by the killers. A burlap sack was wrapped about the victim's head and loose boards and bricks had been piled over the sack.

The clothing of Jobb had been almost completely burned away. Even his shoes had been consumed by the flames.

Identified by Building Residents.
Identification was made by Harry Boyd and Mrs. Mabel Sacco, residents of the building in which Jobb worked. They said he had been missing since Tuesday. Both, however, professed to be unaware of any enemies the victim may have had.

One of the theories advanced by the police was that the caretaker may have been accidentally killed in a brawl, and that his companions then took the torch method of disposing of the body.

Police squads were sent to the Ada street building to question residents other than Boyd and Mrs. Sacco.

PLEA TO REMAIN DENIED; MUST GET OUT JAN. 1

U. S. Ready to Seize Ex-Utilities Czar.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utility czar, must leave Greece by Jan. 1, it was stated on behalf of the government tonight.

The Greek premier, Panagiotis Tsaldaris, said it has been decided not to renew Insull's police permit for residence in the country on its expiration Dec. 31. Insull had formally applied today to the alien's department of the Greek government for extension of his permit.

The premier in announcing that the government had refused the request said the method by which he may leave Greece has not been decided upon, but said he is asking Insull to leave the country by the first of the year.

Passport Revoked.
The United States has revoked Insull's passport, leaving him without consular status as an American citizen. This is expected to present complications for the 74 year old former Chicagoan.

The premier previously had explained that according to the United States extradition treaty and because of two court verdicts "we are unable to hand him over," but he had added that the government would try to find a way to deport him.

The Greek government several days ago was reported prepared to provide Insull with a laissez passer, allowing him free entry to other countries so far as Greece was concerned.

All Exits Barred.
Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—In whatever direction Samuel Insull crosses the Greek border he will enter a nation with which the United States has an extradition treaty.

The United States recently signed an extradition treaty with Albania. Previously treaties had been negotiated with the three other nations bordering Greece—Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Turkey. While officials declined comment it was assumed, in view of the efforts made to extradite Insull from Greece, that similar efforts would be made if he passed in one of the bordering countries.

ENDS LONG FIGHT.
The action by the Greek government marks the beginning of the end of a long fight staged by Insull in Greece to defeat efforts to bring him back to Chicago to face American justice.

Shortly after the crash of his giant utilities empire in the spring of 1932 Insull left the United States to take up residence in Paris. On Sept. 4, 1932, a Cook county grand jury indicted him for larceny, embezzlement, and larceny by bailment. When a warrant for his arrest was delivered in Paris on Oct. 8 Insull fled. He went first to Italy and then by plane to Greece.

First Plea Refused Year Ago.
At that time an extradition treaty was pending between the two nations, but it was not in force. Formal ratification of the treaty was speedily effected, however, and the extradition request was put before the Greek Court of Appeals. The court refused the plea last December, holding that Insull had not committed any crime punishable by Greek law and therefore was not extraditable.

The United States department of justice entered the fight in earnest on Aug. 26, 1933, with a formal request to the Greek government for Insull's extradition, based this time on a federal indictment for violation of bankruptcy laws.

The court again refused extradition on Oct. 31. It asserted that Insull had not acted in bad faith, even if he had violated the letter of the bankruptcy laws.

U. S. Denounces Treaty.
The United States protested the verdict to the Greek government and denounced the extradition treaty as useless under the interpretation which was given it by the Court of Appeals. Forrest Hayden, assistant United States attorney general, who had gone to Athens to handle the second attempt to bring Insull home, remained in Greece for further action.

This was not long in coming. The United States sent a note to Greece "indicating" that diplomatic relations between the two countries would become endangered unless the Athens government found some way to effect the former utilities czar's return.

A month ago it was learned that Premier Tsaldaris was seeking a way

THEATER, UNION IN BATTLE OVER DRUM TECHNIQUE

New York, Dec. 14.—[Special.]—Forty pages of affidavits and other legal matter were filed in Supreme court today with a view of showing that one Mr. Mendelson cannot play a drum.

The papers were in support of a motion to require local 502 of the American Federation of Musicians to show cause why the manager of the Second Avenue theater should not be permitted to discharge without interference by the union the offending drummer. The manager, Michael Saks, says in an affidavit that Mendelson admits he is not competent to handle a drum as it should be handled to support the orchestra that accompanies Mr. Saks' musical presentations.

The union assigned Mendelson as drummer at the Second Avenue theater just before the fall season opened. Repeated efforts to dismiss him were balked by the union, the manager declared.

ARREST HUNTERS FOR SHOOTING NEAR NAVY PIER

Five duck hunters who were blasting away at the birds near the breakwater south of Navy pier yesterday were arrested and taken to the Chicago avenue police station. They were charged with discharging firearms within the city limits. The hunters, who explained that they were hungry and considered the lake a fair hunting preserve, are: Bert Borowski, 21 years old, 1327 North Damen avenue; Joseph Jaffe, 33 years old, 1021 Newton street; Edward Tierney, 40 years old, 1932 West Erie street; William F. Eckart, 33 years old, 608 North Sangamon street; and Frank Plaza, 21 years old, 1935 West Erie street.

to comply with this strongly worded note, and it was hinted that this might involve refusing to issue a passport. And when it became apparent that Insull might be forced to leave his refuge, the United States government prepared to seize him the moment he set foot outside of Greek soil.

Federal officials in Chicago believe that Insull would have little chance of escaping arrest and trial in a Chicago federal court, as his only hope to evade return to Chicago would lie in a departure from Greece without knowledge of the officials. In the normal course of events, officials have said, Insull will be arrested as soon as he leaves the jurisdictional boundary of Greece.

Two Cases Pending Here.

One criminal case involving Insull, his brother, Martin, and his son, Samuel Jr., is now pending in the United States District court. The charges are using the mails to defraud and concealing assets in bankruptcy. Sixteen of Insull's former business associates have also been named defendants. Martin Insull's case is pending an appeal against an order of the Ontario provincial court for his extradition.

Another case is pending in the Criminal court involving Samuel and Martin Insull as defendants. The charges are larceny, embezzlement, and larceny by bailment.

PILOTS' SALARY DISPUTE IS LEFT TO COMMITTEES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—After a long hearing by the national labor board today representatives of the Air Line Pilots' association and the air transport companies appointed committees to seek a solution of the wages and hours dispute on air lines.

The settlement under which the board averted a strike of pilots included reference of the dispute to a fact finding commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Shientag of New York.

The controversy centered around whether pilots should be paid on an hourly basis or on a mileage basis. Demands of the pilots included limitation of the hours of flying to 30 per month, limitation of mileage down to 30,000 miles monthly, and payment of wages by the mile instead of by the hour.

SETS HEARING TO DECIDE FATE OF FLORIDA FUGITIVE

Whether James La Rue, 27 years old, will be returned to the Florida chain gang from which he escaped will be decided next Tuesday, Chief Justice Philip J. Finneran of the Criminal court said yesterday. The court instructed attorneys on both sides in the hearing for a writ of habeas corpus to file formal briefs of their technical arguments. Gov. Horner already has ordered the extradition of La Rue to Florida.

Authorities were seeking to determine if La Rue was a bigamist as well as a wife deserter, after Mrs. Venella La Rue and her 1 year old son, James Jr., made a surprise appearance in court yesterday. Mrs. La Rue refused to discuss the case or reveal where she is living.

N. U. Co-ed Is Arrested After Auto Collision

Miss Caroline Roberts, 20 years old, a student at Northwestern university, was arrested yesterday after her automobile collided with a car driven by Karl Britzin, 32 years old, 715 Seward street, Evanston. The accident occurred at University place and Ordway avenue, Evanston. A charge of failing to signal her intention to drive away from the curb was placed against Miss Roberts and she was released in bonds of $25.

CLEWS TO VAULT ROBBERY SOUGHT IN FINGERPRINTS

Deposit Box Holders Tell Their Losses.

Fingerprints found on the looted safety deposit boxes in the vault of the closed Unity Trust and Savings bank, 3909 West North avenue, were being compared with records at the police bureau of identification yesterday. The robbery, which occurred on Wednesday afternoon, was believed to have been the work of men with long criminal records.

Ninety-six boxes were opened by the seven robbers during a three hour period while they held five persons captive in the banking quarters. The owners of forty of these boxes appeared yesterday and made sworn statements regarding their losses. By evening losses totaling $7,200 had been shown. One of those who did not make a statement at the bank was Leonard Bolts, formerly member of a beer gang and recently involved in gambling enterprises. He told the police he lost more than $3,000.

Crowd Gathered at Bank.

When representatives of the bank's receiver, William L. O'Connell, appeared yesterday to open the bank building more than 200 persons were waiting. All were eager to know if their boxes had been robbed.

C. E. Umnach, deputy receiver, and his son, R. T. Umnach, asked each person to tell the number of his box. They were able to relieve the fears of many persons quickly.

Some were told: "Probably only your money was taken as the robbers did not take documents of any kind, as far as we know, nor jewelry. Whatever they discarded is heaped together and will be sorted later and after you list the contents of your boxes we will make a search for your papers, stocks or bonds."

Tracing Fingerprint Clews.

There were more than 75 clear fingerprints on the boxes and it was necessary that box owners be eliminated. Supervising Police Captain John Stege arranged that every box owner would be notified by mail to appear at the bank building next Tuesday. Police will be on hand to take their fingerprints. In that way, Stege explained, the police will be able to eliminate those persons whose fingerprints were found and who had a right to go into the vault and handle the boxes.

Capt. Willard Malone of the Austin police, in whose district the bank building was situated, said he suspected some of the gangster who formerly had headquarters in the vicinity of Pulaski road (Crawford avenue) and North avenue. George Barker, notorious criminal, was killed last summer two blocks from the bank. The Barker gang also frequented the neighborhood, police said, and they suspected that members of this gang might have looted the bank to raise a defense fund for four of their members, who are awaiting trial for the kidnapping of John Factor.

The operators of several race handbooks used the Unity vaults for storage of cash, Capt. Malone was told, and underworld characters had plenty of opportunity to survey the scene of the robbery before it was accomplished.

Bank Closed Last Year.

The bank was closed March 10, 1932. The depositors were paid in full and the assets were taken over by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which advanced money for the liquidation. Ald. John S. Clark of the 30th ward, chairman of the city council finance committee, was a director of

LIST OF LOSERS IN VAULT ROBBERY

A list of owners of the safety boxes looted on Wednesday afternoon, when seven robbers invaded the closed Unity Trust and Savings bank at 3909 West North avenue was made public yesterday. Some of the signature cards were missing and the list is not complete. Ninety-six boxes were opened. According to the losses shown in affidavits made yesterday, the largest individual loss was $1,500, although Leonard Bolts informed Police Captain Willard E. Malone that his loss was over $3,000.

The names on the signature cards corresponding to the opened boxes were as follows:

Otto Ames and Mrs. Otto Ames, 1824 La Salle avenue.

Jewell Barth, 2850 Christiana avenue.

WOMAN LAWYER SAYS HARRIS KIN THREATENED HER

A charge that the mother and wife of Edmund Harris Jr., young architect, who is under indictment in the federal court on a charge of sending a threatening letter through the mail, threatened Attorney Alice Greenacre, prospective witness in the case, was made yesterday in the federal court of Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher presented a statement in which Miss Greenacre told of the visit of the two women to her office. Harris' wife is alleged to have shaken her fist at Miss Greenacre and remonstrated against prosecution of the case.

The statement was taken under advisement by Judge Wilkerson for perjury and decision as to what action to take. Harris is alleged to have demanded $5,000 from Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, defendant in a $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit filed by Mrs. Grace Willett, wife of Howard Willett, teaming executive. Miss Greenacre is Mrs. Hall's attorney in the alienation case. The government charges that Harris agreed to have the alienation case dismissed in return for the $5,000. The case of Harris was set for trial on Jan. 29 by Judge Wilkerson.

CHICAGO DRAWS CHRISTMAS GIFT FROM A HOODLUM

The holiday spirit invaded the felony court of Judge Jay A. Schiller yesterday and both Martin Quirk, former south side beer hoodlum, and the city of Chicago drew Christmas presents.

Quirk, whose case had been continued a dozen times, appeared to answer a vagrancy charge. His attorney argued for immediate trial or dismissal of the warrant.

"I'm hungry," Judge Schiller told the attorney, "and besides I'm too busy to hear the case. I'll continue it to Dec. 21."

Wants to Get Away.

"Your honor," interrupted Quirk, "give me a chance to get out of this lousy town. I've been pinched eight times in the last month for nothing, and I'm always coming policemen out of my hair. I've got a job in Miami and I'd like to get there."

"What kind of a job?" the judge inquired.

"Well, at least I've got relatives there," Quirk told him, "and besides I'm in the fruit business."

Assistant State's Attorney Patrick Danaher and John Phillips held a hurried conference and announced that they would be glad to not press the case if Quirk "would get out of town and stay out."

And that suits the police department, announced Sgt. William Bawick.

"I can be Santa Claus and please every one," Judge Schiller announced. "I'll set this case for Dec. 21 and if some one representing Quirk can come here and show that he's gone never to return, I'll not press the vagrancy charge."

He's on His Way.

"I'm on my way," Quirk announced, "and I won't be back."

The same spirit marked the next case, when George Downs, another south side booze dealer, was arraigned on a vagrancy charge.

"You may have the same proposition," Judge Schiller announced. The spirit of kindly cheer died out as Downs stepped forward scowling and said:

"This is my town and no one can chase me out of it. I'll be here for trial on Dec. 21."

ACCUSE BUTLERS OF THEFTS FROM SOCIETY FOLK

This thing of having the butlers double as burglars is getting past the stage among society folk in Chicago.

On Wednesday the Chicago avenue police arrested Milton Anderson, 20 years old, who has been employed for some months by the Hayden B. Harris family at 30 Cedar street. He was seized when he tried to get possession of a high powered ride by forcing the name of his former employer, Herbert Wendell Jr., 1290 Astor street. Yesterday Mr. Harris, who is a vice president of the Hayden Trust and Savings bank, reported to the police that a ring, two watches, and some silverware disappeared while Anderson was employed at his home.

A second victim of a butler burglar is Miss Edith Hoyt, 140 North Church road, Lake Forest. She obtained a warrant yesterday charging Owen J. Brown and his wife, Elsie, whom she had engaged for domestic work on Dec. 1, with taking silver, including some family heirlooms, valued at $2,500. The Browns are missing.

10 DIE AS TRAIN HITS SCHOOL BUS; 30 OTHERS HURT

Accident in Florida.

Crescent City, Fla., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Ten children were killed and some 30 injured this morning when a freight train roared out of a heavy fog just as the driver of a packed school bus swerved into a crossing.

Several of the injured, picked up where they fell along the railroad right of way from the splintered bus, are not expected to survive their injuries.

The Dead:
BERTHA GORTON, 15.
HILDA HARDY, 6.
FREDERICK SMITH, 14.
EVELYN SMITH, 9.
MERLE SMITH, 16.
WILLIAM SMITH, 12.
TROY TIFTON, 12.
EDDIE McGRADY, 10.
HAZEL McGRADY, 12.
WILLARD OWENS, 12.

The tragedy came as D. R. Niles, elderly driver of the bus, reached the end of his five mile rural route at Silver Pond Grove, south of here, and was about to bring his little charges to the Crescent City elementary school.

Parents Rush to Scene.
The crossing was on a dirt side road, not far from a paved highway and near the home of Rupert Teuton, who was said to have constructed a space for the bus to turn without the necessity for crossing the railroad tracks.

Passerby, together with members of the train crew and persons summoned from the town, gave quick aid to the injured. The most seriously hurt were taken in three ambulances to Palatka, about 30 miles away. The news spread rapidly through the farming neighborhood where the little victims lived, and scenes of sorrow were enacted as anguished parents and friends wildly sought their loved ones.

Widow Loses Four Children.
The driver of the bus survived the crash, but was badly injured. Lying on a cot in the Baptist parsonage here he expressed the wish that he, too, might die when he learned the extent of the calamity.

In the confusion which followed the crash it was hours before the real death list was known. Some bodies were mangled. Officials did not know the exact number of children in the bus, but believed there were 39.

Mrs. Bessie Smith, a widow, lost four children.

Engineer's Story of Tragedy.
Engineer R. A. Howell said he did not see the truck until he was within 10 feet of the crossing. He said he applied his brakes immediately but was going about 35 miles an hour and the brakes hardly had time to take hold before the impact.

The engineer and fireman, J. D. Hobgood, removed four dead and four injured from the front of the engine. "I'd much rather have been the one killed," Howell said. His hands and lips trembling. "Just to think of those poor, little innocent children being slaughtered that way. It was too awful for words."

"It was too much for me," Howell said. "When we had removed the broken little bodies from the front of the engine I climbed back into my cab. I don't know how long it was after the crash. I was sick."

Hobgood told of seeing one distraught mother sitting beside a little body, staring vacantly into space, not

Glendale, Cal., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Fulfilling a promise they made each other a year ago when they were married in a civil ceremony, Sidney Fox, film actress, and Charles Beahan, producer, were principals today in a quiet church wedding. They had promised that on their first anniversary they would be rewed in a church, to bind together the marriage vows they took a year ago at dawn in Harrison, N. Y.

knowing definitely if it were her own child.

Describes Scene as "Horrible."
John Reynolds, chief of police here, one of the first to arrive, described the scene as "horrible."

"There was so much screaming and confusion," he said. "I can hardly recall what happened. Grief-stricken mothers sought wildly to learn if their children survived the crash."

"It so happened that Sheriff R. J. Hancock of this county was going south this morning and was one of the first to get to the place. He took charge immediately."

"Ambulances came rushing, taking the more seriously injured to the Palatka hospital. Others were treated here."

"The train must have been going at a good speed. There was a heavy fog. The engineer stopped his train within about 300 yards of the place where the bus was hit."

GUNMAN SHOTS FRONT OF COAT OFF POLICEMAN

Detective John Collopy of the Marquette police station narrowly escaped a serious wound last night when a man he was attempting to arrest fired a shotgun while they were in hand to hand combat. The shotgun slugs flew away from the front of Collopy's overcoat, but he was unhurt.

James Eades, 23 years old, 2609 West 15th street, the gunman, was overpowered. The shooting occurred in his home, where Collopy and two other policemen, John Nemec and Charles Vosicki, were sent after there had been a report of a previous shooting.

"We had been called by Dr. Marco Petrone, 2403 West Chicago avenue," said Collopy. "He had gone to the house to dress a wound in Eades' hand. When I stepped into the front door, Eades called out: 'Hand me that other gun.' He grasped and he shot at me. I was certainly lucky I wasn't killed."

Eades was taken to the Bridewell hospital and later to the Marquette station. He declined to tell why he had resisted the policemen. His brother-in-law, Vito Netti, 900 North Western avenue, also was arrested in the house. Dr. Petrone, who left before the police arrived, said he was not informed how Eades' hand was wounded.

Woman Crushed to Death in Elevator in Detroit
Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Whitner, 55, a former resident of Minneapolis, was crushed to death in a downtown hotel tonight as she stepped into an elevator. She was killed as the car shot upward, pinning her body between the floor and the top of the doorway.

Mrs. Mary Berry, 65 years old, 3015 North Cicero avenue, died at the County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Oct. 21, in a fall at her home.

DEPUTY SERVES A WRIT AT FOUR IN THE MORNING

of How It Was Done.

There were two stories last night about the visit that Deputy Sheriff Louis G. Gatheman paid early yesterday to the home of Harry J. McCann, a postal employee who lives at 7705 Sheridan road. One was told by the McCann family and the other by the deputy.

The two agreed that Gatheman appeared at the rear door of the apartment at 4 o'clock in the morning to serve a writ of ne exeat on McCann's son, Harry G. McCann, a grocery clerk. The writ was taken out by the younger McCann's wife to prevent his leaving the state pending conclusion of her divorce suit. A hearing on the writ will be held today before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court.

Where Accounts Differ.
It is at this point that the stories of Deputy Gatheman and the McCann part company. The McCanns said that the deputy was intoxicated and terrorized their household by flourishing a pistol during his visit.

Deputy Gatheman said he had had a few drinks but was not under their influence. He denied that he had displayed a gun.

The older McCann said he was routed from his bed by a thunderous thumping on the rear door of his home. Dressing hastily he went to the rear door in his bare feet and saw a swaying figure in the gloom, he declared.

"Open the door or I'll shoot," he bellowed at me," McCann said. "He added that he was a deputy sheriff and had a writ. I opened the door and he entered with a drawn pistol and lurched against the wall. Our puppy was barking at him and he hollered, 'If you don't keep that dog quiet I'll put a slug in him.'"

Told to Go to Jail.
"He was cursing and hiccoughing. He waved his gun at me and told me to hurry up and get dressed, because he was taking me to jail. When I tried to explain he was probably after my son he shouted and fumed. By that time my wife and son came into the kitchen. He tried to read the writ and couldn't."

"My wife told him to put up his gun and be more quiet, because my son's small children were sleeping in the next room. 'Shut your mouth,' he roared, 'or I'll plug you and the kids, too!'"

With great difficulty Gatheman was made to comprehend the writ, McCann said. The son dressed and accompanied Gatheman to the deputy's automobile. In the car were another man and a woman, young McCann said.

"They told me they had been to a cabaret in Niles Center and Gatheman had decided to pick me up on the way home," he went on. "He took them home, driving 60 and 70 miles an hour, often on the wrong side of the street."

Goes to Friend's Home.
"After they got out I asked him what he was going to do with me. He told me he couldn't take me to the jail in his condition and drove me to the home of one of his friends at 18th street and Union avenue."

"Asking the friend to watch me, he

ROOSEVELT'S AUNT ARRIVES AT CAPITAL FOR HOLIDAY DINNER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Christmas dinner at the White House was the reason why Mrs. Dora Delano Forbes, aunt of President Roosevelt, arrived in New York today from her home in France.

She is going to join in that four generation family celebration, which will range in ages all the way from Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, down to Russia Doll, aged 3, the President's grandson.

However, Mrs. Forbes, who is a sister of the President's mother, does not expect to spend a great deal of her time at the White House—she'll be visiting with her own brother and sister.

In the New York town house of Mrs. James Roosevelt, a domicile adjoining the President's, Mrs. Forbes will renew acquaintance with a society that knows her well. A brother, Frederick A. Delano of Washington, is to be visited also.

Nor must her sister, Mrs. Price Collier, of New York and Tuxedo, be forgotten. She is the mother of Warren Delano Robbins, master of protocol in the Hoover administration, now minister to Canada under his cousin, Franklin.

Deputy Denies Charges.
Gatheman was found last night in his home at 6505 Greenview avenue. He came to the door in underwear and trousers.

"I did have a few drinks," he said when asked about his visit to the McCanns. "But I am surprised at their story, because I treated young McCann so nice. I did have a nap at my friend's, but I got the young lad. He breakfasted, but I happened to serve the writ at that hour because I was out driving."

Gatheman said he went to the rear door of the McCann home because he thought there might be a speaking tube at the front entrance through which he might have difficulty in making himself understood. He said he was of the opinion that political friends of the elder McCann might have prompted the family's story.

Gatheman has been in the sheriff's office since 1918. He is sponsored by John D. Hayes, Democratic committeeman of the 49th ward.

Sheriff Meyerling could not be reached last night. The sheriff's secretary, Joseph Henan, praised the deputy.

"Gatheman is one of our best men," he said. "He is able, honest, and fearless. He is smart and knows how to serve writs. He pulls a faux pas now and then, but don't we all?"

REORGANIZATION OF U. S. MARINE CORPS ORDERED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(Special)—A far reaching reorganization of the fighting forces of the marine corps so as to place them directly under the commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, effective immediately, was announced today at the navy department.

Under the new setup the east and west coast expeditionary forces have been abolished and merged into a new fleet marine force which will constitute a part of the organization of the United States fleet, and be included in the operating force plan of the fleet for each fiscal year.

Orders giving effect to the new policy were issued by Maj. Gen. J. H. Fuller, commander of the marine corps, immediately after he had received a new general order from Secretary of the Navy Swanson directing this sweeping change of policy.

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Lyman has been placed in command of the new P. M. F., and with his force staff will be stationed normally at Quantico, Va.

RELIEF FRAUDS DEFENDER RAPS JUDGE IN COURT

Erickson Continues Cases After Incident.

Nine persons charged with getting relief through fraud heard their cases continued for jury trials yesterday by Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson when Attorney Joseph B. Lofton, volunteer public defender for the Chicago Bar association, shook his anger at Judge Erickson and threatened to expose the judge's opinions on relief fraud prosecutions expressed in chambers.

Attorney Lofton assailed Judge Erickson before court room attacks and a crowd of forty defendants and witnesses when the cases were called for trial. He also assailed James A. Peterson, attorney in charge of relief fraud prosecution for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, calling his comments "a lot of mud slinging."

Attacks "Gift Ruling." The outburst came when Attorney Peterson informed the judge that Attorney Lofton had imposed upon him and other courts and upon the bar association in quoting a New York case to the effect that charity could not be obtained through fraud because it is a gift. This ruling has been repudiated in New York, where it was only a minority opinion, and has never held in any other state, Attorney Peterson declared.

"The defendants demand jury trials," Attorney Lofton shouted. "Haven't relief defendants been treated fairly in this court?" Judge Erickson asked.

"Yes, they have," Lofton replied. "Then I don't understand the reason for all this jockeying, these motions and technicalities," the judge said. "I don't believe the bar association wants you to conduct these cases in this manner."

"Quote Me," Judge Inquires. "Let the bar association decide what it wants," Lofton replied. Then he shook his finger at the judge. "When I talked these cases over with you in chambers, you asked me not to quote you," he said.

"Yes, I did," the judge said. "But you are at liberty to quote me as much as you desire."

Eight of the relief fraud cases were continued to Dec. 23 by Judge Erickson and assigned to the jury division of the Municipal court. Further delay on that date is anticipated because all cases cannot be tried in one day. A ninth will go to trial in Municipal

OIL MAN KILLED BY KIDNAPERS; POLICE QUESTION SUSPECT

Franklin, Pa., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—The body of Clark N. Witherup, 50, Venango county oil operator, who was kidnapped from his Kennerdell oil lease on Saturday, was found late last night, 30 miles away in Clarion county. He had been shot through the back of the head with a shot gun and $100 taken.

Edward Miller, 21, a vagrant, was under arrest at Clarion and was being questioned tonight by E. M. Voorhis, Venango county sheriff. It was believed he would be released.

Dr. Frank Vierling of Knox, performing an autopsy, found the shot gun had been discharged but a few feet from Mr. Witherup's head. Walter Witherup, 35, told the jury that two women and a man, strangers to him, went to the lease on Saturday and started drinking with his father. The kidnapping was discovered by the youth when he returned after a few minutes absence.

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne's court on Jan. 10.

Accused of Obstruction. Attorney Lofton has been charged by Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the relief commission, with attempting to obstruct the commission's efforts to conserve public funds by prosecuting frauds vigorously. Chairman Dunham recalled that on Dec. 6 a suit to enjoin the commission from paying the salaries of attorneys and investigators in the prosecutions was filed in federal court by Lofton's office partner, Attorney William J. Gleason.

John D. Black, president of the bar association, has defended Lofton's actions on the ground that all persons are entitled to legal defense.

The case of three persons convicted of relief frauds has been won by Attorney Lofton on writs of habeas corpus granted by Judges Joseph B. David and James F. Fardy in the Criminal court. In these cases Lofton argued the New York case, saying that charity is no crime.

Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Criminal court denied a writ sought on that argument.

Once Escorted from Danville. Attorney Lofton was escorted from Danville, Ill., by members of the American Legion in March, 1932, when he appeared there as attorney for the American Civil Liberties union to defend 14 men jailed for attempting to stage a parade of the idle. The American Civil Liberties union was branded in a report of a congressional committee submitted two years ago as an active supporter of communists in the United States in their advocacy of violence to overthrow the government.

When he appeared in Danville Lofton was accompanied by Albert Goldman, counsel for the Communist Party of America. Goldman also was escorted out of town.

FACTOR TO STAY FOR KIDNAP TRIAL, COURTNEY SAYS

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced yesterday, after a conference in Washington with Attorney General Cummings, that he had been given informal assurances that John Factor would be allowed to remain in the United States until the trial of the four Touhy gangsters indicted for kidnapping him is finished. Factor has been ordered extradited to Great Britain on a charge of swindling overseas investors, but the British are said to have consented to his remaining for the trial here.

Edward (Father Tom) McFadden, one of the four alleged kidnapers was examined in his cell yesterday by Dr. Harold S. Hubert, psychiatrist. Dr. Hubert reported that McFadden, who is 50 years old, had the appearance of a man of 75. Whether this examination portended an insanity defense was not indicated.

"I was retained by the McFadden family," Dr. Hubert declared. "McFadden sits in his cell and weeps. He appears depressed. A skull fracture he had in his youth seems to have an effect on his condition."

Permission to examine the prisoner was given by Judge Harry B. Miller. It was specified by the state, however, that Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, of the Criminal court behavior clinic, also be allowed to examine McFadden. Dr. Hoffman will report his findings Dec. 23.

500 EMPLOYEES AND BOSS JOIN GOOD FELLOWS

Two Concerns to Provide for 100 Families Each.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.
Matching every dollar to be raised by his more than 500 employees, Walter E. Olson, president of the Olson Rug company, Pulaski road and Diversey avenue, announced yesterday that the employees will be Good Fellows to 100 families the day before Christmas.

Speaking for the employees, Miss Ella Pelz, secretary to Mr. Olson, who with others of the organization has been working on the plan for several months, said:

"Any man or woman who has enjoyed employment during this depression is more or less responsible for the welfare of those who are less fortunate. Our plan calls for every employee of this company to share in this Good Fellow work."

Hotel Group Takes 100 Families.
Other Good Fellows agreeing to provide for 100 families are the managers, employees and guests of the Croydon hotel. Manager Lewis E. Collins said that the proceeds of a show which will be given in the lobby of the Croydon on Thursday night, Dec. 21, will furnish food and toys to 100 families living within a few miles of the hotel at 616 Rush street.

"Stars of the stage and radio will perform at this Good Fellow party," said Mr. Collins.

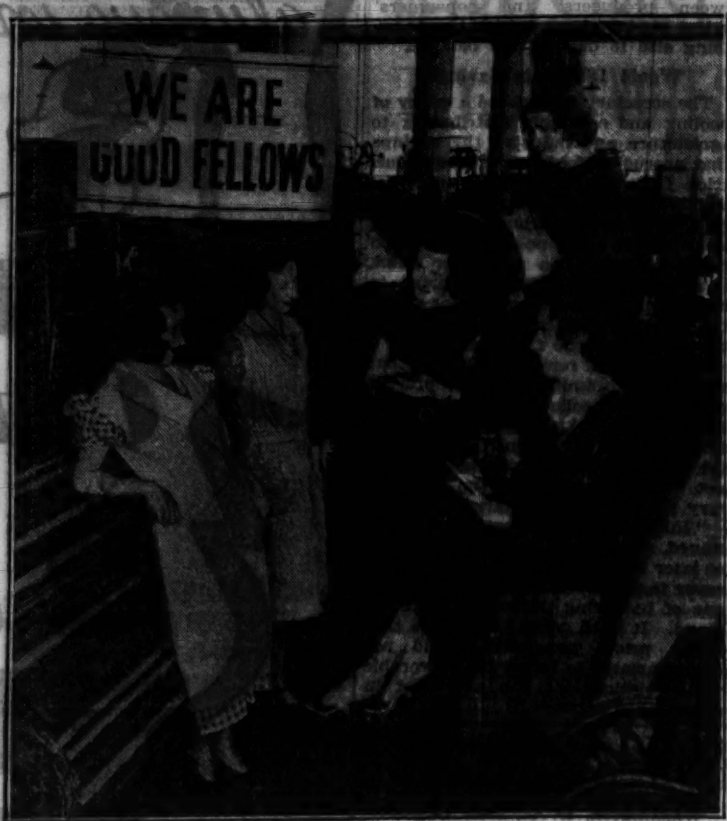

These are what you call wholesale Good Fellows. If you cannot take part in these happy occasions just call up Superior 0100 and ask to be enrolled as a Good Fellow and take care of as many families as you can.

Twice as Many Letters.
So far more than twice as many letters have come to the Good Fellow bureau at 1 South Dearborn street asking for Christmas baskets as were received in 1932.

There are hundreds of persons who find it impossible to take care of a family at Christmas time either because of finances or their inability to be in Chicago at that time, and they send their checks to the bureau. The Tribune purchases baskets of food and toys with this cash and Tax Tribune circulation trucks deliver these baskets the day before Christmas. Every penny that you give goes for baskets.

Here's a suggestion to you, young Tribune reader. Perhaps you are only 10 years old. Take ten pennies, ask ten of your playmates to do likewise, and then give the money to your daddy, who will be kind enough

EDITH M'CORMICK VALUABLES TO BE SOLD ON JAN. 15

Probate Court Approves
Date for Sale.

The Chicago Title and Trust company, executor, announced yesterday that the personal effects of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick—except a number of her art objects, already shipped to New York for vending—would be offered at public sale beginning on Jan. 15.

Those interested in purchasing may have a preview of the offerings on and after Jan. 16. Part of the articles will be on display at Mrs. McCormick's home residence, 1000 Lake Shore drive, and the rest at Villa Turin, her Lake Forest estate. The sale will be conducted at those places.

Judge Approves Sale Date.
An order for the sale of all the personal effects was given in October by Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court, but no dates were set for the disposal at that time. The New York sale, at which Mrs. McCormick's famous collection of jewelry will be offered, is scheduled for Jan. 2 to Jan. 6, and the date for the Chicago and Lake Forest sales was approved yesterday by Judge O'Connell.

The jewelry alone was valued by appraisers of Mrs. McCormick's estate at $771,000.

Judge O'Connell has approved the appointment of Michael Tauber & Co. of Chicago and the American Art Association-Anderson Galleries of New York as agents for the sales.

Claims of $382,184 Allowed.
The same judge yesterday allowed claims of $382,184, previously secured by a trust deed to the town house, against the estate. The claimant is the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

The claims are for the principal and interest of two notes signed by Mrs. McCormick, one for $500,000 executed in 1928 which fell due Dec. 1, and in earlier one for $382,000, which she signed in 1924 as president of the Michigan-Walton Building corporation.

Judge O'Connell continued until Jan. 26 disposition of the claim for $674,875 against the estate by the John Rockefeller McCormick Institute of Infectious Diseases, which Mrs. McCormick and her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, founded as a memorial to a dead son.

Attorneys for the institute told the judge that Mrs. McCormick, in 1917, promised to give the institute an en-

MORGENTHAU STILL THINKS SHOWER WAS A WISE PURCHASE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Henry Morgenthau Jr. still thinks installation of a shower for his convenience and a cooling system at the farm credit administration last summer was a "proper government expenditure."

"At the time I ordered the cooling system and shower I thought it was a proper expenditure and I still think so," he told newspaper men today.

Controller General McCarl has ruled that the bill of $1,400 could not be paid from the emergency credit relief fund against which the voucher was drawn. It was considered likely another voucher would be drawn against a different fund and that McCarl would accept it. But should it become necessary, treasury officials indicated Morgenthau would pay the bill himself before allowing assessment against the disbursing officer who made the outlay.

Part of Estate to Be Sold.
Nine acres of Mrs. McCormick's estate at Lake Forest are to be sold to an undisclosed purchaser, represented by Albert H. Wetten & Co. for $75,000 as a result of an order entered yesterday by Judge O'Connell. This order authorizes the Chicago Title and Trust company to make the sale and thus be able to redeem all of the estate from the judgment sale brought about by the American National Bank and Trust company.

The estate, comprising the fifty-two room residence, the caretaker's house, and 208 acres, was sold on Oct. 24 for $51,424 at a sheriff's sale, representing the amount of the judgment obtained by the old Straus National bank against Mrs. McCormick during her lifetime, plus interest to the date of sale.

Bandit Suspect Escapes from Police Station

Chester Barrows, 21 years old, 710 West 46th street, a robbery suspect, was being sought last night after he had walked out of the Stockyards police station while police were questioning his companions in another room about the burglary of a store at 4561 South Union avenue. His companions are Charles O'Neil, 1424 West 83d street, and Robert Le Doux, 759 Monticello avenue.

RUSSIANS FIND AIR IN STRATOSPHERE IS SAME AS HERE

(Copyright 1933, by The New York Times.)
MOSCOW, Dec. 14.—The discovery that the oxygen content of the air in the stratosphere at about 80,000 feet is about the same as that at earth level was reported today by Dr. Golitsman, a member of the Leningrad academy of sciences.

Dr. Golitsman said this fact had been established by records made by three separate sets of instruments at the greatest height reached by the soviet stratosphere balloon on its recent ascent.

SEIZE PASTOR AFTER WOMAN CHARGES THEFT

The Rev. Stanislaus Prybyz, who in 1932 and again in 1933 received publicity when he announced the beginning of a "back to the farm" movement for Polish-Americans under his leadership, will be arraigned in the felony court this morning on a charge of larceny. He was booked yesterday on the complaint of Miss Amelia Barszewska, 4949 South Lincoln street, who said he failed to return $1,500 she loaned him for the establishment of a convent in Florida. Prybyz was arrested on Wednesday night in Hammond. He said the charge was the result of a misunderstanding.

William J. McGah Named as Master in Chancery

Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court yesterday announced the appointment of William J. McGah as a master in chancery. Mr. McGah is a member of the law firm of Whitty & McGah. He is married and lives with his family at 1125 North Linden avenue, Oak Park. He was graduated from Loyola university in 1918 and was admitted to the bar the same year.

PROFIT CONTROL NEW DEAL NEED, WALLACE AVERS

Rule of Exchanges Comes First, He Believes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace suggested in his annual report made public today that full realization of the implications of the new deal will require strict limitation and regulation by the government of the profits of business enterprises.

Of more immediate necessity, in his opinion, is government supervision and regulation of speculation on grain and other commodity exchanges. The secretary outlined on this question the views of the administration, which purports to initiate legislation at the approaching session of congress for government control of the commodity and stock exchanges.

Program Handicapped, He Says. "Speculation on the commodity exchanges," said Mr. Wallace, "handicapped the agricultural recovery program during the summer. Temporarily it pushed prices out of line with supply and demand conditions to such an extent that the need for crop adjustment seemed obviated. It raised false hopes among the farmers, belied the statistical evidence that farm production was overexpanded, and deceptively narrowed the spread between the current and the fair exchange values of wheat and cotton."

The secretary conceded that trading in futures is an important part of the present system of grain marketing. "A reasonable amount of speculation," he added, "gives a liquid character to the futures markets and aids in furnishing a readily available means whereby grain merchants may hedge their risks. Trading in futures also serves as a barometer of prices, a reflection of market factors, material and psychology."

Hits Uncontrolled Speculation. But it is one thing to recognize a legitimate place for futures trading and another to accept uncritically all the abuses to which it may give rise. Uncontrolled speculation, particularly uncontrolled speculation by individual large operators, destroys whatever value the system may normally possess. Such speculation, always obnoxious when the country is engaged in efforts to regulate farm production, uncontrolled speculation does not go well with controlled production.

Government supervision has had a wholesome effect and has curbed grain speculation materially and usefully since the grain futures act was passed in 1922. It has caused the elimination of many faulty practices and has led to remedial action by the grain exchanges themselves. It has met with opposition chiefly from persons who maintain that speculation stabilizes markets and lessens price fluctuations. The most violent opposition has always come from those who profit most in commissions or desire other monetary gains from a large volume of speculative business.

Supervision Held Necessary. "Up to a certain point speculation may have the effect of stabilizing markets and lessening price fluctuations. Beyond it, opposite results develop. Information furnished to the government under the terms of the grain futures act has shown repeatedly that uncontrolled speculation dominates price movements for short periods to the injury of the farmers and the community in general."

Individuals have sometimes held speculative lines exceeding 10,000,000 bushels. Single traders have, on certain days, done a volume of business exceeding 10 per cent of the total futures business done on those days. Federal supervision of grain exchange trading is necessary, as this year's experience demonstrated anew.

"It is perfectly true that improper speculation, if it takes place on the

ICKES TO APPROVE DISTRICT 42 MILLION LOAN IN DAY OR TWO

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes will put his final stamp of approval on the $41,948,000 easy money loan allocated to the Chicago sanitary district last week some time over the week-end, it was learned today.

Lloyd Landau, solicitor of the public works administration, returned from Chicago today with the loan contract signed by the trustees of the district.

Work on the Lincoln and south park boards' application for a grant to complete construction of the Chicago outer drive bridge was being rushed today with the prospects good that the loan may be made before the easy money fund gives out.

Only 224 millions out of the three billion 800 million is left, the administration announced today.

Horner Acts in Loans. Springfield, Ill., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Gov. Henry Horner tonight completed the state's action necessary to bring to the Chicago sanitary district the PWA loans for building sewage disposal stations. He addressed a letter to the federal authorities assuring them that his call for the contemplated third special session of the general assembly soon after New Year's will be broad enough to permit of all state action required by the federal authorities as condition precedent to the two loans.

exchanges, does not wholly originate there. There is consequently no point in blaming the exchanges exclusively. Speculation has widespread sources among the general public, among people who want to put themselves in a favorable relation to changing values.

Powerless to Control. "They may realize fully that the collective result of their individual speculations may be disastrous, but they are as powerless to control the result as are farmers acting individually to control farm production. It is imperative for the government to supervise, and if necessary to regulate, grain speculation because such supervision is the only means of preventing abuses."

It was apropos pending agreements over which he and the grain trust fell out with George Peck that the secretary was moved to suggest government limitation of business profits. Some of these agreements, he said, would allow processors and distributors of farm products to make larger profits than at present.

Such "increases," generally, he went on, "would obviously work against the purposes of the agricultural act and the national recovery act and would counteract the desired redistribution of purchasing power. Regulation of production and of producers' prices would seem to require, as a logical corollary, the regulation of profits. When profits increase greatly out of proportion to wage payments, consumption inevitably falls. Farm returns fall in consequence. It is necessary to arrange matters so that processors and others who, under marketing agreements and licenses, are required to pay increased prices to farmers shall not add more than that increase in their prices to consumers. Usually, they can well afford to add less."

Seeks "Better Total Return." "This question of profits goes, of course, beyond the industries that handle agricultural products. Stability in our industrial as well as in our agricultural life may depend on answering it correctly. It may be necessary to review very critically the influence of excessive profits on our economic life. Farmers know well that sharply rising farm prices produce expansion which shortly brings prices down. Similarly, unbalanced expansion results in industry from temporarily high profits, so that the profits eventually are wiped out. In both agriculture and industry a better total return would probably result, in the long run, from prices and profits that fluctuated less. One gain would be a drop in speculation, which thrives on instability."

"It is not high prices or high profits that cause speculation, but changing prices and profits. Methods that prevented undue fluctuations would be more powerful than many laws in curbing speculation. But more important than the prevention of speculation is the distribution of income in such a manner as to close and not widen the gap between production and consumption. Excessive margins between producers' and consumers' prices tend perhaps as much as anything else to destroy the balance."

Would Distribute Savings. The secretary enunciated a policy of pooling and equitably distributing to agriculture and industry the savings that accrue to food traders and industries from lifting of the anti-trust laws. It would be unfair, he argued, to allow nonfarm groups to reap all such profits made possible in a farm relief measure. On the other hand, if all such profits were diverted to agriculture the nonfarm groups would be deprived of incentive to promote the success of the farm relief act.

Mr. Wallace reminds farmers that while the administration's present policy of controlled inflation may be looked to for lightening their debt and tax burden to the extent that it raises the prices of their products they can not depend exclusively on a monetary policy to restore farm incomes.

"Inflation is not a cure-all," he continued. "When it stopped, as sooner or later it would, we should again discover that the agricultural problem is one of balancing production with demand. It is of great importance that rising prices generally should not cause farmers to forget that favorable price relationships can not exist in overstocked markets."

Chicagoan Sworn in as U.S. Patent Commissioner Aid

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(P.) Richard J. Spencer, a Chicago patent attorney, was sworn in today as first assistant commissioner of patents, a position paying $7,500, less the 15 per cent economy cut. Spencer served as an examiner in the patent office in 1924-25. He will take charge of appeals in trade mark cases, sit as a member of the board of appeals in patent cases and become head of the office in the absence of the commissioner of patents.

ROOSEVELT WAR IS OPENED ON BIG TAX CHEATERS

Morgenthau Says Banker
Mitchell Must Pay.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—President Roosevelt's war against Wall street and big business entered upon another active phase today as the treasury pointed its armament against corporations and individuals accused of cheating the government on income tax payments.

Using one flagrant case as an example, Acting Treasury Secretary Morgenthau declared that "in the best public interest" he would refuse to accept compromise proposals in civil income tax claims.

Will Read His Report Today.

At the same time Mr. Morgenthau was putting the finishing touches on a report he will read tomorrow to the subcommittee of the house ways and means committee on the subject of plugging up supposed loopholes by which rich taxpayers have escaped or evaded the payment of income taxes.

An administration spokesman asserted that there will be an unrelenting campaign to keep corporations or individuals from sequestering their profits or surpluses in untaxable sources.

The first taxpayer who felt the brunt of the new treasury ruling against compromises was Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank of New York. Mr. Mitchell, who was prosecuted criminally by the federal government and acquitted by a jury on a charge that he had conspired to cheat the government, still is subject to a civil claim filed by the treasury to recover the amount of taxes said to have been avoided.

Hopes to Collect Full Tax.

Mr. Mitchell, it was revealed, had made a compromise offer to the treasury department and according to a high official the banker felt assured by previous officials that the compromise would be accepted.

But with Acting Secretary Morgenthau's entry into the control of the treasury, all such assurances have gone by the board, it was stated. In the Mitchell case, Mr. Morgenthau announced this morning that the proposed compromise had been suggested to him.

"However," he said, dryly, "I believe it to be in the best public interest to proceed with the case and to collect the full tax."

Declined to Discuss Amount.

The secretary declined to discuss the total amount claimed by the government, or the amount of the compromise offer of Mr. Mitchell, but it was reported the banker's offer was around a figure of $100,000.

There is a fairly large list of other similar cases pending, including many cases in which corporations feel they are fairly entitled to a reduction of the sums claimed by the treasury.

That it will be the burden of the taxpayers to assume the proof of their case was indicated by the attitude of Secretary Morgenthau and some of the treasury under-officials.

The disposition of the treasury, it was indicated, will be to go to court with the cases, on the chance that in the end, despite the long legal struggle to ensue, the treasury will receive a larger and more adequate sum.

But it was declared that in addition to this motive, the New Dealers, in the treasury and up to President Roosevelt himself, would be pleased with the task of taking the big taxpayers into court, where they would be put against the fire of public opinion and public prejudice.

Several cases are pending in which the contested tax payments run into millions of dollars. The total amount of deficiency tax cases pending before the board of tax appeals on Oct. 31 was $337,824,764. Added to this sum is an amount estimated at 200 million dollars in deficiency cases pending in

MRS. BULA CROKER.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 14.—All members of the Palm Beach county civil works administration council, including the chairman, Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the former Tammany hall leader, have resigned.

Mrs. Croker announced the resignations at a mass meeting which she called here last night, following a row between the county council and state CWA headquarters at Tallahassee over Mrs. Croker's attempt to displace Miss Lillie Carr, social service worker assigned here by the state council.

Previously Walter Wilbur, state director of social service for the CWA, came here to seek settlement of the controversy over Miss Carr. He asked for the resignation of the county council, saying he acted on instructions from Fagg. At Tallahassee Fagg said if necessary he would send in an outside administrator to clear up the local situation.

Mrs. Croker, Fagg said, "has not been cooperative and in many instances has taken things into her own hands."

The bureau of internal revenue, but not yet brought before the board of tax appeals. Thus, the claims involved in the Morgenthau policy amount to about $337,000,000.

In his recommendations to the congressmen for the closing of the income tax loopholes, Mr. Morgenthau is to follow, it was learned, in considerable degree the suggestions made by experts for the committee.

Tax Accumulated Surpluses.

The new treasury tax expert, Prof. Roswell Magill of Columbia, has examined the committee's report and made various proposed changes, but in the main, it was said, the acting secretary, in his testimony before the house ways and means committee will endorse the proposals to devise means of further legislation to tax unearned income, interest and dividends, and to tax accumulated corporation surpluses.

The administration is reported to take the attitude that the present level of income tax yields to the treasury is sunk to such a record low—it is lower than ever before since the income tax legislation was adopted—because of evasions by wealthy taxpayers.

Up against the prospect of a 6 billion dollar budget in the year, the administration is casting about for ways of financing it without burdening an already groaning tax paying public beyond the point of endurance.

GOLD PROGRAM BETRAYS TRUST, N. Y. CLUB VOTES

Return to Old Standard Is Demanded.

New York, Dec. 14.—(Special.)—The Union League club of the City of New York adopted a resolution tonight at a meeting of 250 members charging the Democratic party with a betrayal of trust in President Roosevelt's gold policy and demanding an immediate return to the gold standard.

The resolution was introduced by ex-Gov. Charles E. Whitman, as chairman of the club's committee on public affairs. It was adopted unanimously. Charles C. Paulding, president of the club, presided.

The resolution read as follows: "The Union League Club of the City of New York hereby charges the Democratic party, using control of the legislative and executive branches of the government, with the betrayal of the people's trust. In the national election of 1932, the Democratic platform advocated a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards. During the campaign President Roosevelt and his supporters assured the maintenance of our currency and the gold standard, and thus with the Democratic promise definitely prevented our currency from being an issue in the campaign."

"The administration in abandoning the gold standard has indicated that it proposes to substitute a dollar with only a theoretical relation to gold."

Charges Repudiation.

"In advocating the gold clause, it has repudiated the government's own obligations and in dishonoring all forms of the government's promise to pay it has throughout the land impaired credit which must rest on confidence in the fulfillment of obligations."

"In providing for the purchase of 3 billion dollars of government bonds by the Federal Reserve bank, congress acted in pursuance of a manifest purpose of the government to pervert the federal reserve system from service to the industry and commerce of the country to a mere agent for facilitating governmental expenditures. In providing for the loan of 3 billion dollars of greenbacks from the printing presses without any means for their redemption in basic money, congress defied experience and history."

"People's Will Defied."

"In authorizing the unlimited coinage of silver, congress defied the people's will, expressed in two successive national elections, when for the last time the people had an opportunity to vote on the issue of sound money. In authorizing devaluation of the dollar by a reduction of up to fifty per cent of its weight in gold in order to scale down the debt of the government and all other debts, congress completed a record of repudiation, dishonesty, and dishonor, without parallel in the history of the national legislature."

The administration's experiments with money are directed to an artificial inflation in prices. It continued they can hardly fail to end in currency inflation. The administration's policy of monetary experiment for inflation is a policy of confiscation and destruction. None can suffer from it more than the farmer and the laborer, whose interests it professes to serve.

Monetary Policy Denounced.

"The Union League Club of the City of New York denounces the monetary policy of the government as indicated by congressional enactment and the acts of the administration. It is a policy founded on a breach of faith and executed in repudiation. It is a policy which will impoverish the thrifty and enterprising. It is a policy which courts the danger of impoverishment of the people. It is a policy which goes against the declared will of the people that the currency of our country shall be sound."

"Therefore, be it resolved by the Union League Club of the City of New York that the monetary policies of the present government, as shown by the acts of congress and the measures taken by the administration are subversive of confidence in the currency and the maintenance of sound values. The promotion of the well-being of all the people depends on confidence that the rewards of labor, enterprise, thrift and investment will accrue in sound money."

"Resolved, that the gold standard should be forthwith returned to the American people."

MANUFACTURERS OF INDIANA ASK RETURN TO GOLD

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 14.—Resolutions urging return of the United States to the gold standard, and condemning a part of President Roosevelt's recovery program, were adopted tonight at the annual meeting of the Indiana Manufacturers' association.

The association endorsed the "Shannon bill" which would prohibit the government or its branches from engaging in industry in competition with private capital. The association went on record as favoring "a sound currency based on gold" and asked "prompt and conclusive establishment of the value of the dollar."

"Retards Foreign Recovery."

New York, Dec. 14.—Dr. Raymond Leslie Buell said today that "whatever its domestic advantages may be, the gold buying policy of the administration is forcing down prices in gold standard countries, thus retarding foreign recovery."

Dr. Buell, who is president of the Foreign Policy association, told a conference of Presbyterian ministers that the NRA must soon choose between aggressive nationalism and international planning.

SECOND CHICAGO EMPLOYER LOSES HIS BLUE EAGLE

The second withdrawal of a Blue Eagle from a Chicago employer was ordered last night by NRA authorities in Washington. The Rensselaire Valet shop, 510 Diversey boulevard, was directed to surrender its emblem.

The shop, which is owned by Dan Altman, was charged with having forced employees to sign receipts for back wages on pain of losing their jobs. When it was discovered that the receipts were false, NRA authorities said, Altman discharged one of his men for smoking, which never had been forbidden before.

Attorney David J. Shipman, counsel for Chicago compliance board number 1, which handled the case, said the principal complaint filed against the valet shop was made by James Williams, a Negro, who claimed Altman owed him $11 for back pay. Altman promised to pay, but later the board was informed that he had taken a receipt from Williams, but hadn't paid him.

him, Shipman said. Later he admitted he had faked the receipt and told the board to do what they could about it, the attorney said.

The first Chicago employer to lose the emblem was Peter Cecchi, who operates the Royal Oak at 2806 Cottage Grove avenue. He was cited for working his employees longer than the code permitted, for paying less than the stipulated wages and for falsifying records and books to defeat the re-employment agreement.

Sec'y Perkins to Address
Rail Labor Heads Here

Secretary of Labor Frances P. Perkins has accepted an invitation to speak next Wednesday evening before the banquet of 1,700 railway labor officials at the Palmer house, union officials announced yesterday. Other speakers will be A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executive's association, and George M. Morrison, president of the Railway and Steamship Clerks' union. David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, will be toastmaster.

GOVERNOR RAPS
WALLACE'S RULELanger Addresses Illinois
Farmers.

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—Addressing 2,000 farmers tonight in a mass meeting at the Kankakee armory, Gov. William Langer of North Dakota made a strong plea for more direct action to aid farmers and paid Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace an ironic compliment.

"If Wallace would go to school for a few more years," the governor declared, "he would make a good second rate county agent."

Although he had been accused of heading a radical government in a radical state, Gov. Langer said, he had discovered that there was even more radicalism outside the boundaries of North Dakota.

"All that the farmers want is cost of production plus a reasonable profit," he asserted.

Defends Mortgage Action.

The governor defended his conduct in declaring a moratorium against foreclosures of mortgages. First, he said, he had been asked by banks, insurance companies and building and loan associations to declare a moratorium in their favor, and did so. He then gave the same treatment to the "little fellow," he added, writing a letter to sheriffs instructing them not to seize lands, cows or horses on foreclosure proceedings.

"I promised that I would not call out the troops," he said, "except to shoot the sheriffs. We have not had to shoot the sheriffs and even the lawyers have not taken the foreclosure action to the Supreme court."

Reduces State's Tax Bill.

Gov. Langer told of reducing North Dakota's tax bill from ten million dollars to four and a half million a year. He declared that, while he was a Republican, he was heartily in favor of President Roosevelt's recovery program.

His speech was made under the auspices of the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union of America. Edward Kennedy, secretary of the National Farmers union, who presided, said that he approved the President's program, but that farmers should see "he makes no mistakes." Before going to Kankakee, Gov. Langer visited Gov. Hornor in Springfield, and laid a wreath on the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

CALLS CONSTITUTION
PROTECTOR IN U. S.
OF AVERAGE MAN

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—We must return to the first principles of the constitution and have a spiritual recovery in this country before there can be any economic advancement, Senator Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana said in an address to Depauw university students in chapel today.

Tracing the historical development of the country, the senator said the constitution had accounted largely for the progress of this great country, as it was written for the protection of the average man. "This average man needs all the protection the government can give him. A million dollars can protect itself," he said. "The constitution is more than a written document; it is an institution of liberty. It stands between you and tyranny."

Senator Robinson alleged that, due to the spiritual decline that came in with the twentieth century, this nation took the downward road that led to destruction. "Came Oct. 29, 1929, and the crash. This nation was plunged into sackcloth and ashes. There we shall remain until we return to first principles," he said. In closing the senator said: "There must be a return to honesty and decency for business in the higher brackets."

GREEN TO ACT TO LIFT INJUNCTION AGAINST NRA

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green announced yesterday that he would file suit in the United States District court at Freeport, Ill., to dissolve the injunction which blocks the NRA regional board from acting in the dispute between the National Lock company of Rockford and its employees. The injunction was granted by Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff, who on Wednesday at Rockford overruled a government motion to transfer the case to the federal court. Attorney Green said that he would ask the federal court to take jurisdiction in spite of the ruling of Judge Shurtleff, on the ground that the NRA board members are federal employees.

of the "captive" mine workers' election last month.

Balloting begins at 1 a. m. tomorrow in the Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., plants of the company and at 5 a. m. at its Steubenville plant. The company has 11,500 employees.

Acting under orders of the attorney general, the department of justice has placed agents at each city to act as observers and report any acts of intimidation, violence or coercion.

In West Virginia state troopers were concentrated to avoid violence.

Situation Tense at Weirton.

The situation was reported tense at Weirton. Officials of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, charged the company with coercion in its closing of five mills, while re-opening three in Clarksburg.

The union telegraphed Senator Robert D. Wagner, chairman of the labor board, however, that it is not calling a strike. It recommended that its followers who feared loss of their jobs unless they voted, cast blank ballots.

Senator Wagner announced earlier today that the labor board would conduct another election, probably next week. Later he had announced he had turned the case over to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, recommending steps to obtain an injunction restraining the company from interfering with the board's plan.

Employees of the Weirton Steel company were urged tonight at a mass meeting at Weirton not to vote at tomorrow's election and another gathering was ordered for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, at which the pleas will be repeated.

William Long, president of the Weir chapter of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, renewed his attacks upon the election of representatives for collective bargaining. Then he asked the men to turn out at another meeting tomorrow, but reiterated denials there would be a strike.

Will Seek Full Penalties.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—

2 STATES ACT TO BRING CHILD LABOR LAW HALF WAY TO RATIFICATION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—Word that West Virginia and Minnesota had approved the child labor amendment yesterday, bringing that 9 year old measure to the halfway mark, was received today by Clara M. Boyer, industrial director of the children's bureau.

Only six states had ratified in the eight years preceding the 1933 revival of interest which has brought twelve more in, a total of eighteen. Thirty-six are needed.

Minnesota's action on the amendment was completed when the state senate approved a concurrent resolution adopted yesterday in the state house of representatives.

Court action on the Weirton Steel company's refusal to let the national labor board supervise an election among its employees tonight became virtually unavoidable.

After publication of a warning from Hugh S. Johnson that if the concern proceeds tomorrow with a "company dominated" election the full penalties of the industrial law will be sought, Ernest T. Weir, executive head of the concern, said he had talked to the NRA leader by phone and "we both agreed that it was a matter for the courts to decide."

Mr. Weir concluded a formal statement issued in Pittsburgh with the assertion: "Meanwhile, we shall not interfere with our employees holding the election which they are entitled to hold tomorrow under their by-laws."

Johnson at White House.

Johnson himself could not immediately be reached. He was at the White House attending a formal dinner for the judiciary. But his associates did not believe that the telephone conversation with Weir had materially altered his conclusions on the case, and Senator Wagner, chairman of the labor board, remained firmly convinced that what the Weirton concern was doing constituted a clear cut violation of the industrial law.

Weir said the conversation occurred just before he received the telegram in which Johnson said the steel man's secretary had refused his attempts to speak to him.

Johnson did not mention the conversation when reports of contact with Weir, emanating from Pittsburgh, caused him to release the text of his telegram. Before sending it he had extended conferences with President Roosevelt.

BOND FORFEIT

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court yesterday refused to set aside the order forfeiting the $20,000 bond of James (Fur) Sammons, hoodlum and killer, now serving a life sentence in the Indiana state penitentiary. The bond was posted to insure Sammons' appearance for trial here on a charge of assault to kill growing out of the $28,000 International Harvester company pay roll robbery in 1920. The bond was posted by Val-Isle Alexopoulos, 3144 Montrose avenue, who scheduled his home, valued at $30,000, and property at 5553 Diversey avenue, valued at $20,000, and by Nicholas Alex, 3604 Westworth avenue, who scheduled property at 8032 South Ashland avenue, valued at $25,000. Assistant State Attorney W. A. Carroll announced that he would take immediate action to collect the bond.

ILLINOIS ASSIGNS 231,750 TO CWA JOBS IN 25 DAYS

Meets Quota and Averts Possible Reduction.

Illinois will report to President Roosevelt today the mobilization of an army of 231,750 workers in the last 25 days. Little more than three weeks ago, when the civil works administration reemployment program was launched, not one of that number was steadily employed and the majority were on relief rolls. Today, the date set by the President for the conclusion of the program, finds this state's quota of CWA jobs filled.

In Cook county, 123,021 persons have been assigned to work. Because of a shortage of tools and technical designs, only about 100,000 are actually working today. The remainder must wait a few days before they are placed at work on various civil works projects and start receiving wages from the federal government.

How Jobs Are Distributed.
The following table reveals the distribution of jobs to the various governmental units in Cook county:

City department of public works (street repairs, etc.)	25,000
Sanitary district (sewerage treatment, bridges, etc.)	5,010
Board of education (school grounds, etc.)	5,313
City hall	2,000
County highway improvements	12,275
Lincoln park improvements	5,215
Year park improvements	5,215
Suburban district improvements	15,700
Miscellaneous county improvements	1,774
Forest preserve improvements	9,043
Cook Park improvements	413
County building	180
Total jobs assigned	123,021

Avoids Danger of Loss.
By filling its quota before the deadline, Illinois has avoided the danger of losing some of its share of the 4,000,000 jobs given the forty-eight states under the CWA program. Cook county has also guarded against the possibility of some other Illinois county getting part of its share of the state's quota. Several counties, it was said, have not filled their quotas and their surplus jobs will be distributed throughout the state where they are most needed.

Of the 123,021 persons on the CWA pay roll in Cook county, approximately 40,000 were formerly on the work relief pay roll of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. They were transferred immediately to civil works administration projects where they began receiving a minimum of $15 a week for a thirty-hour week instead of the $4.50 or $5 they received for a few hours' work each week.

Approximately 20,000 more persons were taken off the relief lists and put to work. The remaining 63,000 persons were selected from the registration list of more than 250,000 names on which those receiving relief and those not receiving relief were carried without any distinction between them.

Believe Majority Were on Relief.
A query as to how many relief clients have been employed by the CWA and how many not on relief have been given jobs could not be answered definitely by the officials because the registration cards do not show the relief status of the applicant for employment. Names are selected at random from the registration files. It seemed certain, it was said, that the great majority of persons benefiting by the CWA employment drive were formerly dependent upon the relief commission for support.

Probably not more than 25,000 persons in Cook county who were jobless but not on the relief rolls received jobs from the civil works administration, one official estimated.

No transients have been given CWA jobs, under the rules of the civil works administration. This class of unemployed is being cared for by a separate department which provides food and shelter and pays small wages for a certain amount of work, enough in some instances to pay the transient's transportation home.

Survey Registration Cards.
A survey is being made of the 325,000 registration cards in the files of the administration with a view to providing statistics concerning the applicants. The cards, in addition to name and address of the applicant, tell the age, height, and weight, birthplace, nationality, physical handicap, if any, last regular job, kind of employment, "best job" ever held, the name of former employers, pay expected, and education of the applicant.

Some 40,000 war veterans in Cook county received preference over the other applicants in the distribution of the jobs.

The program, as outlined by President Roosevelt, calls for the employment of the men until Feb. 15. Those who have started work recently and those who have not start will thus be employed for about two months. Federal officials have predicted, however, that more funds will be provided to continue the employment after Feb. 15 if national conditions justify the move.

Close Relief Station Tomorrow.
The South Shore relief station, 3510 Commercial avenue, will be closed tomorrow as part of the retrenchment program in relief expenses which has been made possible by the civil works program. Wilfred S. Reynolds, county administrator of CWA and of relief, announced yesterday. Orders have already been given to close six of the thirteen suburban relief stations.

The South Shore station was opened Jan. 4, 1932, and its peak load was reached in April, 1932, when it provided relief for 3,254 families. Since then, the case load has dropped until only 2,515 families were supported in November.

The remaining families receiving relief in the district will be cared for by the Roseland and Woodland relief stations.

CAPITAL EXPECTS DONNE'S OUSTING FROM HOLC POST

Illinois Group to Call on Chairman Today.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—Removal of William G. Donne as manager of the Illinois division of the Home Owners' Loan corporation and a complete shakeup in the personnel of his organization were regarded as imminent today.

Chairman John Fahey and other members of the national HOLC board, it was learned, are conducting an intensive investigation of Mr. Donne's administration of the corporation's affairs in Illinois. They expect to announce a decision within a few days as to what steps are to be taken.

Several leading Chicago real estate men, it was understood, have been in Washington within the last few days at Mr. Fahey's request to discuss the Illinois situation while persistent reports of mismanagement and inefficiency on Mr. Donne's part continue to pour into HOLC headquarters here.

A delegation claiming to represent thousands of Illinois home owners is expected to call on Chairman Fahey tomorrow with a demand for Donne's removal.

For some time the HOLC chairman and other officials of the corporation have openly admitted their discontent with the progress of the home loan program in Illinois under Mr. Donne's direction. Not only have they believed that the process of making loans is proceeding too slowly in Illinois, but they have taken definite action to speed up the appraisal requisite to the loans by transferring all appraisal work to the Chicago Real Estate board.

The order on appraisals came after complaints were registered that Donne's organization was diverting a major portion of the Chicago appraisal business to the Central States Appraisal company, organized by a relative of Donne's and by some of his political associates at the time the Chicago HOLC office was set up.

The comprehensive survey now being conducted by the HOLC board resulted, it was understood, from an inspection of the Illinois HOLC setup by the board's Republican member, Walter Newton, former secretary to ex-President Hoover.

On Mr. Donne's own admission, according to reports here, only 500 loans, approximately, have been made out of 26,200 applications in the four and one-half months of his organization's operation.

DONNE DEFENDS RECORD.
The administration of the Home Owners' Loan corporation in Illinois, which has been attacked by home owner groups, was defended yesterday by Mr. Donne, who declared that loans were being completed as quickly as possible and predicted the completion of more than six thousand by April.

"Of the 26,200 applications filed," said Mr. Donne, "mortgagee's consent to accept HOLC loans are missing in approximately 12,000 cases. An additional 5,000 applications have been rejected because the properties are not eligible for federal aid under the home loan act. This leaves a balance of 28,700 complete applications on file, of which 18,800 have been analyzed and 7,900 approved for loans."

"The public should appreciate that the apparent delay in the closing of loans is necessarily incidental to the setting up of machinery in this office adequate to cope with the unparalleled distress existing in the metropolitan area of Chicago. The titles of a majority of the properties for which we have applications are clouded with foreclosures, tax sales, forfeitures, judgments, mechanics' liens, or other court proceedings. A large percentage of applications have not been completed due to the disqualification of mortgages to adjust amounts due them when scaling down of the principal is necessary."

Mr. Donne said that the HOLC office in Chicago is working to clear up these titles as fast as possible and that he expects to complete the work by April.

NEEDY CHICAGO ARTISTS GO TO WORK FOR U. S.

Plan Jobs for 300 in This Area.

Sixty-six needy Chicago artists were put on the United States government pay roll yesterday for a week. The government plan provides financial aid and prospective employment for 300 artists, the quota for the Chicago region.

Walter Brewster, chairman of artists' work-committee for the Chicago region, which included Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, opened an office in room 1138, at 135 South La Salle street. Mrs. Theodore Robinson is in charge of applications.

Seek Art for U. S. Buildings.
Ideas on the subject of "The American Scene" appropriate for the embellishment of federal buildings will be presented by the new recipients of government aid during this first week. A general "working out" process will then permit these painters and sculptors who have decided talent and sincerity in the development of the subject to remain on the pay roll, according to Mrs. Robinson. They will do either easel pictures suitable for hanging in postoffices, schools, court houses, and other federal buildings, or in special cases, mural paintings.

Serving on Mr. Brewster's committee are Thomas E. Tallmadge and John H. Stille, architects; Edgar A. Miller, painter; and Chester Johnson and Increase Robinson, picture dealers.

Under Treasury Department. The whole enterprise is under the direction of the treasury department in Washington. It was initiated by L. W. Robert Jr., assistant secretary of the treasury, who was named advisory committee, includes Charles Moore, chairman; Dr. Rexford Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture; Harry L. Hopkins, federal employee; and H. T. Hunt, general counsel for the federal emergency administration of public works; Frederick A. Delano, director of the national planning commission; and Edward Bruce, painter.

Mrs. Brewster emphasizes that artists of all schools are eligible for the work, which, it is hoped, will not only give financial aid, but an incentive for further creative effort on the part of American artists.

The present appropriation will be exhausted on Feb. 15. There are definite prospects of a renewal, however, according to the Chicago committee.

J. H. Stille, McLeansboro, Would Be State Treasurer.
Herrin, Ill., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—John H. Stille announced at the Democratic rally at Marion last night that he is seeking the nomination for state treasurer. He now is an assistant state auditor. His home is in McLeansboro.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—Without Galomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy, or chewing gum and expect them to make the suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels, and a sure movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. Should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25¢ a box. "Grip" stores. ©1931 G. M. Co.

CANADA HELPED KEEP U. S. DRY; TO BE REWARDED

Is Exempted from Liquor Quota Rule.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—In return for her cooperation in keeping the United States dry during the arid years, Canada is to enjoy a privileged status as an importer of liquor into this country, Joseph H. Choate Jr., the federal liquor czar, revealed today.

The import quota system set up by the administration to regulate our international traffic in liquor will not apply to Canada, Choate stated. Canadian imports will be in addition to the definite quotas fixed for all other nations by the federal alcohol control administration and will be regulated by permit according to the need for whiskey to be used in rectifying and blending processes here.

Permits for 5,580,590 Gallons.
Choate disclosed that permits for the importation of 5,580,590 gallons of Canadian whiskey to be sold in this country have already been issued. In addition permits for another 2,710,760 gallons for rectifying purposes have been sent out, bringing the total Canadian gallons already given entry into this country to 8,291,350 gallons.

The total quota allotted to all other major importing nations, as announced by Choate yesterday, is slightly in excess of 3,702,000 gallons. The highest quota given any one country was the 1,100,000 gallons of wine and whiskey allotted to Italy.

Canada's extra quota treatment, according to the liquor czar, is the result of her governmental cooperation in seeking to prevent the shipment of liquor to this country during the prohibition years. Her consent to a treaty with this country under which the Canadian government prohibited American bound cargoes of liquor clearing from Canadian ports, Choate stated, left dominion distillers with 20 million gallons of whiskey on their hands which had been produced expressly for shipment to the United States.

Prices Arouse Congressmen.
The liquor price situation, meanwhile, brought from Representative John J. O'Connor (Dem., N. Y.), a charge that conditions in the liquor industry "are scandalous."

Appearing before the joint congressional committee studying liquor taxation, Representative O'Connor asserted that the federal government's efforts at control of the liquor traffic since repeal have "opened the door to more opportunities for enforcement graft and political influence than ever existed under prohibition."
"If the situation that exists today is what we must have as a consequence of repeal, as for me, give me prohibition," O'Connor declared. "Little did we think that our efforts to dislodge the federal government from the invasion of state rights would be rewarded by a vicious interference under the NRA."

Lashes "Whisky Trust."
O'Connor charged that lobbyists for the distillers, who he claimed form a "whisky trust," have been active in Washington since long before repeal became effective, seeking a low tax rate on legal whisky under what he called a "pretense" of making it unprofitable for the bootlegger to continue in business.

"It is amusing," he said, "to hear the distillers denounce their old pals and clients, the bootleggers, with whom they have done business for years and out of whom they have made huge profits. For instance, this week the whisky trust is negotiating to buy back 77,000 gallons of a well known American whisky which was sold by the trust to the bootleggers, and it is also negotiating to purchase from the bootleggers another item of 54,000 gallons of Canadian whisky."

Asks $25,466 of Sculptress Claimed Due on Contract

New York, Dec. 14.—[Special.]—A suit against Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, sculptress, and Mrs. Juliana Force, for many years art secretary, for a balance of $25,466 alleged to be due in connection with a contract for a statue of Eleanor Duse, Italian actress, to be designed by Mrs. Whitney, was disclosed in the Supreme court today. Mrs. Irene Sydnor, administrator of the estate of her husband, Paul Sydnor, concert manager, who died Sept. 8, last, alleges that Mr. Sydnor was requested to and procured a contract for the erection of the monument and that he was entitled to $21,000 for services and disbursements of which only $5,533 was paid.

New York Health Board Attacks 'Doped' Whiskies

New York, Dec. 14.—All blended whisky sold in New York City hereafter must bear labels showing precisely the amount of cutting or blending and details of all ingredients.
The board of health adopted an amendment to the city's sanitary code to that effect at a special meeting this afternoon.

Preparatory to the ruling City Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne warned the public against liquor labeled "whisky compound." It may contain industrial alcohol, the commissioner said.

So many complaints have been received by the board of health from all parts of the city about the quality of liquor sold since repeal that tests are being made in the board's laboratory of samples bought at random from licensed retail stores. Dr. Wynne announced that he is "prepared to place an embargo on any liquor that does not, in every particular, protect the health of the people of New York."

Defines "Whisky."
The only liquor that meets the board of health's definition of "whisky" is the kind that meets the specifications of the United States pharmacopoeia, which says that "it must have been stored in charred wood containers for a period of not less than four years."
"Whisky" that does not meet that requirement must be so labeled if the board of health adopts the commissioner's recommendations. Supplemental labels may be attached to the bottle setting forth the ingredients, degree of rectification, coloring matter used, and so on.
Action will be taken by the board of health to make certain that within the next ten days every bottle of whisky legally sold in New York will be specifically labeled as to contents, Dr. Wynne said.

Whisky labeled "for medicinal purposes" and sold at $1.90 a pint was found on analysis to be the worst of all those examined by the board's laboratory, the commissioner reported.

Cheapest Is Best.
On the other hand, one of the cheapest whiskies, bought downtown for $1.60 a pint, was found to be the best. It had "100 proof" printed on its label.

After analyzing several grades of liquor, Reginald Miller, chief chemist of the bureau of laboratories, said that there was coloring matter and added alcohol in the "better" grades, but nothing poisonous or injurious was found.

The best of the lot, the $1.80 whisky, had no artificial coloring matter, no denaturant, and the flavor and bouquet were both good. The $1.90 "medicinal" whisky was diluted, alcohol was added after the whisky itself was made, and there was additional coloring matter. It was not poisonous, however, the chemist said.

Whisky bought for $1.44 a pint from a midtown retail store was 92 per cent proof and had artificial coloring. "It was a blend, but well done, and contained nothing poisonous," the report said.

Speaking of "whisky blend" and "whisky compound," Dr. Wynne said that "this is not whisky in the true sense of the word, and in many instances may be found to contain industrial alcohol."

PERMIT CITY TO START BATTLE FOR JURY FEES

Corporation Counsel Sexton was given permission by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday to file a petition for mandamus by which the city seeks to force the Cook county board to pay the fees of Municipal court jurors for 1933 and subsequent years.
The county board appropriated $75,000 for the payment of Municipal court jurors during the current year, but has refused payment, according to Mr. Sexton, on the ground that the legislative act imposing the payment of the jurors on the board is unconstitutional. Approximately $50,000 is now owed to jurors for their services. The case will be heard Dec. 21.

ALLMAN PUSHES DRIVE ON LIQUOR LAW VIOLATORS

Seeks to Revoke License of Restaurant.

Mayor Kelly yesterday had before him the recommendation of Police Commissioner Allman that the food dispensing license of Oscar Volpi, operator of a restaurant at 2979 South Michigan avenue, be revoked.

Volpi is the first alleged violator arrested in Commissioner Allman's drive to enforce liquor selling regulations. His arrest recently on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor brought to light the fact that although his restaurant is within 100 feet of the Lewis Memorial Maternity hospital, and thus ineligible to sell liquor under the city ordinance, he was selling it anyway, without a city or federal license, it is charged.

Hear Charges Dec. 22.

He was charged with selling liquor without a license and with conducting a disorderly house. Those charges, with the one of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, will be heard Dec. 22 in the Women's court. Federal revenue agents are also investigating Volpi's failure to get a federal license.

Commissioner Allman also recommended the revocation of the 3.3 per cent beer license of John McGlade, whose brother, James, was shot early Wednesday in a brawl in John's tavern at 3720 Harrison street. Allman also recommended that McGlade be denied a liquor license.

1,516 Seek Liquor Licenses

Up to yesterday, 1,516 applications had been received for liquor licenses, as against about 8,000 licenses or applications for licenses to sell 3.2 beer. The emergency liquor control ordinance provides that no 3.2 beer tavern may sell liquor unless it has applied for a liquor license for the first half of 1934, depositing the $250 fee, but Mayor Kelly has asked the police to give tavern keepers until Dec. 20 to make their applications.

U. S. APPEALS COURT RULES ALL DRY LAW CASES ARE BARRED

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 14.—[P.]—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth district ruled today that repeal of the 18th amendment, deprives federal courts of the power of proceeding to final judgment in cases of persons charged with the violation of the national prohibition act.

The court ruled that congress had lost all power granted it by the 18th amendment by the repeal in the states. Territories, where the power of congress is plenary, are, however, excluded.

Persons who have been charged with violation of the national prohibition act and who have not been brought to trial, and those who have been convicted and appealed their cases to the Circuit court, may move for reversal of the conviction or the dismissal of the charges, under the decision.

Holds Volstead Act Still Applies

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 14.—[P.]—Federal Judge Robert C. Bell ruled today the government has the right to prosecute violations under the Volstead act, despite prohibition repeal. Judge Bell overruled a demurrer entered in the case of John R. Liviacy, Duluth, charged with transportation of liquor.

The Illinois Commerce Commission

yesterday granted the Railway Express agency permission to make c. o. d. shipments of liquor within the limits of the state. Previously the agency has been able to handle only liquor shipments which have been paid for in advance. Its attorney, Ralph F. Kimmelhoch, told the commission that the company expected a large business in c. o. d. shipments of Christmas liquor.

ONLY 23 SUNNY DAYS THIS WINTER!
That's why Chicago homes need indoor sunlight!

Now you can buy a portable sunlamp without guesswork... New tags show ultra-violet rating

WEATHER reports show that Chicagoans can expect just 23 clear days in the 3 months of an average winter! In the bleak and sunless days brown skins grow pale... growing bones and teeth may fail to get the help they need.

Why not create sunlight in your home? And do it with a sunlamp that, according to the recommended NRA Code, is rated not lower than B.

You'll find either AA or B plainly marked on every tag attached to a sunlamp using General Electric MAZDA Sunlight Lamps (bulbs), Type S-1 or S-2. With that, and the General Electric monogram on the bulb, you can be sure you're buying adequate ultra-violet.

These portable lamps are handsome enough for any room in the home. Ideal for a Christmas present to the family, and low enough in price so that almost any home may own one. Every member, young or old, will enjoy—and benefit from—frequent exposures to indoor sunlight.

Why not get ready for winter today? Go to your favorite dealer and get a sunlamp that will provide the amount of ultra-violet you desire.

The General Electric Company and the Council on Physical Therapy of the American Medical Association are mutually interested in research to establish more definitely the benefits of ultra-violet, for which many impossible, exaggerated and unfounded claims have been made.

IMPORTANT! Portable sunlamps using General Electric MAZDA Sunlight Lamps (bulbs), Type S-1 and Type S-2, are rated AA and B respectively. Both these MAZDA Sunlight Lamps have been accepted by the Council on Physical Therapy of the American Medical Association, and are on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons. The Type S-1 at 60 inches and the Type S-2 at 30 inches give the ultra-violet intensity of midday midsummer sunlight. Safe as the beach or the golf course. Glasses are no more necessary than under natural sunlight.

FAVOR LOW RUM TAX TO PUT CURB ON BOOTLEGGERS

Illinois Congressmen Tell Views on Problem.

Most Illinois congressmen favor a low federal gasoline tax on liquor and the return to the tax revenue paying states of a portion of the tax. Their attitudes were revealed by a survey yesterday. Answer to a question those interviewed felt that only by low taxes will the bootlegger be put out of business and the price of drinks out to fit modest pocketbooks.

Recognizing that liquor taxes form one of the important revenue problems to be solved by the session of congress opening in January, most of the Illinois members have been watching the deliberations of the congressional committee now in session in Washington. The committee is leaning toward a spirit tax of $1.75 or $2 a gallon. Not many feel that the present pre-prohibition impost of $1.10 a gallon is sufficient but all think it should be moderate.

Illinois Members' Opinions.
Comments of the Illinois congressmen interviewed today, dealing with liquor from Chicago districts:

Charles De Priest (Rep., 1st.)—"The gasoline tax should not be increased to such an extent that it will encourage bootlegging. It should not be more than $1.75 for the first year. That will discourage illegal liquor traffic. It could be gradually increased to $2.50 per gallon, and with no conflicting state tax the federal government can afford to reduce to wet states a certain percentage."

Edward A. Kelly (Dem., 3d.)—"I favor putting on a tax that will eliminate bootlegging and still give the government some revenue. But if the liquor interests persist in demanding $50 or $75 a case for their product and limiting consumption I favor a very high tax. Whisky can now be manufactured more cheaply than before the war, but distillers are following the lead of the brewers and charging all they can."

Wants Return to States.
Harry P. Bean (Dem., 4th.)—"The tax must not be high enough to keep the bootlegger in operation and the government should recognize the justice of returning a portion to states to enable them to amortize a part of the loans made during this emergency."

A. J. Sabath (Dem., 5th.)—"A $5 tax (proposed by Representative John J. O'Connor, Dem., N. Y.) is unreasonable and would prove an aid to the bootlegger. I believe a $1 tax would kill them off in the beginning. If all the collections were made by the federal government, state machinery for collection could be dispensed with and the states paying the tax could be given a rebate of 40 to 50 cents a gallon."

Leonard W. Schuetz (Dem., 7th.)—"I want a tax low enough to enable good whisky to be sold for not more than $1.50 a quart. Before prohibition it sold for 35 cents to $1.35. A $5 tax is ridiculous. Certainly there is no objection to states being given a part of the money they pay in."

Leo Kocinski (Dem., 8th.)—"I'm for any tax that will give the poor fellow a break. Good whisky should be sold for 10 cents a drink as it used to be. A fair portion of the tax should be given the paying states."

James Simpson Jr. (Rep., 10th.)—"If there isn't a low tax, so as to make drinks cheap, what was the use of getting rid of prohibition? I favor a low tax and a full rebate to states."

Downstate congressmen commented on the liquor tax question as follows:
Marlin A. Brennan (Dem., Bloomington.)—"I am in favor of a low tax. The combined federal and state tax should not exceed $2 per gallon. This will discourage illicit traffic and promote temperance."

Walter Nesbitt (Dem., Belleville.)—"I can give no definite opinion at this time concerning percentage of liquor taxes to states. I am interested in ridding this country of illicit trade and bootlegging. I feel inclined to support the President in his wishes."

John T. Buckbee (Rep., Rockford.)—"I am in favor of pre-war time federal liquor taxes. Additional taxes should be a matter of adjustment."

Chester Thompson (Dem., Rock Island.)—"I am convinced the gallonage tax should not exceed $1.50, in order to encourage lawful consumption. If the tax is any higher in my opinion the great objective of repeal—the abolition of the bootlegger and the moonshiner—will not be accomplished. I do not believe any percentage should be returned to states as this involves serious complications in connection with so-called dry states."

Everett M. Dirksen (Rep., Pekin.)—"Just as nuisance taxes passed by 72d congress were disappointing as revenue producers and were met with evasions and subterfuges, so excessive taxes on liquor will fail to produce anticipated revenues and will again raise bootlegging to one of the fine arts. There must be a moderate tax, not to exceed $1.50 a gallon."

See Plan as Unworkable.
Two other Illinois congressmen—Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, speaker of the house, and Fred Britten of Chicago—were asked in Washington about their attitude toward the plan to return part of the liquor revenue to the states.

"If it could be done, it would not be a bad plan," said Speaker Rainey. "But it can not be done. I don't see how it could be worked out in a practical way. There would have to be a gentlemen's agreement between the government and the various states, and I do not believe that would be satisfactory."

"The plan is impractical and impossible of accurate determination," said Congressman Britten. Mr. Britten added that he would oppose any liquor tax in excess of $1 a gallon.

W. J. Waltham (Rep., 11th.)—"I am in favor of a low tax. The combined federal and state tax should not exceed $2 per gallon. This will discourage illicit traffic and promote temperance."

W. J. Waltham (Rep., 11th.)—"I am in favor of a low tax. The combined federal and state tax should not exceed $2 per gallon. This will discourage illicit traffic and promote temperance."

TRAVELS ALONE

CHOW WEE WING.

Chow Wee Wing, 5 years old Chinese boy, passed through Chicago yesterday on his trip alone from China to New York where his parents have a restaurant. Before leaving the Union station on the Golden Arrow limited train of the Pennsylvania lines, he had made friends with scores of strangers by his antics. Speaking only Chinese, he welcomed them by grabbing their legs or pulling coat tails. Wing pushed away a glass of milk in a restaurant but accepted some rice soup.

May Take Stand Today.
The defendant probably will make his appearance on the witness stand late tomorrow as the final defense witness, according to her attorney, John E. Goebel. Her daughter, June, 13 years old, who appeared earlier as a witness of the court on request of State's Attorney Robert E. Nash, possibly may be called as a defense witness to tell of details surrounding her father's death.

Mrs. Hanson heard her sister, Miss Florence Muller of Rockford, in whose care June now is, testify shortly after the state rested its case today. Miss Muller was handed a notary vase filled with small branches of slightly withered foliage on which clusters of tiny red berries were visible.

She obtained the vase and foliage from the mantel of the living room in Mrs. Hanson's home six miles north of Rockford on the Friday following Hanson's death, which was on Sunday, Aug. 13, the witness said.

Paves Way for Defense Move.
The state had produced evidence to show that stains from the berries of the honeysuckle bush which bordered the gravel driveway down which Earl backed his car after taking his daughter home were found on the dress Mrs. Hanson wore that night, at a point where the knees would come.

Thus the defendant's sister paved the way for the defense contention that any such stains on her dress were not acquired as she knelt behind bushes armed with a bowl of gasoline and matches, but in the pursuit of plucking decorative foliage for her house.

Harry T. Carlson, Rockford garage man, who qualified as an expert on motors, under exhaustive examination by Frank Hall, defense counsel, told of finding a two inch long crack in the seam of the front panel of the gasoline tank in Hanson's car three weeks ago.

Much Talk About Auto Mechanism.
Asked a hypothetical question as to whether if the left hub cap of Hanson's car struck the steel post of the Hanson gateway, causing the hub cap to fall off and the left wheel to remove the grass underneath it, a back firing in the motor might result, Carlson said: "It might if the engine was stalled." In that case it would keep on burning until the car was set on fire, he said.

Defense attorneys urged in a large part of an automobile corresponding in make and model to that in which Hanson was driving when his daughter was killed. Mr. Hall buzzed about from one exhibit to another, stroking his walrus mustaches and the streak of hair brushed over his bald spot, and calling on the witness, Carlson, to "tell the jury" various technical matters, which apparently left the jury completely unmoved.

SENTENCED FOR MURDER.
Joseph Britt, 22 years old, 6201 S. 10th avenue, was sentenced to a year in the Reformatory yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman for an attempted burglary of the clothing store of Sam Liberi at 8945 Commercial avenue.

DEFENSE BASES LAID IN TRIAL OF TORCH WIDOW

Mrs. Hanson May Take Stand Today.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Rockford, Ill., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—A day of tedious testimony marked the opening of the defense of Mrs. May Hanson, 33 year old smiling torch widow on trial for the murder of her former husband, Earl, a factory executive, today in the Circuit court of Judge Arthur E. Fisher.

Even relatives of the dead man, who was found lying in his divorced wife's yard a few feet from his flaming car, his clothes bursting, shortly before his death the night of Aug. 13, were heard complaining to each other that the trial was "mighty dry and monotonous" today.

Mrs. Hanson herself was asked for the occasion in a new sports dress of small brown and red plaid, the curls on her forehead carefully arranged, her saint cheeks touched with rouge.

COLD WAVE TIES UP FRENCH WINE DESTINED FOR U.S.

Fear Cargoes Now at Sea May Be Spoiled.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, Dec. 14.—An unexpected menace to the hopes of thirsty Americans who were counting on shipments of French wines to enhance their Christmas festivities has turned up. It is the intense cold wave now sweeping over Europe.

A spokesman for French wine interests today admitted that thousands of bottles which normally would be rolling on their way to the United States are tied up on this side of the Atlantic by the cold. The bulk of the last minute shipments for Christmas consumption is affected and the delay may last for several weeks.

Fear likewise is expressed that some of the bottles of liquid cheese which already have cleared French ports may arrive in America in an undesirable condition. This is particularly the case with sparkling Burgundy, which turns cloudy at temperatures slightly below the freezing point of water.

Liqueurs Less Fragile.
All liqueurs such as cognac are less fragile, while champagne can safely stand temperatures as low as 18 degrees above zero. While the mercury in many parts of France has dropped below that, it is believed that champagnes in bottles and magnums snugly packed in straw are safe at the present temperature.

The colder weather predicted for the week-end, however, might prove too much, so conservative merchants are refusing to move any wine until the cold abates.

The main cause of delay in wine shipments, however, is not fear that the wine will be injured, but the French law which forbids employers of labor to allow their men to work outdoors when the mercury drops below a certain level. The French, not being used to hard winters, consider anything below 20 degrees above zero a calamity and all outdoor activity ceases.

Consequently freight transportation has been reduced to a minimum. Meanwhile the French themselves are having wine troubles. The problem of preserving millions of gallons of common red table wine is serious because it is usually stored in those heads in unheated sheds.

Newspapers are recalling the legend of 100 years when wine was removed from barrels with an axe and sold by the pound.

28 Perish in Shipwreck.
LONDON, Dec. 14.—(P)—Three shipwrecks that carried 28 men to their doom in icy, gale-swept seas and numerous deaths in Europe's worst pre-Christmas cold wave in many years. In England the Thames was frozen from bank to bank and the River Avon was frozen over at Bath for the first time in 84 years. In London the temperature went to 27 degrees Fahrenheit above zero, the coldest of the winter.

A temperature of 13.5 degrees below zero at Rotterdam caused the River Maas to freeze. Inland navigation was stopped.

WOMAN KILLED BY FROST.
Miss Ethel Anker, 40 years old, 8440 Ardite avenue, was robbed of her purse containing $5. by a young bandit, who halted her near her home early yesterday.

STAY IN COURT.
The state had produced evidence to show that stains from the berries of the honeysuckle bush which bordered the gravel driveway down which Earl backed his car after taking his daughter home were found on the dress Mrs. Hanson wore that night, at a point where the knees would come.

Thus the defendant's sister paved the way for the defense contention that any such stains on her dress were not acquired as she knelt behind bushes armed with a bowl of gasoline and matches, but in the pursuit of plucking decorative foliage for her house.

Harry T. Carlson, Rockford garage man, who qualified as an expert on motors, under exhaustive examination by Frank Hall, defense counsel, told of finding a two inch long crack in the seam of the front panel of the gasoline tank in Hanson's car three weeks ago.

Much Talk About Auto Mechanism.
Asked a hypothetical question as to whether if the left hub cap of Hanson's car struck the steel post of the Hanson gateway, causing the hub cap to fall off and the left wheel to remove the grass underneath it, a back firing in the motor might result, Carlson said: "It might if the engine was stalled." In that case it would keep on burning until the car was set on fire, he said.

Defense attorneys urged in a large part of an automobile corresponding in make and model to that in which Hanson was driving when his daughter was killed. Mr. Hall buzzed about from one exhibit to another, stroking his walrus mustaches and the streak of hair brushed over his bald spot, and calling on the witness, Carlson, to "tell the jury" various technical matters, which apparently left the jury completely unmoved.

SENTENCED FOR MURDER.
Joseph Britt, 22 years old, 6201 S. 10th avenue, was sentenced to a year in the Reformatory yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman for an attempted burglary of the clothing store of Sam Liberi at 8945 Commercial avenue.

FAVOR LOW RUM TAX TO PUT CURB ON BOOTLEGGERS

Illinois Congressmen Tell Views on Problem.

Most Illinois congressmen favor a low federal gasoline tax on liquor and the return to the tax revenue paying states of a portion of the tax. Their attitudes were revealed by a survey yesterday. Answer to a question those interviewed felt that only by low taxes will the bootlegger be put out of business and the price of drinks out to fit modest pocketbooks.

Recognizing that liquor taxes form one of the important revenue problems to be solved by the session of congress opening in January, most of the Illinois members have been watching the deliberations of the congressional committee now in session in Washington. The committee is leaning toward a spirit tax of $1.75 or $2 a gallon. Not many feel that the present pre-prohibition impost of $1.10 a gallon is sufficient but all think it should be moderate.

Illinois Members' Opinions.
Comments of the Illinois congressmen interviewed today, dealing with liquor from Chicago districts:

WIDOW AND FOUR CHILDREN MOURN SLAIN POLICEMAN

Mrs. Margaret Shanley, widow of Sgt. William T. Shanley, slain police hero, was prostrated last night in the Shanley home at 1415 Thome avenue. The efforts of relatives, friends and the parish priest were unable to control her weeping.

Elsewhere in the home neighbor women were caring for the four Shanley children. They are Mary Margaret, 12 years old; William Jr., 11; Patricia, 9; and James, 6.

Find Her Scrubbing Floor.

Mrs. Shanley had been scrubbing the floor when a member of her husband's squad, Frank Hopkins, called to tell her that he had had "an accident" and was in the Edgewater hospital. She rushed to the hospital, but this she would not believe.

"His eyes moved when I took his hand," she said.

The Shanleys were married fourteen years ago, shortly after he had returned from the war and taken up his interrupted duties in the police department.

Father Edward Kilroy, assistant pastor of nearby St. Gertrude's church, paid a tribute to the slain detective, who had been active in the affairs of the parish.

Favorite with Children.

Sgt. Shanley was to have been an usher next Tuesday and Wednesday evening at the Christmas play in the parish house, in which his children were to take part, the priest said. He was active in the Holy Name society and in the men's club of the parish.

He was a favorite with the children in the neighborhood, Father Kilroy said, perhaps because he had managed the parish picnics for several years.

"Something like this had to happen," said Miss Edna Bender, a sister of Mrs. Shanley. "The family was too happy."

Funeral services will be held in the church at Glenwood and Granville avenues, at 10 o'clock Monday.

ESCAPED INDIANA CONVICT SLAYS A POLICE HERO

Woman Companion Is Captured.

with the license receipt still in his hand. Hamilton grabbed the woman by the hand and ran out the front door, dragging her behind him.

The story was then taken up by the statement of Detective Hopkins, who had delivered his message to Killian and was on his way back to the garage.

"I was about 200 feet north of the garage," said Hopkins, "when I saw a man and woman run out the door. I knew something was wrong, and started toward them. The man left the woman and ran through a vacant lot, and she started to struggle and curse me. I took her back into the garage and Bill Shanley was lying there in a pool of blood."

Dies 15 Minutes Later.

Sgt. Shanley died fifteen minutes later in the Edgewater hospital. The woman was questioned by Chief Schoemaker and his assistant, William V. Blaul. Last evening Deputy Chief of Detectives William V. Blaul took her and six squads of detectives and raided an apartment in the Loganwood apartment hotel, 2530 North Sacramento avenue.

The apartment was deserted, but they found that Hamilton had entered it on Nov. 19, under the name of Orval Lewis, and had lived there since with three women. Mrs. Dent was one of them, although she told police that she was living at 3607 North Kedzie avenue.

Witnesses Describe Killer.

Police thought first that Pierpont, alleged to be the brains of the Dillinger gang, had killed Shanley. It was not until witnesses told them that the killer had the first joints missing from two fingers on his right hand that they were satisfied that the killer was Hamilton, who bore the nickname of "Three Finger Jack."

Pierpont is known to have been in Chicago recently. The night that Dillinger escaped the police trap, Pierpont was seated in an automobile parked across the street. He joined Dillinger in firing at police and then escaped on foot. More recently, he had been reported driving in the green roadster for which Hamilton and Mrs. Dent called yesterday.

Trail Roadster for Week.

Det. John Howe and a detective squad, it was learned, have been on the trail of that roadster for several weeks. Sgt. Dan Healy of the detective bureau traced it a week ago to the automobile repair shop of Carl A. Blomberg, at 1136 Catalpa avenue, where Blomberg repaired the muffer.

Hamilton took the car there again yesterday morning with a bent fender, but Blomberg told him that he did not have the tools for straightening it, and sent Hamilton to the other garage on Broadway.

Hamilton's woman companion, questioned last night at the detective bureau, maintained a pose of injured innocence. Rather plump, auburn haired, wearing a plaid coat and a black hat and dress, she wept the atrically at times as she told her story.

"My maiden name was De Kant and I was married to a man named Sullivan, but got divorced from him and later married a man named Dent," she said. "I left him a year ago. Two months ago, while I was working as a waitress at the Stevens hotel, I met Hamilton. He never told me that was his name. I knew him as John Smith."

"He was good to me, bought me this coat and the car. He certainly deceived me, as I thought, he was a rich man's son."

"The police reported that Elaine told them several members of the Dillinger gang, identified by her from photographs, had visited her and Hamilton in the Sacramento avenue flat."

Shanley Wins Promotion.

Sgt. Shanley joined the police department in 1916, but left it to enlist during the world war. He won his promotion to a sergeant, and then to a sergeant's monthly here award as well, on the night of Jan. 2, 1923. Informed that there were prowlers in a restaurant at Clark and Superior streets, he entered the unlighted place alone and captured two ex-convicts, both armed, who had been engaged in cracking the safe.

Former Chorus Girl and Model Is Granted Divorce.

Judge Rudolph F. Desort granted Mrs. Martha Marquesson O'Hara, 3024 West North avenue, a divorce yesterday on charges of desertion from Patrick P. O'Hara. Mrs. O'Hara, a former chorus girl and artist's model, testified that as a sailor O'Hara assured her that he was the heir to a $100,000 fortune left by his foster-mother, Mrs. Maude King of Kingsville, Tex., and then deserted her four months after the marriage, in 1926. She learned later, she said, that he was only one of a hundred claimants to the estate.

NEGRO TO DENY ILSLEY MURDER ON STAND TODAY

U. S. Drug Agent Says He Boasted of It.

Leesburg, Va., Dec. 14.—George Crawford, Negro, will take the stand tomorrow to deny a confession on which the state of Virginia hopes to convict him of the murder of Mrs. Arnes Rosling Ilsley of Middleburg and New York.

Twelve white jurors are trying Crawford in the Loudoun county circuit court. The prosecutor, John Gallagher, will testify tomorrow before Judge James L. McLendon in an effort to have the confession admitted as evidence. Crawford already has denied the confession.

In court today women in fashionable riding, togs, boots and spurs crowded close to farmers and Negroes to hear the state witnesses. It was testified that Crawford was in and around Middleburg up to about 7:10 o'clock the night before the killing of Mrs. Ilsley and her maid, Mina Buckner. Other developments included:

Identification of Crawford by M. W. M. Cost of Washington, D. C., night watchman, as the Negro who got out of the driver's seat of the Ilsley automobile stolen from the garage under the cottage and deserted in South Washington, Va., across the Potomac from the capital.

Dennis J. Murphy of the Washington, D. C., police force, identified a memorandum he found in the same auto. The handwriting was identified as Crawford's by Berda De Nesl, Negro, as well as by J. E. Taylor of Alexandria, Va., navy department handwriting expert.

Negro Tells of Threats.

Robert Hutchings, Newark, Negro, testified Crawford during an argument with Ionia Daugherty, Negro, at 238

North Hamilton street, Boston, on Oct. 15, 1933, said he had killed two white women in Virginia and did not mind killing a Negro in Massachusetts.

Hutchings, a federal anti-riot agent and former captain in the U. S. army, told the jury that Crawford went under the name of William Hamilton in Boston.

Hutchings said he read an argument between the accused and the Daugherty woman in the room next to his, and, entering that, saw Crawford and heard the threat.

Later, Hutchings said, he learned about the Ilsley murder, and when on a trip to Richmond informed Assistant Attorney General Gibson and subsequently commonwealth's Attorney John Galleher of Leesburg.

Oscar Klitt, a white chauffeur of Middleburg, said he saw Crawford, who was wanted on a charge of breaking and entering in that town, disappear into an alley from a street there between 10 and 11 p. m. on the night preceding the killings.

SEEKS TO OUST TREASURER AS TAX RECEIVER

Move Seen as Attack on Kerner-Skarda Act.

TAX COLLECTIONS.
Real estate tax collections yesterday were $285,424, making a total of $98,729,890 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began April 26. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928	1929
Dec. 14...	$ 86,135	$ 86,708
Uncollected	15,777,110	45,721,719
Dec. 14...	1930	1931
Uncollected	94,728	182,790
Dec. 14...	$7,712,359	$6,338,003

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $465.

Oscar Weiner, who was appointed receiver for the Graemere hotel, 112 North Homan avenue, in the Superior court last month, yesterday asked leave to file a mandamus suit in the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield to compel County Judge Jarecki to remove County Treasurer McDonough as receiver. The treasurer was appointed receiver for the property on May 23 to enable him to collect delinquent taxes totaling $51,718.

Judge Jarecki and other Cook county officials late yesterday construed Weiner's petition as an attack on the Kerner-Skarda act under which the treasurer was named receiver. This is the first attack on the act to be started in the state Supreme court. The act has greatly accelerated the collection of taxes.

Jarecki Ready for Battle.
If Weiner is allowed to proceed with his mandamus action, Judge Jarecki indicated that he would fight it through Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell, tax expert of the state's attorney's office.

Weiner in his petition asserted that he was appointed receiver for the hotel before the Kerner-Skarda act went into effect on April 23. Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel, who appointed Weiner, said this was untrue, asserting that although a petition for a receiver was pending before him at that time he did not appoint Weiner until last month. Judge Jarecki said that Weiner had not yet qualified as receiver for the property, because he had not posted his bond.

"A bill is pending before me to remove the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustees of the hotel," on the allegation that the trustees did not pay taxes," Judge Gentzel said. "I don't think Judge Jarecki had the right to appoint the city treasurer receiver while the case was before me, but in any event I cannot understand how Weiner could ask for a mandamus in the Supreme court. Only the petitioner in the bill before me had such a right. When I appointed Weiner I made it plain that he was not to interfere with the other receiver."

Judge Defends His Action.
Judge Jarecki defended his right to appoint the county treasurer as receiver despite a pending suit in another court.

"Taxes are a prior and superior lien to any other obligation on a property," he said, "and the state, in its sovereignty, has the right to move to collect taxes. This can be done, I believe, in the face of any other proceedings. Despite Judge Gentzel's order that Weiner was not to interfere with the county receiver, Weiner was in before me on Wednesday on a motion to remove the treasurer. I refused and I suppose this is the result."

The Graemere hotel was one of the first properties ordered into tax receivership under the Kerner-Skarda act. At the time that the treasurer was appointed receiver Judge Jarecki was informed that no taxes had been paid on the property for several years. The treasurer appointed William Keenan as his agent. Since Keenan has been operating the property, $7,500 has been paid on the back taxes and $6,000 more will be paid within a few days.

Extortionist Sentenced to 10 Year Jail Term

New York, Dec. 14.—[Special.]—With five minutes' deliberation a federal jury today found Samuel J. Kessler guilty of attempting to extort $500 from Mrs. Charles B. Halsey, 803 Fifth avenue, on a threat of injury to her or to "some one" she loved.

Judge Moscovitz sentenced him to ten years' imprisonment and Milton Rosenstrach, who pleaded guilty and testified for the government, to seven years and six months.

THEIR KINDRED CLEAR MIDVANI PRINCES IN OIL SCANDAL CASE

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—The two princely oil money mystery has been cleared. Just a few days ago $21,367 was deposited to the account of the Pacific Shore Oil company. The two princes, Serge and David Midvani, had been indicted for grand theft in connection with operation of the concern at a time when they were active in its management.

It now is announced by a receiver for the company that obligations of the princes had been cleared by $11,448 sent by Prince Alexis Midvani, recent bridegroom of Barbara Hutton, heir to the Woolworth "five and ten" millions, $1,937 by order of Charles Henry Huberich, lawyer, and husband of the former Princess Mina Midvani.

Prince Serge had said they sent the oil company money to Alaska for stock-keeping against oil shipments. The two princes, after pleading not guilty yesterday were released on bail of $10,000 each, certified checks for the amounts being signed by their brother-in-law, Huberich, an international lawyer.

APPEAL HEARINGS ON 1932 PERSONAL TAXES NEAR END

Finish Due Early in '34,
Brummel Says.

Revision of the 1932 personal property tax assessment in Cook county, as prepared by the assessor's office, will be concluded within a few days after Jan. 1, Fred W. Brummel, only active member of the board of tax appeals, announced yesterday. George F. Nixon, the other member of the board, is convalescing from an attack of typhoid fever.

The revision of assessments by the board of appeals has already been completed in 18 of the 30 country townships and in one of the eight city townships. The assessment books from all these townships were in the hands of the county treasurer last evening.

Rogers Park Completed.
Rogers Park is the only city township where the revision has been completed. The country townships are: Bloom, Barrington, Bremen, Elk Grove, Hanover, Lemont, Leyden, Maine, Niles, Northfield, Norwood Park, Orland, Palatine, Palos, Rich, Riverside, Schaumburg, and Wheeling. A total of 36,000 complaints was filed against the 1932 personal property assessments. For 1933 the board of appeals anticipates the filing of fewer than 15,000 complaints. To date 9,871 objections to assessments have been filed although taxpayers in all the townships in the county except the city township of Lake have been given opportunities to file objections. The appeals board, through the efforts of Mr. Brummel, has ruled upon 8,300 of the objections filed. His ruling, after hearings before him alone, are subject to change by Mr. Nixon, since, according to statute, the two appeals board members must sit together.

Jacobs' Prediction Sustained.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs recently stated that his 1932 personal assessment would be far more accurate and equitable than that made for 1931, when, having just assumed office, he made an effort to assess large and small property owners alike for the first time in the history of Cook county. His statements are corroborated by the comparatively small number of complaints filed against the 1932 assessment and by the fact that for the first time in more than ten years no objections to assessments were filed from the four townships of Elk Grove, Palos, Rich, and Schaumburg.

The first hearings of objections were begun on Oct. 4, but it was not until Nov. 10 that hearings were held daily. Now 866 complaints are heard each day, most of them before approximately 12 noon. Objections to assessments upon taxpayers who reside in the city towns of South and West are still being accepted by the appeals board. The last day for filing complaints against South town assessments is Dec. 18, for west town, Dec. 26. No final date has yet been set for filing of objections against assessments in the town of Lake.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Dec. 14.—Beheading on the block for Martinus van der Lubbe, young Dutch brick mason, and Ernst Torgler, former communist whip in the reichstag, was demanded today by Prosecutor Karl Werner in the reichstag fire trial.

The prosecutor recommended the acquittal of the three Bulgarian communists, Georgi Dimitroff, Wassil Tanef and Blagoi Popoff, because of lack of evidence.

When Werner thundered his charges of high treason and asked for the death penalty, the stolid Van der Lubbe was slumped in his seat, apparently asleep. Torgler winced, and his eyes filled with tears.

Circumstantial Evidence.

The death penalty demand for Van der Lubbe was expected, since he repeatedly confessed setting the parliament on fire. The case against Torgler was pieced together from circumstantial evidence and largely through the testimony of one of his most bitter enemies, Berthold Karwahn, a former communist member of the reichstag. Karwahn, who is now a Nazi, testified he saw Torgler together with Van der Lubbe in the lobby of the reichstag the afternoon of the fire.

Prosecutor Werner today dwelt eloquently on the theme as to "who could benefit by the fire." He spoke for hours. Werner charged that the communists, desperate over the victory of the Nazis at the polls, sought to start a civil war by firing the reichstag as the signal for an uprising.

"I admit that the guilt of four of the accused could be proved only by circumstantial evidence," the prosecutor shouted. "There is no person existing who directly received knowledge that the four defendants [all except Van der Lubbe] were implicated in the deed."

Calls Torgler Co-Plottor.

"The perpetrators were people either in the communist party or sympathizers with it. One of the motives in the fire was to weaken the Nazis by arousing the belief that they were guilty of planning the arson."

"There is no doubt that Torgler must be looked upon as the co-perpetrator in the reichstag arson and that he proposed to give a signal for a communist uprising."

The prosecution's demand that Torgler and Van der Lubbe go to the gallows in explanation of their crimes "gave rise to speculation as to the manner in which the sentences will be executed—if the Supreme court returns such sentences."

Chancellor Hitler in an address before the reichstag March 23 said "he favored public decapitation of the reichstag incendiaries and their accomplices."

Early this month Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and reichminister of aviation, said that if he had his way "those responsible for the fire would be hanged from trees across from the reichstag."

CATHOLIC ORGAN ASKS BASIC LAW CHANGE IN SPAIN

Will Back Republic if Revision Is Made.

BY JAY ALLEN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 14.—El Debate, organ of the Spanish Catholics, will publish tomorrow conditions for acceptance of the republic by Catholics.

Entitled "Catholics and the Republic," the editorial in El Debate will emphasize the persecution against which Spain's Catholics have fought for two years, but despite which they have systematically respected the constituted authority of the state.

The article quotes Pope Pius XI on the form of the republic and to the effect that Catholics need have no difficulty in accepting the republican form of government as such.

El Debate, however, demands revision of the new republican constitution or at least its interpretation in a very liberal sense.

"It is necessary," it says, "for republicans to make clear by deed and word that the church can live with dignity within the republic. To achieve this it is necessary to substitute tolerance for the spirit of persecution embodied in the constitution and some of the new laws. If this is done, then Spanish Catholics can work within the bounds of the republic."

The paper not only represents official Catholic opinion in Spain but also the political opinion of the Agrarian party led by Gil Robles and which has 116 deputies in the new parliament.

Honeymoon in South

Alexander Rieger, Kansas City banker and Czechoslovakian consul in the middle west, was married last evening to Mrs. Clara Peiser of Kansas City, who for the last three years had been chaperone of the Alpha Epsilon Phi fraternity house at the University of Illinois.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Solomon Freuhof at the home of Mrs. Myra Barnett, 634 Stratford place, a friend of the bride. A wedding party was given last night at the Palmer house, where the couple are staying. Within a few days they will leave for a honeymoon trip to New Orleans and Mexico.

Mr. Rieger, who is 63 years old and a widower, is chairman of the board of the Mercantile Home Bank and Trust company and president of the Community State bank in Kansas City. Mrs. Rieger, a widow, is 62 years old.

MUNCIE MAYOR GRANTED PARDON BY ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(P)—The White House today informed the office of Senator Van Nuys (Dem., Ind.) that an unconditional presidential pardon has been granted to George R. Dale, militant mayor-editor of Muncie, Ind.

Dale was convicted of a liquor conspiracy in a federal court in Indianapolis more than a year ago and was sentenced to serve 18 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas.

His conviction has been upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, but a petition for rehearing in that court has not been acted on. After Dale's appeal to the Circuit court was lost a movement was begun by his friends to obtain a presidential pardon, and the petitions were placed before Attorney General Cummings more than two months ago.

Others convicted in the liquor conspiracy charged with Dale included Frank Massey, Muncie police chief, and other members of the police force. Dale is now in the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, where he has been undergoing treatment.

KILLED AS CAR SKIDS OFF ROAD.

Harrisburg, Ill., Dec. 14.—(P)—James Baker of Marion, a mechanic, died in a hospital here today from injuries suffered early today when his automobile skidded off the highway and struck a tree on route 13 near the Saline and Williamson county line.

SAYS DICTATORS HAVE A COMPLEX OF SUPERIORITY

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Adolf Hitler, dictator of Germany, is an outstanding example of the superiority complex, a force which drives its possessors to admit of no superiors or equals. Dr. Samuel Plahner, Milwaukee psychiatrist, said today. It is not accurate to draw from this fact the conclusion that he is a paranoiac, he explained, although paranoiacs also suffer from the same complex.

"All dictators have the superiority complex," said Dr. Plahner. "Hitler's goal is to be Godlike. He has eliminated the Bible and the crucifix and will admit no loyalty except to himself."

"Every person who suffers from a complex of inferiority tends to compensate that with a complex of superiority. It is a pathological behavior from which almost all dictators suffer. It is not to be confused with paranoia although paranoiacs invariably are driven by such a complex."

"A dictator has no social feeling. If he had any feeling for human rights or for justice and equality, he would not do as he does. The ultimate goal invariably is Godlikeness. It is the nth degree of egotism. Every dictator is so concerned with himself he cannot be concerned with others."

"I never have said Hitler is a paranoiac. The statement accredited me that Hitler has been conned as a paranoiac is not true. 'Hitler was in jail in Munich and if he had not been set free, he never would have been able to enlist the followers he has gained.'"

Two Convicts Kidnap

STANDARD RED CROWN

QUICK-FIRE SUPERFUEL

THE NEW COLD WEATHER GASOLINE

When your car is cold these crisp mornings you need a snappier, peppier up-and-at-it gasoline to get quick, sure-fire action from your motor. Here it is—"Quick-Fire" Superfuel for winter—the fastest starting gasoline ever offered by Standard. In "Quick-Fire" Superfuel the amount of highly volatile quick-firing units has been greatly increased. Actually it averages more than 50% higher. That gives you summer performance in mid-winter. Yet it still sells at the price of regular.

Try it! Now, while you think of it, get a tankful and be ready for the next cold morning. Then see how it does warm up a cold motor.

STILL THE COMPLETE SUPERFUEL

Some "regular" gasolines may equal Standard Red Crown "Quick-Fire" Superfuel in one or two qualities—none surpasses it. And we believe that not one equals it in ALL the essentials of good gasoline.

1. UNSURPASSED IN STARTING—quick warm-up. 2. 70 OCTANE—top anti-knock in its price class. 3. Free from harmful sulphur and gum. 4. Accurately adjusted for seasonal variations. 5. Always uniform everywhere. 6. Fresher because of Standard's popularity. 7. Sells at the price of regular.

BRITISH LEADER TO TOUR EUROPE ON PEACE QUEST

Simon to Visit Paris, Rome on League, Disarmament

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, will join the diplomats touring European capitals for rapid fire conversations aimed at finding a basis for operations of the league of nations and the disarmament conference when they resume next month.

Sir John, it was learned today, will go to Paris next Thursday for two days and is expected then to see the French foreign minister, Joseph Paul-Boncour.

Unofficial reports that the Briton will talk with Premier Mussolini were given support by the announcement that Sir John and Lady Simon will spend the Christmas holidays at Capri and will travel to that resort by way of Rome.

British Envoy to Berlin Returns.

Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, meanwhile, arrived from Berlin to discuss the latest developments there in the arms deadlock.

Sir John's plans have not been announced in detail, but some circles believe he may consider a possible Franco-German rapprochement and that Mussolini may also visit Paris and other European capitals.

Lord Cecil made a plea today that the British government issue a public declaration on its disarmament policy, recommending complete abolition within five years from all countries of arms now forbidden Germany. He presided over a meeting of the league of nations union.

Lord Cecil and Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign under secretary, asked continued support for the league as the best medium for peace and disarmament.

French Bolstered by Benes.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—(AP)—French bulwarks against Chancellor Hitler were strengthened today in talks between Eduard Benes, the Czechoslovakian foreign minister, Premier Camille Chautemps, and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour.

Benes emphasized the need for a strong stand against German rearmament. He also stiffened the French attitude against Premier Mussolini's attack on the league of nations. Two other French allies of the little entente, Rumania and Jugoslavia, also sent pledges of support for the French stand.

Connect Cable for New Traffic Lights

Roy Weir, electrical engineer for the Lincoln park board, with two workmen, Tom Dowd and Walter Kross, as they worked in the lower part of the Michigan avenue bridge yesterday to connect submarine cable under the river to put in operation the progressive traffic lights being installed on Michigan avenue from Oak street to Roosevelt road.

Work Is Started

Work has begun on the installation of a progressive traffic light system in Michigan avenue from Oak street to Roosevelt road. Roy Weir, electrical engineer for Lincoln park, yesterday was in a basement of the link bridge foundation, working on a submersible cable conduit that will connect the traffic controls north of the span with those south of the river.

Special lights and timing equipment are being manufactured by the General Electric company. Delivery will begin in about fifty days.

The progressive traffic system should be in operation within three months, according to Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer. Under this system, a motorist driving at designated speeds will be able to travel in Michigan avenue between Oak street and Roosevelt road without being stopped by a red light.

The average time saving in the two and a quarter mile trip will be 7.54 minutes.

BOLIVIAN TROOPS IN ROUT; CHIEF BASE IN FLAMES

Paraguay Drives Enemy
Back in Chaco War.

(Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times.)

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 14.—By swift attacks and marches the victorious Paraguayans tonight had brought themselves to the chief base of the Bolivian army in the Gran Chaco.

The Paraguayan delegation to the Pan-American conference resolved tonight from the ministry of national defense at Asuncion a report that the Paraguayans had bombarded Fort Munoz heavily all day and that it had been set afire. Munoz is the headquarters and chief supply station for the main army of the Bolivians and the goal of the present drive.

Bolivian Machine Collapses.

This news indicated that the Paraguayans might win peace by a decisive military action. Their swift advance from Fort Saavedra, which they captured early today, to Munoz, 8 miles away, further indicates that the Bolivian military machine in this region has collapsed.

The rapidly with which the Paraguayan army has advanced since the collapse of the Bolivian front at Althusta Sunday confirms the reports that the Paraguayan general staff had a well laid plan for wiping up all Bolivian positions in southern Chaco.

Immediately after the destruction of the Fourth and Ninth divisions at Althusta, the Paraguayans made a determined drive against Fort Samakay and Murguia, which have formed the most troublesome salient and a constant threat to the Paraguayan headquarters at Fort Nanawa, or Ayala.

Bolivians Abandon Fort.

Samakay fell Tuesday and Murguia yesterday. The Paraguayans immediately moved on Saavedra. The Bolivians set fire to ammunition dumps and supply depots and abandoned Saavedra rather than risk being

ELEVATED AIR FIELD OVER THE THAMES IS PLANNED FOR LONDON

(Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The corporation of London today directed its city law committee to report upon the possibility of providing an airport within or within a short distance of the city of London.

A suggestion gaining wide publicity in that a huge platform, at least 1,000 feet wide, should be erected high above the Thames river between Blackfriars and Southwark bridges.

The sponsors of the idea claim they are actuated purely by commercial and not military motives. They point out that owing to traffic, it takes as long to motor the 10 miles from the city to Croydon airport as it does to fly the 200 miles from Croydon to Liverpool. They argue that the Thames has been the foundation of London's greatness and that a few years hence a city without an airport will be like a city without a railway station.

surrounded and besieged as at Boqueron early in the war.

The Paraguayans immediately began a heavy bombardment of Munoz. The Paraguayan progress has been so rapid since Sunday that details of the operations are lacking, but the Paraguayans now seem in complete control of the crescent-shaped front about 70 miles long from Fort Ayza, now called Rodriguez Francia, to Fort Munoz.

The Paraguayans estimate that the Bolivians have lost more than 15,000 officers and men in killed, wounded and prisoners in a month, and that there are not many more than 5,000 effective defending the Bolivian positions in northern Chaco.

The present Paraguayan offensive began in October after failure of the second negotiations by Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and Peru had convinced Paraguay that a negotiated peace was unattainable. The general staff began a campaign designed to form a military decision so as to win peace by arms.

Although Foreign Minister Benites Alvares of Paraguay has repeatedly stated here that recent victories will not change Paraguay's willingness to arbitrate the Chaco dispute, Asuncion dispatches report a unanimous popular demand for readjustment of the Paraguayan position.

DE VALERA'S FOES DROP OLD YOUTH LEAGUE FOR NEW

Petition Court to Declare Body Legal.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 14.—New tactics were disclosed today in the announcement made by the United Ireland party, chief opposition to the De Valera government, that the banned Young Ireland organization, or youth movement, will be dissolved. In its place will be established the League of Youth with a policy largely identical to the previous organization.

The wearing of blue shirts by the new organization will be continued. The new regulations state that the blue emblem of the United Ireland party shall be the emblem of the new league and that members may wear a blue shirt, blouse, or jacket with the badge of the party on the left breast.

Gen. O'Duffy at Helm.

Members will sign a pledge to serve the Free State by all lawful means and not to join any secret society. The director general of the league will be appointed by the executive council of the United Ireland party. It was announced that Gen. Owen O'Duffy, Blue Shirt leader for whose arrest a warrant has been issued, will be the first director general. He has notified all officials of the dissolution of the Young Ireland organization and has appointed new officials for the League of Youth.

The United Ireland party served a writ on the attorney general asking for the high court to declare the League of Youth a legal organization. This step presumably was taken with the object of preventing the government from suppressing the new league. Doubt is expressed whether it would achieve this purpose, as the safety act, with which President De Valera's government has been fighting the Blue Shirts, appears to be superior to the law courts. It has been pointed out that if the executive council (the Free State cabinet) considers it necessary, it may suppress the League of Youth despite the decision of the courts.

Such action, legal authorities declare, would be tantamount to military law and virtual suppression of the courts. The petition will not be acted upon by the court until after Christmas.

The United Ireland party is determined to retain the youth movement, without which success in regaining power is practically impossible.

Ulster Bars Republican Flag.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 14.—The Ulster government today banned the display of flags of green, white and yellow, as being emblems of the Irish republican army or the Irish republic. Police were instructed to tear down such emblems and arrest the persons displaying them. The Irish Free State flag has the same colors.

130 DOGS WAIT FOR ADOPTION AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Mrs. Dorothy Eagles, who founded the North Side Animal shelter, 1448 North Dearborn avenue, in 1917, has 130 dogs available for parents who wish to adopt them as Christmas gifts for their children. Dogs are popular Christmas gifts every year, she says.

The dogs at the North Side Animal shelter cannot be obtained, however, for Christmas gifts to persons outside of the family because the recipient is required to sign an adoption contract.

All the dogs in the various shelters will be well fed Christmas through a contribution of a pound of ration for each dog from a dog food company. The company has offered the donation to the North Side shelter, the Orphans of the Storm shelter, operated by Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, the municipal dog pound, and the Chicago Anti-Cruelty society. All of them have accepted.

STUDY RELIGIOUS PHASE IN MERGER OF UNIVERSITIES

Differences in Teaching Methods Outlined.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Merger of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university into one centrally directed institution in which scholarship and research would be emphasized on the Midway, professional training on the Evanston campus, and undergraduate work at Evanston, would have far-reaching results in the fields of law, medicine and religion, as well as in general education. It would set certain trends on a broader highway, give them new momentum, and influence profoundly the thinking of future generations.

One situation which has not been approached in any concrete way concerns the effects on religious teaching and training. The tentative memorandum of the presidents of the two institutions, made last July 6 and setting forth possible changes and economies resulting from a merger, contains the line, "one religious program."

What this means is left in obscurity, but a brief survey of the institutions indicates a possible major difficulty here, with the implication of increased power and prestige flowing to the Midway divinity school, with its emphasis on experiment and criticism.

A Point of Difference.

While there is no incompatibility between the religious training outlooks of the Chicago and Northwestern groups, there are strong distinctions to be made. The south side has tended more to the left, while Evanston has remained closer to the traditions of the established church, nurtured in the old spirit of evangelical Protestantism.

The Midway divinity school has wrought its own "merger" already in the denominational field, and has developed a great company of religious scholars in the William Rainey Harper tradition of "get more knowledge into religion." Some of these scholars are shockingly radical to the old fashioned religionist. They have tossed all ancient authority, in the Bible and everywhere else, out of the window.

There is no static body of truth to them. Religion and God are evolving concepts, ever being enlarged and changed by man's new knowledge of the universe, including himself.

Train Preachers in Evanston.

While Evanston, too, has scholars and radicals, it is more in the business of training preachers for specific church work. Garrett Biblical Institute, the oldest theological school in the middle west, was founded to meet the demand for leaders in the Methodist Episcopal church. Its purpose remains the same today, though it offers wider courses of study through its intimate relationship with Northwestern.

Seabury Western Theological seminary, also on the Evanston campus, is a graduate school of theology of the Protestant Episcopal church. For its doctrinal standards the seminary went back to the simple faith of the undivided church.

The opposition here is plain, and it is further apparent that any concentration of research work on the south side, such as contemplated in the merger, would interfere with one of the primary advantages of the location of these seminaries on the Northwestern campus. It would tend to drive students of history and higher criticism to the Midway school, which has already taken the leadership in this direction. It would bring them under the influence of the new evangelism, the insistence upon the development of personality, rather than into the field of the old churches and their established truths.

Science Versus Religion.

Henshaw Ward, in "Builders of Delusion," after looking over some of the strange gods of the Midway and assuming that the old-fashioned God still dwelt at Evanston, with an emphasis there on belief rather than on scientific verification, writes:

"This difference between Evanston and the south side is the key to the conflict between science and religion. We read that there is such a conflict, and we read that there is no such conflict. We most commonly read that science and religion have their own domains, that each is supreme in its own sphere. And that is undeniably true so long as religion is purely a matter of revelation or faith of subjective experience. But these are small and dubious areas in the wide realm of modern intellectual activities. Everywhere else there is a growing demand for verification.

"There is an increasing conviction that an idea is a mere opinion until all normal observers see it alike; that knowledge is never subjective and never absolute, but is a matter of probability.

"So the knowledge of God is set apart. It is in a dim, strange, walled-off region where verification does not

OFFERS COMPROMISE PLAN FOR REDUCING TAG DAYS TO THREE

A compromise plan through which the public might be relieved of the annoyance of too many tag days by the elimination of one, not two, was outlined yesterday by Mrs. A. E. Walther of Oak Park. Simultaneously Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, committee member of public welfare, expressed the opinion that "something will have to be done with the tag day situation before the new year's tag day schedule is made."

Mrs. Walther is secretary of the Chicago Children's Benefit League, the pioneer among tagging organizations. The league last week requested the city council finance committee to reduce the number of tag days to two. At present four groups are granted tag days under the revised city code. These are the Chicago Children's Benefit League, the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities, a third group which is selected each year by the city council with the approval of the mayor (in past years this has been the Chicago Federated Charities), and the veterans' Poppy day.

The plan of Mrs. Walther would eliminate the special tag day by the city council which is selected by the city council and divide the organizations in this group among the other two tag day groups. Poppy day would remain as it is.

enter. And now the theologians are making the special tag day by the city council which is selected by the city council and divide the organizations in this group among the other two tag day groups. Poppy day would remain as it is.

Mr. Ward's alarm is hardly justified unless he enlarges the base of his heresies. Garrett teachers will be welcomed at the University of Chicago divinity school for summer work. The bookshelves of Garrett library contain the latest scientific efforts at comprehending God. Yet the fact remains that the aim of a divinity school, as set forth at the University of Chicago and as certain to have increasing influence, is in direct opposition to all the churches and institutions that are founded on the old divine authority.

The fundamentalist groups, which are numerous in the Chicago area, consider the Midway school their chief enemy. When the University of Chicago professors flocked to Dayton, Tenn., to take the witness stand against William Jennings Bryan in the Scopes trial, the cry went up from the fundamentalist leaders that the Rockefeller influence was out to crush the churches.

In a progressively lesser way the Midway school is in opposition to the Seabury-Western Theological seminary, which has close relations with Northwestern, Garrett, and other sectarian seminaries. Church training schools could remain in a merger without losing identity or aim, but the situation here seems to make inevitable the ultimate concentration of nonsectarian religious thinking into the flexible pattern of the Chicago Divinity school.

INTER-AMERICAN ECONOMIC BODY URGED AT PARLEY

MO-TEVIDEO, Dec. 14.—Pan-American conference delegations from Mexico, Peru, Uruguay, Chile, and Cuba today began to draft a resolution providing for creation of an inter-American economic institution. Details of the institution would be left to the economic congress of the conference, to be held in Santiago, Chile, next year, probably in April.

Some want the institution in the form of a bank; others resembling the league of nations but as an economic body.

Messages from presidents of five countries and from others were read at a general session today, endorsing efforts to stop the Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia.

Presidential messages were from Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States, Arturo Alessandri, Chile; Getulio Vargas, Brazil; Oscar Benavides, Peru; Abelardo E. Rodriguez, Mexico.

A special economic committee resumed debate late today on the tariff declaration of Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, for a downward revision. His proposal has been adhered to that it is believed all delegations may sign it.

To Adjourn Christmas Eve.

Adjournment of the conference is planned by Dec. 34. By then leaders hope to have acted for lower tariffs, created a Pan-American financial institution, and advanced some plan for peace in the Chaco.

The declaration that "no state has a right to intervene in the internal or external affairs of another" was contained in a resolution completed today by a subcommittee on the rights and duties of states. It will be submitted to the international law committee.

The resolution asserted that the existence of a state is not dependent upon recognition, that fundamental rights of a state cannot be affected by another state, and that foreigners cannot claim more complete rights than nationals of a country.

It incorporated for the first time in a Pan-American conference document the principle of nonrecognition of "territory or advantages" forcibly acquired, and was coupled with the declaration that territory cannot be occupied forcibly for any motive, even temporarily.

Cuba, Haiti, Colombia, Salvador, Ecuador, Brazil, and Peru signed the resolution.

MRS. MACHADO RENTS 25 ROOM HOME IN N. Y.

New York, Dec. 14.—(Special.)—The twenty-five room home of the late Elton L. Winthrop Jr., law partner of former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and former president of the board of education, has been rented furnished to Mrs. Elvira Machado, wife of the exiled and fugitive president of Cuba, it was learned today. It is a five story structure located in East 81st street.

Senora Machado, who presided over the presidential palace that looked down on forbidding White House castle in Havana, has been living recently in an apartment overlooking Central park with her three daughters, three sons-in-law, and five grandchildren. She has leased the Winthrop home for six months. It has been on the market at $5,000 a year.

CUBA TO DOLE FOREIGN OWNED LAND TO FARMERS

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 14.—(P)—Revision of the rights of foreign land owners in Cuba is contemplated by the government, it was revealed tonight by Secretary of the Interior Antonio Gutierrez, in connection with a new scheme of land distribution.

Gutierrez estimated that the government can appropriate more than 600,000 acres of land from foreign companies who, he said, do not have clear title to the property.

Will Distribute Land.

He said he planned later to distribute the land among small Cuban farmers, adding that "a decree of agricultural reconstruction will be signed within the next eight days."

Gutierrez further explained today his plan to declare Havana a free port and make of the Cuban capital "the first commercial port of America."

According to the secretary, who, in the opinion of many, has lately become "the power behind the throne," the plan will convert Havana into "a great industrial center."

It includes the distribution among small farmers of lands belonging to Machado and to former President Machado himself.

Plan to Aid 35,000 Families.

Gutierrez further stated the whole agricultural plan would be put into effect within the next thirty days and it was estimated it would enable over 20,000 Cuban families to make a living. The scheme includes a state subsidy of approximately $1 cents for agricultural implements to each farmer.

"The American currency now in the treasury," added Gutierrez, "will be invested in American agricultural implements and part of the new 20 million dollar issue of Cuban money will go to purchase Cuban made implements."

The political situation remained at a standstill as cabinet changes, considered imminent due to Gutierrez' leftist policies, did not develop.

DISMISSES JURY THAT DISAGREES IN BRIBERY CASE

After deliberating for 24 hours a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Donald S. McKinley was discharged yesterday afternoon without reaching a verdict in the case of James Blaha, Brooklyn alderman, and seven former aldermen of the village, who are charged with accepting a bribe of $5,500.

The other defendants in the case are Alfred Kuncel, Andrew Anderson, George B. Horvath, Benjamin Lefkowitz, Joseph E. Covanka, Henry E. Struss, and Charles Nadherny. The case was sent back to Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan for reassignment and Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Laughery announced that he would ask an early retrial.

The state charged that each of the defendants accepted $150 in return for passing an ordinance in December, 1930, by which the town agreed to buy the building of the closed First National bank of Barryville. The prosecution held that the bribe was paid by Francis Karel, president of the closed bank.

Gas Main Network Reveals Story of This City's Growth

The history of the growth and progress of Chicago can be read in the reliable and complete distribution system of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

Underneath the streets of the city lie 3,727 miles of inter-connected gas lines, always in service, day and night, year in and year out—a growth from 4 miles in 1850.

And for 83 years, the life of this home-owned and home-managed company, expansion of the gas distribution system has been kept abreast of, or ahead of, Chicago itself.

This distribution system, one of the simplest and best in the world, is the most important part of your gas service. Gas itself is but a minor part of the cost of the service. More than 60% of the cost of gas service goes for distribution, delivery and service expenses.

You connect directly into this great distribution system every time you turn on your gas for cooking or heating.

YOU may think that gas heat costs too much for you to use. But do you actually know that it does? Thousands and thousands of families in the Chicago Area in the last few months ordered gas heat as soon as they received an estimate on the cost of heating their homes. They were amazed at how little more it costs to obtain the luxury of automatic gas heat. They're not rich, either. They are families in all strata of life. Families who regardless of their circumstances are determined to get rid of the nuisance of furnace tending forever.

No obligation to get facts. Here's our proposition. Without the slightest obligation, we'll send a heating engineer to survey your home. He'll tell you the approximate cost of heating with gas. Then, if this sounds reasonable to you, we'll pay the cost of installation in your present furnace or boiler. You try gas heat and pay only $3 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. If at any time within the first year you decide that you don't like it, we'll take it out at our expense. The rental charge stops immediately and we replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order.

But if you decide that you want to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Take advantage of this offer to make a free survey of your home.

Remember you'll be the sole judge of whether you want it or not. Just mail the coupon TODAY.

Think of what automatic gas heat will do for you and your family. No more coal shoveling, ash hauling or shaking, chopping kindling, waiting for heat to come up. You fire your furnace from your easy chair by setting a thermostat on the wall. This gives you even, comfortable temperature in every room of the house—day and night.

Never look at the furnace. Gas heat promotes cleanliness, too. Walls and drapes stay clean much longer. You dust once or twice a week instead of every day. Basement dirt is not tracked up stairs because you never have to even look at the furnace.

Get all the facts. Mail the coupon. A heating engineer will call at any time you specify.

TWO MORE LABOR LEADERS SEIZED FOR RACKET QUIZ

Grand Jury Hears Story of Rule of T-N-T.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Clarence Williams, assault to murder, sentenced to 3 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.
Milton R. George, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary; Edward Murphy, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin Epstein.
Thomas Hirschman, Sam Laruso, and Tony Rizzo, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life, each in the penitentiary by Judge Francis Allegretti.
Edward Veselka, accessory to murder, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter Steffen.
Sam Cohen, robbery, sentenced to life in the penitentiary under the habitual criminal act; John Ruchella, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Two more arrests yesterday marked the round-up of labor leaders and contractors in connection with the grand jury investigation of the Trucking and Transportation exchange (T-N-T), once powerful racket by which hoodlums extorted $500,000 yearly from Chicago business men.

Those seized yesterday are John M. Bransfield, head of the excavating company bearing his name at 3525 South Leavitt street, and Charles J. Wilson, president of the T-N-T. Bransfield is president of the Associated Contractors, Inc., alleged ally of the Trucking and Transportation exchange during the heyday of the latter organization.

Both surrendered at the Criminal Court building on warrants charging them with conspiracy to extort $250,000 from Chicago coal dealers. They were released in cash bonds of $2,500 each by Judge Jay A. Schiller. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donagan refused to comment on the warrants other than to say that the entire case would be unfolded within the next week, when indictments are expected to be returned.

Power of the T-N-T.
It was pointed out, however, that arrests already made would indicate that the power of the T-N-T had extended into the coal, paving, and excavating businesses. The arrests yesterday brought to seven the number seized since the double attack in the Felony court and before the grand jury was opened early this week.

Others who have been arrested are Marcus (Buddy) Looney, hoodlum and business agent for the Excavating, Grading and Asphalt Teamsters' union; John Lynch, president of the Hoisting Engineers' union; John J. Baggot, secretary of the General Teamsters' union of Maywood; and James Farmer, who Baggot succeeded in the Maywood union.

Guard Identity of Witnesses.
The grand jury investigation continued yesterday with ten witnesses appearing during the day. Those who testified were said to be coal dealers and other merchants who were forced to pay tribute to the T-N-T.
The identity of the witnesses was guarded by the assistant state's attorneys presenting the evidence to the grand jury. The state has expressed the fear that any publicity given the witnesses would cause them to shy from further appearance in the case. As in former cases the warrants against Bransfield and Wilson were obtained without disclosing any of the state evidence against the defendants.

WOMAN IS SLAIN

Mrs. Margie Pilecky Cricchok, also known as Marian Smith, found strangled to death in New York apartment.

POLYGAMOUS PETERSON HELD TO GRAND JURY

Bror Peterson, 44 year old Romeo who married four wives in 25 days, waived examination before Judge Jay Schiller in the Felony court yesterday and asked to be held over to the grand jury so he could "get this thing over." He was ordered held on bonds of $85,000 on charges of bigamy, operating a confidence game, and obtaining money under false pretenses. Peterson was arrested on Tuesday on complaint of Sam Geisler, 247 Cornelia avenue, who alleged Peterson borrowed $190 and then disappeared. Peterson, who weighs 210 pounds and is five feet nine inches tall, appeared far from being the gay lover when he faced a crowded courtroom. His face was unshaven and his shirt collar soiled. The only wives to appear against him were Mrs. Lydia Peterson, 2018 Indiana avenue, and Mrs. Mabel Pagnio Peterson, 6139 Drexel avenue. Both left the courtroom in arm when Peterson was led away.

Mayors Urge U. S. to Buy Municipal Tax Warrants

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—After a conference with a group of mayors, government financial officials today took under consideration a plan for purchasing municipal tax warrants to aid in solving local credit problems.

In the conference were Acting Secretary Morgenthau, Gov. Eugene Black of the federal reserve board and Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

CLEWS IN LIFE OF SLAIN GANG MOTH MULTIPLY

New York, Dec. 24.—Special.—Police today went through their routine investigation into the mystery of the death of Margie Cricchok, the feeble minded female companion of gangsters or whoever beckoned, whose drab life came to a bitter ending when some one knotted wire about her neck in her latest apartment in West 91st street.

Deputy Chief Inspector Francis J. Kear had a theory, but would not say what it was. He arranged to send detectives to Sing Sing prison to talk with George De Perno, serving 20 years to life, and John Dumaine, alias Irving Ladder, serving five years. Both men were sentenced for the killing of the many-alased Joe Montilario, and in their trial Margie Cricchok had been a material witness.

"Max" Is Sought.

Inspector Kear also took steps to determine whether the man Max, whose letter was found among the murdered woman's effects, was still a prisoner on Rikers island. It was certain the letter had not been addressed to the murder victim, but still hoped that the unknown Max might cast light on the confused situation.

All of the inspector's movements were in line with the theory that the woman had been killed because she gave evidence against De Perno and Dumaine.

It was considered possible that the woman, after drifting into a relationship with either man, has turned against him when he transferred his attentions to some one else.

Favors Robbery Motive.

Acting District Attorney Ryan of the Bronx, however, had a far simpler theory. He thought the woman had been slain by some one who had robbed her. Weak-minded as she was, she let some chance acquaintance know she had received $350 from the state in witness fees on her release from Bronx county jail two weeks ago, Mr. Ryan thought.

Inspector Kear established that in 1930 the woman had escaped from Schuylkill Haven, Pa. She had been there about a year, according to Dr. W. G. Boyers, superintendent, who added that her condition was not psychopathic, but simply feebleness of mind.

Hard-boiled detectives found a touch of pathos in the four endowment insurance policies found in her room. They had been issued to her under her maiden name.

LINDBERGH'S LAND IN PORTO RICO ON HOMEWARD DASH

Travel 753 Miles on Hop from Trinidad.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Happy because they are speeding homeward, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here this afternoon, after a 753 mile flight from Port of Spain, Trinidad.

With a perfect day for the hop the Lindberghs covered the distance in a little more than five and a half hours. Now they are 1,180 miles from Miami, Fla., and the American soil they have not seen for six months.

They came ashore thirty-five minutes after their sturdy red and black monoplane had reached the channel at the Pan-American airport. They followed established air lanes en route.

Guest of U. S. Official.

When they were rowed ashore the American aviators were greeted at the landing float by Acting Governor Benjamin J. Horton and Mrs. Horton, whose guests the Lindberghs were. Previously the flyers signed the papers of the public health department. A crowd of more than 1,000 gathered at the airport, and as the plane came down in the channel, after encircling the port, whistles of harbor craft sounded a raucous welcome.

From the airport the visitors were driven directly to La Fortaleza, the governor's palace in San Juan. They remained at La Fortaleza 30 minutes and then returned to the airport to inspect the plane.

Although confirmation from the colonel was lacking, it was indicated that the Americans will leave at 9 a. m. tomorrow for Santo Domingo City, the capital of the Dominican republic and about 300 miles due west of here.

At the airport Col. Lindbergh supervised the overhauling of the motor and inspected the hangar and shops with Frank Powers, local manager for the Pan-American lines.

ADMIRAL BYRD RACES EXPLORER TO SOUTH POLE

Seeks to Beat Ellsworth; Plane Poised for Hop.

BY QUENTIN POPE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 14.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd expects to beat Lincoln Ellsworth to the antarctic by flying from his ship, the Jacob Ruppert, to Little America.

It was learned today that when Byrd's flagship, the Jacob Ruppert, sailed from here Tuesday morning his Curtiss Condor biplane was completely assembled on pontoons and ready to be lowered into the water.

Ellsworth, with his chief companions, Sir Hubert Wilkins and Bert Balchen, sailed from Dunedin aboard the Wyatt Earp a week ahead of Byrd. Ellsworth's Northrop Delta monoplane is not fitted with pontoons, but can be fitted with skis to take off from the ice.

Secrecy Veils Departure.

Secrecy veiled Byrd's departure from Wellington. When questioned as to the possibility of a race to Little America the admiral said:

"We will get there first."

Asked about the plane he has ready for an immediate take-off, Byrd said he proposed to make a series of flights while navigating past an area not visited since Capt. James Cook's voyage of 1773. These flights will be for aerial mapping and surveying, he explained.

The possibility envisioned here is that Byrd and two companions will take off from Ross sea and head for Little America, and that Byrd's two ships, the Jacob Ruppert and the Bear of Oakland, and Ellsworth's Wyatt Earp will await the break-up of the ice pack before fighting their slow and dangerous way through to the Bay of Whales.

Previous Trip Recalled.

It was recalled here that in 1929 Byrd's two relief ships, the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling, waited for nearly two months for the

Flying Forecasts

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 11 p. m. Dec. 14, to noon, Dec. 15:

Chicago-St. Louis—Low overcast, light rain tonight turning to snow north portion Friday morning; strong southwest winds and rains becoming northwest Friday forenoon.

Chicago-Cincinnati—Low overcast; occasional light rain turning to snow extreme north Friday morning; strong southwest winds and rains shifting to northwest extreme north portion Friday forenoon.

Chicago-Cleveland—Low overcast; occasional rain turning to snow extreme west Friday morning; strong southwest winds and rains becoming northwest extreme west portion Friday morning.

Chicago-Twin Cities—Low overcast; snow extreme north, freezing rain turning to snow central portion tonight and south Friday morning; strong shifting winds.

Chicago-San Francisco—Clear to scattered light overcast; extreme west; low overcast with light rain central and east turning to snow further central portion tonight and east portion by morning; strong shifting winds.

Back to begin to break. The vessels fought their way through the pack and an icy storm for two weeks.

Byrd's plane is carried on a platform on the deck. He has three other un assembled planes below deck. Ellsworth's plane is carried below deck.

Byrd stated that there is the friendliest cooperation between himself and Ellsworth. Yet the rivalry to get to Little America first apparently is keen.

Though the duraluminum pontoons of the Byrd plane are suitable for taking off from water, it is doubtful if they are suitable for hopping from snow. In event of a forced landing or a flight to Little America, Byrd and his party would be forced to await the arrival of a dog team or the ships.

Rubin, Film Comedian, and Wife Differ on His Salary.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Rubins—Benny, the motion picture comedian, and his wife, Mary—are at loggerheads over his monthly salary.

Mrs. Rubin, appearing in court to ask for $750 a month, $5,000 attorney fees and $500 costs pending trial of her suit for divorce, said her husband's net income is $3,740 a month.

Rubin said in his affidavit he earns only $500 a month and now has only $60 to his name. He also said the job bringing him $500 a month would terminate in two weeks.

GUTKNECHT HITS BACK AT CRITICS OF COURT RECORD

of Auto Theft Gangs.

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht of the Boys' court, who has been criticized by the police and the Chicago Crime commission for leniency with automobile thieves, answered his attackers yesterday in a speech at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Bar association.

In a vehement outburst in which he talked himself hoarse, the judge assailed the crime commission and the automobile detail of the police department for "their attack on the modern work being done in the Boys' court."

He defended the system he inaugurated in that court in which charges against first offenders who admit their guilt are changed so that they may be punished, but not stigmatized with a police record. Under this plan he doesn't put convicted boys on probation, he said.

Cites Operation of Syndicate.

"I'm not indicting the police force," Judge Gutknecht declared, "but you can't expect the judge of the Boys' court to railroad these boys when there is a syndicate of automobile thieves who haven't been brought to book. We have a police force of six or seven thousand men. Let's not kid ourselves that we can get along in a metropolitan city and not pay our policemen and have a full force of virgin innocence."

"I've had 2,000 automobile cases before me in the last year and every defendant who was guilty under the evidence was either sent to the grand jury or to jail. During that same time the police brought me four fences. All of them were sent to the grand Jury and not one of them spent a day in jail, even the night on which they were arrested.

"Last spring I had a boy brought before me in an automobile theft case and in talking with him I learned that a fence was involved. I then called in the head of the auto detail of the police department and said: 'I've got a fence; are you interested?' He said he was. I said: 'I'll bet you $500 that you are not interested. I'll tell you who the owner of this fence concern is.'

Baron Boy's Confession.

"When I told him, he said he was not interested so I got the boy and he gave his confession. Later I saw the father of the fence involved in this case walking out of the office of the auto detail. Never again will I make public a confession I get from a boy."

The judge pointed out that in the first 11 months of 1933 there was a decrease of 19.9 per cent in the number of automobiles stolen in the city as compared with the same period in the previous year. "The decrease," he said, "occurred during the time he has been sitting in the Boys' court."

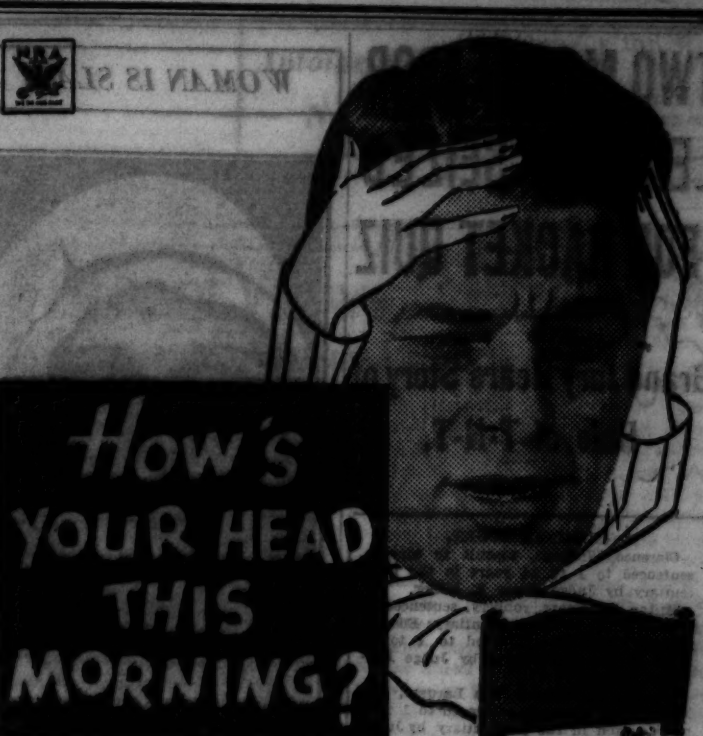

"I don't say I cut down the auto thefts," he declared, "but I do say that my so-called leniency has not been responsible for auto thefts."

He termed the crime commission's report an "unjust, malicious, misinformed and dishonest" attack upon him.

When informed of the judge's remarks, Lieut. John Kelly, head of the police department's auto detail, expressed the wish that the Chicago Bar association would find out the facts in the case in which the speaker referred to him as being involved. He also pointed out that the police department had nothing to do with "fences" or other persons obtaining their release by posting bond after they have been arrested. That matter, he said, is up to the courts.

MAKE THIS CHRISTMAS EVERLASTING

WITH "IDEAL" GAS HEATING

Gather around the Christmas tree in your modern basement this year and celebrate your freedom from all heating cares. No more fuel to order... no more waiting for fuel delivery... no more back-bending firing... no odors... no fuss... no muss... with Ideal Gas Heating installed in your home. Give your family the gift that keeps on giving—automatic gas heating.

There's no work or worry with automatic Ideal Gas Heating. Your fuel supply is ready whenever you need it. You don't have to guess how much fuel you will need, order it, store it and pay for it in advance. You pay for only what you actually use, after you use it. And, when you consider all the advantages of this modern, fully automatic heating—the elimination of work, the cleanliness and the protection to health—the cost is surprisingly low.

LET GAS DO ALL THE WORK

With an automatic Ideal Gas Boiler, you can have a playroom or game room of the basement. You can save wear and tear on your furniture, draperies and rugs upstairs. You'll never need to soil your clothes or spoil your disposition cutting kindling—starting the fire—filling the furnace—carrying ashes. Gas heating is so clean that it saves much of the cost of seasonal housecleaning, too. A match lights your heating system in the fall; a turn of the hand shuts it off in the spring. All winter long, Gas—the silent, dependable, automatic servant—does all the work at a cost within reach of even the modest home.

IDEAL GAS BOILER ASSURES ECONOMY

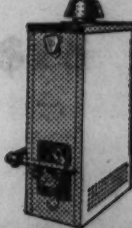

An Ideal Gas Boiler in your home, gives you all the advantages of carefree, automatic gas heating with fuel economy. All controls are centered in a single valve which operates automatically to maintain exactly the temperature you require. A thermostat placed conveniently in your living room, keeps the temperature, day and night, at just the place you want it. A flick of the finger changes this temperature to any other you may wish. Thermostatic pilot and all other boiler controls are mechanical in operation.

The Ideal Gas Boiler is priced within the budget of the small home owner. It can be installed quickly and easily to replace your present steam or hot water heating boiler, using the rest of your present radiator heating system. By acting promptly, you can have the installation made in time for Christmas.

LEARN HOW LITTLE IT COSTS

Right Now—before you go through another winter of endless effort to keep cozy and warm—find out how little it costs to enjoy Ideal Automatic Gas Heating. Visit the nearest showroom and ask for a free estimate of the cost of heating your home with Gas. Complete information will be furnished without obligation. One and Only Assembly Ball to Be Tonight

All Guests Accept to Hold Social Prestige.

BY JUDITH CASS.
MRS. DEXTER CUMMINGS, whose husband is the youngest and newest governor of the select Assemblies, will be the youngest woman in the receiving line that will assemble in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel tonight by 10:30 o'clock to greet the eight hundred—or as many of them as are there—who have been invited to this season's one and only Assembly ball.

And whether the entire eight hundred are there or not you may be sure they all have accepted and paid their $20 per couple, for it is a tradition that to refuse an invitation to an Assembly takes one's name off the list for next year. There are those, of course, who do not care enough for social prestige to mind being removed from the exclusive Assembly list, but they are much fewer in numbers than those who aren't on the list and would like to be!

Mr. Cummings was elected to fill the place on the board of governors left vacant when Wayne Chaffin-Taylor moved to Washington in the early autumn.

Heading the receiving line will be gracious Mrs. Arthur Meeker, wife of the chairman, and others who will wear with distinction the corsages of gardenias that will be delivered, fresh and dewy, to the ballroom tonight to be worn by the wives of the governors, will be Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Howard F. Gillette, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Charles G. King, Mrs. Eames MacVeach, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. William R. Odell, Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, and Mrs. John A. Stevenson.

Number of Dinners Will Precede Ball.

There are any number of dinner parties before the ball, and since several of them are dinner dances it is safe to predict that those hosts and hostesses and their guests will be ultrafashionably late in arriving at the ball. The T. Philip Swiffs have taken the bungalow atop the Hotel Sherman for dinner and dancing, and the Lloyd Laflins, who also will provide dance music, are having their guests at the Tavern. The Byron S. Harveys are having one of the largest dinner parties at the Casino, and another who will entertain there is Joseph C. Belden Jr.

Mrs. Francis Johnson is having guests at the apartment she is occupying this winter at 1430 Lake Shore drive, and the William McCormick Blair and the Huntington B. Henrys are others who will have their dinner guests at their homes. The Blairs live at 1416 Astor street and the Henrys at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul McBride are other dinner hosts who prefer to entertain at home, but are having their party at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs of 1100 Lake Shore drive, instead of at their own home because they live in Lake Forest. Mrs. William Mitchell, who will arrive home today from an eastern trip, and Mr. Mitchell are having dinner guests, too.

Report Progress in Sale of Opera Boxes.

The most Christmas-looking person we've seen, and one who brightens any dull picture these winter days, was Mrs. Francis Johnson at the opera box committee meeting and luncheon yesterday in the Electric club. Usually gowned in black, the lipstick red gown and hat she wore were particularly noticeable, but every one agreed that they were most becoming and smart.

Mrs. Johnson sat at the right of Mrs. Bartholomew Osborne, the capable young chairman, who presided, and on Mrs. Johnson's right was Mrs. Henry Faurst Jr., who had to have her roast pork cut up for her by her neighbor to the right, Mrs. Raymond M. Ashcraft, because of a broken finger, suffered when a window in the Stuart Logans' hunting lodge slammed on it.

The committee members reported quite a number of boxholders for the opera season to open on Dec. 26, and each member took new names to try and add to the list.

Miss Pauline Seipp to Bow at Dance.

Miss Pauline Seipp, the Edwin A. Seipp's tall and charming daughter, is arriving at home tomorrow from Vassar for the Christmas holidays. She is to have the first large dinner-dance of the season, one week from tonight, at the Casino, and it will be her formal presentation to society.

Besides the dinner-dance Mr. and Mrs. Seipp are taking their daughter and about twelve of her friends to see the Princeton Triangle show Dec. 26. The young people will dine first at the Seipp's apartment on Lincoln Park West, and after the show they will go on to Miss Jean Wilhelm's debut ball.

Mrs. Jay Morse Ely Coming to City.

All her friends will be delighted to learn that Mrs. Jay Morse Ely will spend Christmas in Chicago with her mother-in-law, Mrs. C. Morse Ely. The elder Mrs. Ely went to New York to meet her daughter-in-law on her return from Europe, where she has been since her husband's tragic death some months ago, and they both will come to Chicago together, arriving here Monday or Tuesday.

'Who Is It?' Is Question at Art Reception

Throng Shows Interest in Social Names.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

THE second floor galleries of the Art Institute which have been closed since Nov. 1, the final day of a Century of Progress exhibition of art, were crowded again yesterday afternoon just as they were during that notable exhibition for the reopening of an entirely new group of exhibitions. The reception was given by the trustees for members of the institute.

It was a different crowd, however, not just art-lovers and sightseers there to see the art, as were the thousands who visited the galleries during the World's Fair, but also dozens of women as eager to see the society women who were pouring and serving tea as they were to see the paintings. Not that they didn't enjoy the pictures—they did—but they enjoyed seeing the women they read about in the society columns of the daily newspapers, too, and the society reporters were kept busy identifying the socialites.

"Who's the one in the double red?" asked one, pointing to Mrs. Potter Palmer, hostess in the gallery where French painting of the early 19th century is exhibited. Mrs. Palmer's "double red" outfit was lovely, a cloth dress of a dark rich shade, with a velvet turban of a brighter red. There was a jeweled clip on her hat and in her ears and around her neck were pearls.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour Stunning in Black.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, stunning in black with touches of white and pearls, was admired greatly by all who saw her. At one time when she was leaning down talking to Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson, who was pouring, a woman who was waiting for tea whispered to her neighbor, "It couldn't be Mrs. Valentine. Mrs. Armour and Mrs. Valentine aren't friendly." We hastened to assure her that it wasn't Mrs. Valentine, that it was Mrs. Ryerson, and that Mrs. Armour and Mrs. Valentine were great friends. "Where's Irene Castle McLaughlin?" asked another, and when she was told that Mrs. McLaughlin wasn't there she turned away, mumbling, "She's the one I came to see."

The octagonal tea table was as lovely and timely a one as we've ever seen, with a silver cloth that fell almost to the floor and was edged in Christmas tree tinsel. In the center was a jungle of Christmas greens arranged around a mirror pool, and the effect was unbelievably beautiful. Four silver services and silver leaf candlesticks holding silver candles and standing on mirror plaques and silver obelisks completed the decorations of the stunning table. The table in the gallery of international painting of the 19th and 20th centuries, in which Mrs. Chauncey McCormick was hostess, was identical with the one presided over by Mrs. Palmer.

Serve Thousands at Tea Tables.

No waitresses in a one-armed lunchroom ever worked harder than did the women who were assisting in the serving and pouring of tea, for they served thousands with tea and dainty cakes.

Among those assisting Mrs. Palmer were Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson, Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson, and Mrs. Charles H. Worcester, all of whom were pouring when this reporter was there, and Miss Florence Bartlett, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. James W. Thorne, Mrs. George T. Langhorne,

British Expert Aims a Double at Culbertson

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(P)—Lieut. Col. Walter Buller, bridge critic, made a vigorous attack today upon the quality of the game in the United States and upon Ely Culbertson.

"The standard of play in America," he told the Albion club, "is appallingly low and easily the worst in the world."

"Many professionals in America are monsters who are continually thrusting parasites upon us. You should no longer be misled by them but transfer your allegiance to those of us who appeal to your common sense."

"Everything that Culbertson has suggested is not in the direction of improving the game but ruining it."

A question submitted by Buller to the Portland club last fall caused the London organization to outlaw the Culbertson four and five no trump conventions and other ace showing bids. The ruling was made after a team captained by Culbertson had defeated two British teams.

The Whist Club of New York has ruled in favor of such conventions.

New York, Dec. 14.—(P)—Ely Culbertson said today that Lieut. Col. Walter Buller, his British critic, was not representative of British bridge players.

"Most British players," he said, "are wonderful sportsmen. He has been badly beaten by me and his loser's squeal is music to my ears."

Beauty Sings; Sings as Well as She Looks

Grete Stueckgold Appears with Orchestra.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A new and glamorous artist introduced herself last night when Grete Stueckgold appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. She is quite the most decorative person who has come upon the stage of Orchestra hall in a long time, blonde as to coloring, soprano as to voice, ravishing as to appearance, and singing as well as she looks.

Those who approve of hearing a Mozart aria and a group of Hugo Wolf's songs sung in a supremely beautiful manner will do well to go to the hall when she repeats her performance this afternoon. The aria, by the way, is the rarely heard "Per Fata, Ben Mio," Flordilla's number in "Cosi Fan Tutte." The Wolf group numbers five, four in the composer's graver manner, the fifth being the brief and lovely "Er Ist."

Here is delightful tone, distinguished manner, intelligence, delicacy of approach, certainty of touch, all in one artist, and charm of personality in addition. Small wonder that Mme. Stueckgold was something to applaud at the time and remember afterwards.

Conductor Stock introduced a novelty for orchestra, which somehow did not make the hit that it might have, for it has its points, many to be labeled as clever. It is a suite called "Noah's Ark," by Vittorio Rieti, one of Italy's younger composers. Written as music for a ballet, it demanded the staging of angles, primitive colorings, and modernistic animals, because it is in that manner of composition. It is bright, at times humorous, and none too deep, something on the same order as "Dennis Taylor's" "Through the Looking Glass," an earlier number on the program, but not as good music.

Dino Borgioli, who will sing several of the important tenor roles during the first part of the coming season by the Chicago Grand Opera company, has arrived in Chicago. He is better known in Europe and South America than in this country, but would seem to have been a sensation in San Francisco during the last two seasons there. He sang Rodolfo to Mme. Melba's Mimì in "La Bohème" on her farewell appearance in Australia several years ago. He is Tuscan by birth and 35 years old.

A note to this department points out that Mr. Stock placed the Taylor number on the program in deference to the benefit performance for the Chicago Maternity center of the film version of "Alice in Wonderland." This film will have a first showing at the Stevens hotel on Dec. 21. Dimitri Tiomkin has written a musical score for it.

Mr. Stock began his program with Malipiero's arrangement of a concerto for organ and strings by Corelli, another piece new to the repertoire. Fairly quiet, although by no means solemn in manner, it made a first rate impression of its kind. The final number was Alfvén's "Midsummer Wake."

1. The first of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the United States is now living in urban areas. This is a result of the process of urbanization, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. The population of the United States has increased from about 100 million in 1900 to over 200 million in 1960. At the same time, the population of rural areas has decreased from about 100 million in 1900 to about 50 million in 1960. This has led to a concentration of the population in urban areas, which has had a number of important consequences. One of the most important is that it has led to a change in the way of life of the majority of the population. In rural areas, the population has traditionally been engaged in agriculture, and the way of life has been based on the rhythms of the seasons. In urban areas, the population has traditionally been engaged in industry and commerce, and the way of life has been based on the rhythms of the clock. This has led to a number of differences between the two ways of life, including differences in the amount of leisure time, the amount of social contact, and the amount of participation in community activities. These differences have led to a number of problems, including the problem of social isolation, the problem of mental health, and the problem of crime. These problems have led to a number of efforts to improve the quality of life in urban areas, including efforts to create more green space, to create more social services, and to create more opportunities for participation in community activities. These efforts have had some success, but there is still a long way to go. The second of the two main reasons for the problems of urban areas is the fact that the majority of the population of the United States is now living in a very small number of large cities. This is a result of the process of centralization, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. VEGETABLES AND MEAT SELLING AT BARGAIN PRICES

Fruits Also on the List of Market Attractions.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A picture in words of Chicago's markets and stores preparing for food shoppers today and tomorrow is a picture of attractive bargains in meats, fruits, vegetables and other staples—a suitable preamble of Christmas cheer.

For in spite of gradual rise in the average prices of most foods, there still are bargains insisted upon by the law of supply and demand and accentuated by merchants and thirty shopkeepers alike. In meats such as beef, pork and roasts, and in the poultry supplies, quality seems to be a partner, temporarily at least, of low prices.

Vegetable Supply Adequate.
In a survey of November's Thanksgiving supplies, the only vegetable which seemed to be scarce was cabbage. The supply of vegetables this week-end are fully as adequate and even the cabbage prices remain low due to shipments of "new" cabbage from Texas, Arizona and Louisiana to supplement the northern fall harvest coming out of storage houses.

Potatoes cost a little more than they did a month ago, due to slowly rising wholesale prices, but the increase is more evident in the medium sized grades than in the western grown large baking types. Sweet potatoes and yams may be included in the bargain list, depending on quality.

In the fruit supplies, especially, a more than typical display of colorful cheer is offered by food stores. The new crop of naval oranges is arriving from the southwest in quantities sufficient to provide bargains this week-end and promising even lower prices on both large and small sizes next week for holiday shopping lists.

Naval Oranges Larger Than Usual.
The naval oranges usually are not as large as they are this year, vying even with the largest Valencia oranges. The latter kind is nearing the end of its season and dealers predicted yesterday that there would be few on the market after another week. Apples for cooking, baking and eating are plentiful.

The principal grape variety being sold in Chicago this week-end is the red emperor, although there are a few white malagas, some black Baco and some of the white Elvira that come packed in sawdust. The perlman supply is expected to last not more than ten days.

Holly and Mistletoe.
Additional holiday suggestions are found in many stores in the boxes of holly from North Carolina, Tennessee and Delaware, and the mistletoe from the south and east. Christmas trees of spruce and balsam still have white frost and a breath of the north woods clinging to needles and branches.

Among the food supplies the staples and perishables again are found largely in the list of bargains. Butter prices have changed little if any from last week-end, while lard is being sold at lower prices, and eggs and bacon are higher.

STEFFENS JOKES SUDDEN ILLNESS ON STREET HERE

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Gray bearded Lincoln Steffens may be headed to "quote him" for the last round up, but he has a good time the prospect falls to worry him. The 67 year old author, lecturer, and erstwhile city editor of several New York newspapers, related in his compartment aboard a westbound train today, and wine cracked about a sudden illness with which he was stricken Tuesday in Chicago.

Steffens revealed that he became ill after addressing the Chicago Rotary club.

"I was walking along a street when I felt a sudden tendency to veer toward the left," he explained. "I thought perhaps it was because I had become so radical in recent years. But the doctor said the same thing would have happened if my political tendencies had been toward the right."

Ordered by a physician to remain in Chicago for ten days, Steffens left quietly last night for his home at Carmel, Cal. He said no one knows precisely how serious his trouble is.

"I wouldn't mind, though, if it were the end," he said. "I've no complaint to make. To me, 1933 has been the funniest year in the history of the world. We're crying because we have too much."

BOX OF COOKIES FOR CHRISTMAS HOMEMADE GIFT

Attractively Packed, Sure to Please.

It's much more fun to give Christmas presents in which we've had a hand in the making. But don't despair if you're not adept with the crocheting hook or embroidery needle. A box of Christmas cakes and cookies, attractively packed, will be enjoyed by all your friends, and you'll want to keep some on hand for your own family.

For a Christmas assortment there are such foreign cookies as Pfefferkuchen, Spritzke, Spritzke, and Wierknack. These recipes along with fifteen others are in Mary Meade's booklet, "Famous Yuletide Cakes and Cookies." The price of the booklet is 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, or it may be obtained by sending 5 cents, stamps or coin, to Mary Meade, Tribune Tower.

Several in List.

Other booklets which may be obtained at the Public Service office or by writing to Mary Meade are:

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday caused damage of several hundred dollars to the three-story brick smoke house of the William Davis Packing company at 4101 South Union avenue.

A FESTIVE CAKE

for holiday enjoyment

Here's a cake that is unusual—the recipe was taken from the pages of "Country Home." It will add to the festive spirit in your home.

PECAN CREAM CAKE

3 cake pans ground to meat
1/2 lb. butter
1/2 lb. sugar
1/2 lb. flour
1/2 lb. pecans
1/2 lb. eggs
1/2 lb. vanilla
1/2 lb. baking powder

Measure pecans after grinding. Beat egg yolks, add sugar and beat well. Sift baking powder, flour and nuts. Fold out and flour mixture into stiffly beaten egg whites. Then fold into egg yolks and sugar. Blend and pour into two layer cake pans lined with greased paper. Bake in 375° oven 15 to 20 min. Remove and cool in the pans. To serve, spread with sweetened, flavored whipped cream. Serves 8 to 10.

DAIRY INDUSTRY EXPANDS SOON TO SOUTH POLE

Three Cows with Byrd on Antarctic Trip.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Dairying on the high seas and on the almost deadly cold Little America, a suburb of the south pole, is one of the interesting features of the polar expedition on which Admiral Richard E. Byrd recently embarked.

To persons interested in foods the trip has possibly as much or more interest than the more technical scientific aspects of this second south pole expedition by Byrd, as the food supplies are considered of prime importance.

Nearly a fourth of the Jake Ruppert, the largest of two ships, is allotted to three Guernsey cows and their food supplies, so that the men may have fresh milk during the months on the ice.

Tons of Cattle Food.
At Boston, where the cows were loaded on board ship, 40 tons of hay and a large grain and beet supply were included as cargo, so that sufficient food would be available when the 163 foot "dairy barn" is constructed of wood and ice blocks at Little America.

According to E. W. Bunce of the American Guernsey Cattle club, through which the three milk cows were obtained for the polar trip, the Byrd expedition has received extensive publicity for carrying the cows on board ship, yet whaling vessels which go annually to the ice packs near Little America also carry small herds of dairy cows aboard ship to supplement dried and canned milk and milk products.

A whaling vessel in modern days has become such a complete floating factory that hospitals, fleets of speedboats, and efficient machinery make less fearful the old time dangers and hardships common to the whaling industry.

Supplies on Both Ships.
Although the Bear is to be considered the Byrd supply ship, the Jake Ruppert will carry such freight as four airplanes and a snowmobile, an autogiro, wireless equipment, 2,000 tons of fuel oil, 1,100 drums of aviation gasoline, and 400 tons of special oil for Diesel engines.

For food, the supplies on the Jake Ruppert include 25,000 pounds of flour, 1,500 tons of fresh meat, three tons of coffee, two tons of sugar, 6,000 dozens of eggs, one and one-half tons of butter, 10,000 cans of evaporated milk, two tons of smoked and pickled meat, five tons of mixed flour, 50 tons of dehydrated vegetables, and ten tons of miscellaneous foodstuffs, including concentrated orange, lemon, and lime juice. Quite an order of food!

For two years the members of the expedition will be thankful for or regretting the items remembered or forgotten in planning this trip. The commander expects this second expedition will provide information of value in radio, aviation, dairying, biology, chemistry, botany, mineralogy, and meteorology. He reported recently that he fully expected to return with the three cows as well as a calf scheduled to be born late this month.

Secretary Swanson Goes to Hospital to Treat a Cold

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Claude Swanson was admitted to the naval hospital today to be treated for a cold. A bulletin by Dr. C. B. Munger described the secretary's condition as "good," but visitors were forbidden.

To preserve sweet cider by canning, pour it into clean glass jars, adjust the rubbers and covers, and place the jars in a hot water bath. Keep the water at 145 degrees Fahrenheit for 25 minutes. Then remove the jars and seal them.

DATES HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR; CROP SMALLER

A date crop in California 20 per cent smaller than anticipated and the regulation of shipments to prevent excess supplies sent to market have kept fresh date prices higher in Chicago this winter than they were a year ago.

In previous years the price has been reduced by the rushing of dates to the city market nearest the California orchards. As a result prices in Los Angeles were forced down to such a low figure that retail prices in other large markets remained low, according to the California Date Growers' association, which controls most of the domestic date production and marketing.

Eight Reasons Why you should buy CANNED APPLESAUCE

1. It offers exceptional food value.
2. It is a fact that when apples are prepared as applesauce they are more easily digested.
3. Applesauce is good for you—containing mineral salts that are beneficial.
4. It is good alone—refreshing for breakfast, as a dessert for lunch, or as a side dish with the meat course at dinner.
5. It is a favored food for children.
6. It is a quick and "friendly help" in preparing desserts that will satisfy the most critical, jaded appetite.
7. It is uniformly fine, in quality, flavor, and consistency.
8. It is more economical and satisfactory than making it yourself—if you figure the cost of apples, sugar, waste, and fuel.

You can make applesauce only from the type of apples which happen to be in the market—but is a blend of apples of distinctly different flavors.

GET CHRISTMAS PLUM PUDDING READY EARLY

May Be Kept Two or Three Weeks.

Plum pudding and Christmas dinner go together as traditionally as Thanksgiving and turkey. Two or three weeks beforehand is not a bit too early to make the pudding, as it may be kept for a long time and will benefit by the ripening process.

1 pound suet, ground.
1 pound flour.
1 pound seeded raisins, chopped.
3 pound currants, cut fine.
1 cup pecan nut meal, cut fine.
1 egg.
1/2 cup molasses.
1/2 cup brandy.
1/2 cup orange juice.
1/2 cup lemon juice.
1/2 cup vinegar.
1/2 cup salt.
1/2 cup sugar.
1/2 cup butter.
1/2 cup oil.
1/2 cup lard.
1/2 cup shortening.
1/2 cup fat.
1/2 cup grease.
1/2 cup tallow.
1/2 cup suet.
1/2 cup butter.
1/2 cup oil.
1/2 cup lard.
1/2 cup shortening.
1/2 cup fat.
1/2 cup grease.
1/2 cup tallow.
1/2 cup suet.

4 teaspoons nutmeg.
3 teaspoons allspice.
3 cups cider.
Mix the ground suet with the sugar. Mix the fruit and nuts with half the flour. Beat the egg yolks and whites separately. Add the yolks to the suet and sugar, and then add the fruit and the nuts. Sift together, twice, the salt, baking powder, spices, and the remaining flour, and add these ingredients to the suet mixture, alternately with the cider. Fold in the egg whites and mix well.

partly fill them with the pudding mixture; cover them loosely with the pan top to prevent condensed moisture from settling on the pudding, and steam the pudding for three hours. The pudding will keep for weeks if the cans are covered with paper or with the loose can tops. Before serving, set the can of pudding on a rack in boiling water for about an hour to heat it through, loosen the pudding with a knife, and turn it out on a platter. The pudding may be served with hard sauce or with vanilla ice cream.

AWAIT CRISIS IN OPERATION ON HOCKEY STAR

Condition Is Slightly Improved.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Irvin [Ace] Bailey, dangerously injured Toronto hockey player, came through a long and delicate trepanning operation on his fractured skull in encouraging condition tonight in the Boston City hospital.

Dr. Martin Crotty, Boston Bruins' physician, who assisted Dr. Donald Munro of the City hospital staff, and Dr. John S. Hodgson during the surgery and acted as their spokesman, said the 31 year old hockey player's condition showed a slight improvement when he was removed from the table. It would be a matter of many hours, he said, before the crisis arrived.

In similar operations, which surgeons regarded as a 50-50 risk, the improvement or decline has been progressive after the crisis is reached. The surgery on Bailey, which followed closely upon the second tapping of his spine in 24 hours to relieve intercranial pressure, was said to consist of an entrance inside the skull to remove damaged tissue, if found, and tie up bleeding vessels.

Believed Through with Hockey.

Although his own surgeons refused to hazard an opinion whether Bailey, in the event that he makes a complete recovery, would be able to continue his hockey career, the consensus of nonparticipating experts was that he would not.

Dr. Crotty said Bailey, despite his heartening showing under the knife, was still in an extremely critical condition but he and his associates were hopeful.

Bailey was removed from the Audubon hospital, where he was rushed from the Boston Garden rink Tuesday night after being felled by Eddie Shore, Boston Bruins' burly defense star, to Dr. Munro's neuro-surgical ward this afternoon after his wife and small daughter arrived here from Toronto.

Demands Shore Be Punished.

They remained with him for an hour, during which he was conscious and able to talk to them. During the hours that Bailey spent on the operating table, Connie Smythe, Toronto manager, remained close by.

Smythe said he would demand that the National Hockey league governors suspend Shore for as long as Bailey remained incapacitated. Later he vowed that his hockey team would never again play the Bruins with Shore in the lineup.

Meantime Shore was at home suffering physical pain from the three-inch scalp wound he received when Reginald [Red] Horner struck him again in retaliation for his tragic fumbling of Bailey. He was in mental anguish over his fears for Bailey's future.

Shore Tells Story.

Shore was interviewed at his home today by Inspector John McCarthy of the Boston police homicide squad. In the presence of a police stenographer Shore told McCarthy, "I was skating along with my left leg down. I didn't see Bailey until it was too late and struck him with my left leg down against him. I don't remember whether I was knocked down or not. There was no feeling between us. It was purely accidental. We had been friends for some time. Twenty seconds after this happened 'Red' Horner punched me in the chin and I believe I was struck because of the collision. I went into the dressing room to see Bailey. He was conscious. I said, 'Ace, I'm sorry this happened. I hope you're not badly injured. I assure you it was not intentional.' He replied, 'That's all right, Eddie; it's all in the game.' I did not strike him with a stick. I had no malice."

McCarthy, before questioning Shore, interviewed Smythe and the Bruins' manager, about the events leading up to Bailey's injury. He said that he was satisfied there was no criminal angle to the case but, under Massachusetts law, a manslaughter charge will be made if the hockey player's injury proves fatal.

NORTHCOTT FINED $25.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Lawrence [Baldy] Northcott, left winger of the Montreal Maroons hockey club, was fined $25 today by Frank Patrick, managing director of the National Hockey league, for his part in the fracas at Detroit Sunday night between the Maroons and the Detroit Red Wings.

Northcott was fined for attempting to attack a goal umpire.

YANKS RELEASE PENNOCK AND JOEY SEWELL

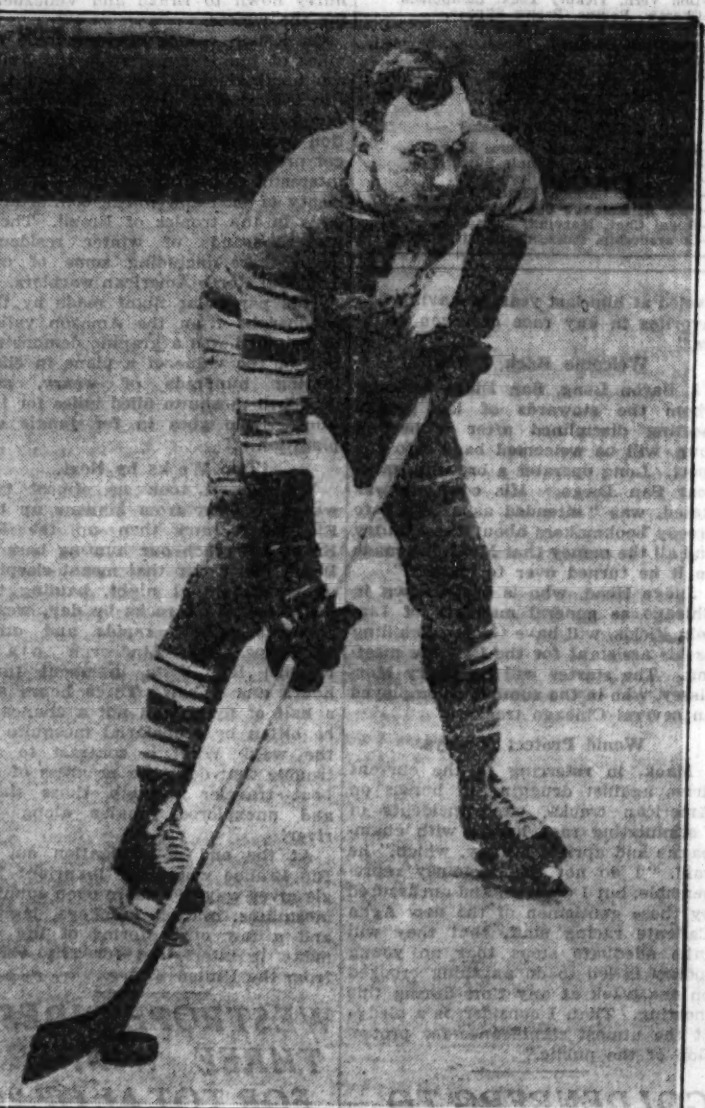

The New York Yankees yesterday unofficially released Pitcher Herb Pennock and Third Baseman Joe Sewell, two of the foremost veterans of baseball.

Pennock, regarded as one of the greatest pitchers in baseball history, has served 21 years in the American league, pitching for Philadelphia, Boston, and New York. Sewell has served 14 years with Cleveland and the Yankees.

Another Yankee veteran, Coach Cy Perkins, also was released and signed up as coach of the Detroit Tigers.

FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Ponzi Whips Greenleaf; 6th Cue Triumph

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

"The Pursuit of Ponzi," a thrilling serial rivaling the Perils of Pauline, still endures at the world's pocket billiards tournament at the 131 South Wabash Avenue recreation room. Andrew Ponzi, a smallish and sturdy Italian from Philadelphia, who had eluded five other pursuers, last night dodged the greatest of them all, Ralph Greenleaf, by a margin of 126 to 30, in one hour and ten innings.

Andrew suffered the great Greenleaf, the villain of the game, to pin him off neither cliff nor burning tent. He dominated the evening's installment from the start, thereby pleasing a host of customers who had followed the fortunes of Ponzi through five previous chapters of the serial with breathless interest.

Ralph Gets a Rest.

Andrew stepped out in the sixth inning and made that Desperate Desmond, Greenleaf, slump into his chair with a run of 30 and a lead of 47 to 7. Ralph continued to sit there while the impatient Andrew went on and on, and finally put an end to the business with a heroic finish of 55 in the tenth inning.

It was Ponzi's sixth straight victory of the show, putting him in first place with nary a holler from any of the other nine contestants, with the possible exception of the placid Erwin Rudolph, who has won four and lost one, and Jimmy Caras, the Delaware Greek, who had won three, in a row.

Giants and Bears Drill at Cubs' Park Today.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The New York Giants, who meet the Chicago Bears Sunday at Wrigley field for the championship of the National Professional Football league, have outscored the Bears in total points for the season. But the Bears hold an all time advantage over their rivals in games won and lost and in addition they have divided games this season which makes the title contest something of a toss up.

Since 1925 the Bears and Giants have played 15 games. The Bears have won 9 and lost 6, compiling a point total of 153 to 124. The all time record follows:

1925—Bears, 19; Giants, 7.
1926—Bears, 7; Giants, 0.
1927—Giants, 13; Bears, 7.
1928—Bears, 13; Giants, 0.
1929—Bears, 26; Giants, 14.
1930—Giants, 13; Bears, 0.
1931—Bears, 6; Giants, 0.
1932—Bears, 13; Giants, 0.
1933—Bears, 23; Giants, 8.
1934—Bears, 0; Giants, 0.
1935—Bears, 14; Giants, 10.

Kirk Richards, who was high scorer for Simpson college in 1932, leads the Giants in average gains this season. Richards played in six of the Giants' fourteen games, carried the ball 41 times for a total gain of 277 yards, or better than a 6 yard average. Ken Strong, veteran half back, and Harry Newman, quarter back, each of whom played in all the Giants' games, were the work horses of the eastern champions. Newman gained 437 yards in 49 attempts, while Strong advanced the ball 200 yards in 108 attempts.

Nagurski Leads Bears.

Brooko Nagurski led the Bears in average ground gained from scrimmage. He played in all thirteen games on the Bears' schedule, carrying the ball 123 times for 533 yards. Red Grange, finishing his eighth season in professional football, handled the ball second only to Nagurski. Red carried the ball 81 times for a total gain of 277 yards. Red's average, however, is not quite as good as that of Jack Manders, who advanced the ball 244 yards in 66 attempts.

A comparison of ball carriers for the Giants and Bears follows:

Player	Games	Yds.	Avg.
Nagurski	13	497	38.2
Grange	14	533	38.1
Burnett	14	300	21.4
Glendon	10	136	13.6

WYNNE TO COACH KENTUCKY FOR THREE SEASONS

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Chet Wynne, at present head football coach at Alabama Polytechnic institute, will direct the University of Kentucky football teams in 1934, 1935, and 1936.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman of the Kentucky athletic council, announced tonight. The announcement was made after a long distance telephone conversation with Wynne at Auburn, Ala.

Wynne will come to Lexington to complete arrangements and sign a contract after he attends a coaches' meeting at Chicago during the Christmas holidays.

Wynne will be released from his Alabama Poly contract, which has two years to run, on Dec. 31.

DIES OF SHOTGUN WOUNDS

Richard J. Glendon, Columbia crew coach, who was found dead of shotgun wounds yesterday.

Find Columbia Rowing Coach Shot to Death

South Chatham, Mass., Dec. 14.—(Special)—Bearing a gunshot wound in the right side and abdomen, the body of Richard J. [Rich] Glendon, coach of the Columbia university crew, was found today in a black, snow covered spot near an old ice house, not far from the beach.

The finding of the body, covered by the snow, culminated an all night search by his father, Richard A. [Old Dick] Glendon, famous Navy crew coach; his brother, Hubert, boxing coach at Columbia, and friends.

Despite several unexplained circumstances, Dr. C. H. Keene, local medical examiner, made a provisional finding of accidental death. Dr. Keene said he was not impressed by the fact that the elder Glendon had found in his son's room at their home here a letter, the contents of which were not divulged. Dr. Keene added that he was also unimpressed by the father's remarks to Police Chief Everett Hildred that "he's done it" and "we've got to keep looking now until we find him."

The Columbia coach, who was 37 years old, and known to his friends as a quiet, unassuming person, left his South Chatham home yesterday carrying a 12 gauge double-barreled shotgun. Although he presumably had set out to hunt, he wore light blue trousers and rubbers.

Becoming anxious when he failed to return, his father and brother began a search. Soon afterward the mysterious letter was found and the father hastened to the police.

The spot where the body was found was out of sight of any home. Nearby, in the snow, lay the shotgun, with the right barrel discharged.

"Old Dick" Glendon nearly collapsed when he found the note left by his son, who assisted and later succeeded him as coach at Annapolis. The father was overcome with grief when the body was found. The son occupied a room in his father's house since his recent marital difficulties had entered the courts.

Reveal Marital Troubles.

Only today it was reported that these marital difficulties had been settled last week-end. Both Glendon and his wife, the former Marie V. Fay Brookline, had actions pending. Glendon had sought a divorce and the wife separate support. Custody of their three children, Richard, 14; Thomas, 10; and Marie, 8, was never mentioned in the proceedings.

That the couple were having marital troubles was revealed publicly for the first time last summer when Glendon was summoned to court on a charge of assault and battery on his wife in their home here. The charge was never pressed.

Dr. Keene said tonight that he would make a second examination of the body. He said that when he made his first examination today he was en route to Boston on an urgent mission. Dr. Keene believed that the shotgun might have been discharged as Glendon climbed a wire fence near which the body was found.

MAJORS ADOPT STANDARD BALL FOR '34 SEASON

National League Favors More Hitting.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The lively old baseball which the American league sluggers have been knocking to all corners of the earth in recent seasons will be winging its way over the National league fences in 1934.

Chuck Klein, Babe Herman, Kiki Cuyler, Chick Hefey, Bill Terry, Mel Ott, Wally Berger, Paul Waner, and the other masters of swing in the National league will be taking a punch at it. When they connect the lively ball it is likely to go for a ride just as long as Babe Ruth or Jimmy Fox or Al Simmons or Lou Gehrig ever gave it.

After the annual joint meeting of the National and American leagues, over which Commissioner Landis presided and which came to a close after three hours of powwowing, the announcement came that the big problem of the day was the contents of the baseball. Further announcement was made that it was agreed to adopt a standard ball.

Managers Vote 5 to 1.

Twenty-four hours earlier the National league managers had voted 5 to 1 to Bill Terry of the world champion New York Giants was the lone rebel—for a livelier ball next season.

Thus wise old heads of baseball stroked their chin whiskers, rubbed their bulging mid-sections, whirled their thinking apparatus into a maelstrom and came to the conclusion the high speed American league ball will be the one which the National league sluggers will be battling against next season.

Will Harridge, the boss of the American league, and John Heydler, the chief of the National, will get their heads together at an early date and pick out the standard ball. With National league managers favoring more hitting, it is considered certain that the American league ball will be accepted as standard.

The major league managers have been pictured as hard hearted, but they were not that way when they gathered in the Palmer House yesterday. All of them seemed to want to do something for the good old fan.

Rule on Double Headers.

They fixed up old Charley Fan all right, because they decided there will be no synthetic double headers played before June 15. Old Charley Fan has his work cut out for him to explain to the "little man" why he's late to dinner July 1, August, and September when a double header at the price of one game will tie his will power into a sailor's knot.

John Shibe of the Philadelphia Athletics was granted permission to take an all-star American league team on a round the world trip. A team of National leaguers was invited to join up with them, but the conservative National league club owners turned them thumbs down.

The White Sox announced they have signed Conrad Flippen, star third baseman of the University of Arizona nine. All he has to do is to beat Jimmy Dykes out of the job.

The big deal which found officials of the Cubs, Boston Braves and St. Louis Cardinals in a huddle in Philip Wigley's suite at the Palmer House late in the afternoon and promised to involve the transfer of about ten players, exploded like a toy balloon. Charley Grimm, the Cubs' manager, made the bad announcement to the newspaper men.

Want Something for Nothing.

"Everybody wanted to get something but nobody was willing to give away anything," Grimm said.

Then Grimm hustled out to catch a train for his home in Mount Pleasant. He said to be involved in the big discussion included:

Chick Hefey, coveted by the Boston Braves.

Pat Malone, veteran pitcher of the Cubs, offered to the Cardinals.

Kiki Cuyler, great Cub outfielder, who was mentioned as a fast moving pawn in the triangular negotiations.

Two veteran infielders whose names, somehow, were shrouded in mystery.

Pepper Martin, desired by the Braves.

Rip Collins, first baseman of the Cards.

ROACH STRUCK IN FACE; FORCED TO QUIT GAME

Thompson, Couture Divide Scoring.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Our home loving Blackhawks last night looked the fast skating Detroit Red Wings, 4 to 0, the first licking the Chicagoans have been able to hang on the Detroiters since the opening of the 1933 season, 12 months ago.

Though they continued undefeated on their home ice, the Hawks were forced to remain in second place in the United States division of the National Hockey league, two points back of Detroit and one point ahead of the Boston Bruins.

The very rapid Paul Thompson scored the first two Hawk goals in the space of less than a minute in the first period. Paul's first marker was made in 11:35 on a double assist from Couture and Romnes. Fifty-five seconds later Thompson scored again, an another two ply assist, this time Romnes and Cook sharing the honors.

Couture Gets Other Goals.

The third Chicago goal was made by Couture in the sixteenth minute of the second period. This one also was made on a double assist, Leswick and Gottselig sharing the glory. Couture counted again in 15:50 of the final period again on assists from Gottselig and Leswick.

The game was delayed for 17 minutes during the final period because of injuries to Goalie John Ross Roach of the Red Wings, who was hit in the mouth by a hard shot from Mush March. Roach was unable to resume. Doug Young taking his place and permitting Couture's second goal.

It was necessary to take six stitches in Roach's lip and five inside his mouth. All his teeth were loosened. He was taken to the Garfield Park hospital and was unable to return to Detroit with his team.

Thompson's two goals in 55 seconds of the eleventh minute of the first period gave the proud Red Wings something about which to think, inasmuch as the two markers equaled the previous Hawk total against the Red Wings in two games played in Detroit this season. Both of Paul's productions were scored on double assists, thus giving the Hawks a half dozen points in the individual tabulations of the National Hockey league.

Romnes Assists Twice.

The first goal, in 11:35, was started when Conacher gave the puck to Romnes and Romnes slid it to Thompson for a closeup shot that had Goalie Roach thoroughly whipped.

The second Hawk goal, in 12:35, was launched by Romnes. Romnes shot to Cook back of the cage, and Tommy passed to Thompson just off Roach's boots. Paul was at exactly the right place at exactly the right time and beat Roach without giving the Red Wings goalie a fighting chance.

At the outset of the second period the Wings abandoned their defense, except for the goalie, but even with five forwards they could develop no serious threat until the sixth minute. At this juncture the Wings made merry for a spell, but the Hawks succeeded in going out of a melee. Things were calm for a time thereafter.

Make Score, 3 to 0.

The score became 3 to 0 at the 15 minute juncture in the second period. Leswick got control of the puck and sent it to Gottselig. Johnny didn't hold the rubber. Leswick passed to Couture, who was posted a bit to Goalie Roach's left. Couture received the disc with perfect finesse, then wiggled it back and forth in front of Roach until the Wings goalie went into a dithering fling. The dance once started, Lolo scooped home Hawk goal No. 3.

The third period was just a minute old when a hard, high shot from the sick of March hit Goalie Roach in the face. The puck knocked Roach flat, after which the life man retired. Later on Couture made a second goal.

BOOKER TO FIGHT TONIGHT IN RAINBOW WINDUP

Ward Takes On Verri for Five Rounds.

Mickey Joy, Chicago lightweight, will meet Harry Booker in a six round bout tonight at Rainbow Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. The match is set at 138 pounds. Eddie Ward, former Golden Gloves lightweight champion, undefeated as a professional, collides with Pete Verri in a five round semi-final at 140 pounds.

Other bouts: Joe Bonak vs. Fredy Gravello, [4] 138. Art Donovan vs. Frank Keefe, [4] 138. Sammy Adams vs. Tommy Habel, [4] 147. Fred Lebehr vs. John Mason, [wrestling].

Don McCormick, claimant of the British heavyweight title, is scheduled to arrive tomorrow from New York for a 10 round bout with King Levinsky at the Chicago Stadium, Dec. 28. McCormick said that he will open training at Trafalgar's gymnasium Sunday.

An amateur show will be presented tonight at White City, 638 street and South Park. Tony Misco, light heavyweight, and Jim Hickey, bantamweight, will appear in two of the eight matches. Proceeds will go to the 17th Ward Democratic club's Christmas bazaar fund.

Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, yesterday was matched to meet Johnny Terry for six rounds on the Freddy Miller-Sammy Levine card next Wednesday at Arcadia Gardens. They weigh 156 pounds. A five round contest brings together George Engel and Genio Salvatore and at four rounds is between Jack King and Duane Maddox. The winner is eligible to face Karl Ogren at the Stadium later in the month.

Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, has signed for a 12 round encounter against Dick Daniels of Minneapolis, Minn., at Winnipeg, Man., next Friday. Everett, who is a Milwaukee boxing club matchmaker, is in town seeking talent for bouts to support the 10 rounder between Frank Battaglia and Sammy [K] at the Milwaukee, Wis., New Year's afternoon.

Art Laskey, Minneapolis, Minn., heavyweight, is paired with Andy Mitchell at Hollywood, Cal., Monday. Jack Dempsey will referee. Johnny Pena, featherweight, goes to New York Sunday after a year's absence to spend the holidays. He will be accompanied by his manager, Tony Palumbo. John Frank will oppose Tony McLemore in a preliminary to the Henry Roth-Johnny Phagan eight round windup bout at Marigold Gardens Monday. Other bouts at four rounds bring together Ben Fitzpatrick and Joe Bonak and Bob Stone and Charley Young. Mike Turro and Chester Bukowski, amateur heavyweights, meet at the 124th Field Artillery armory tomorrow.

STABILIZATION NOT IN SIGHT; ROOSEVELT AID

Indicates Buying of Gold to Continue.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's monetary policy is once more under active discussion at the White House, but stabilization now or at any time is not the end in view.

This statement, issued on behalf of the President after Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Federal Reserve Governor Eugene H. Black, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and others had called at the White House today to discuss money, laid at rest new rumors of imminent stabilization or free gold sales.

The White House statement stressed the fact that the prediction of stabilization "now, in the near future, or at any time are worse than a bad guess," in the words of Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, who issued the statement.

Policy Under Discussion.

That the gold policy, however, is once more in a state of discussion and fermentation both as to its legal and economic aspects was learned from others attending the White House conferences today. The official statement also admitted that further conferences are contemplated.

Renewed determination on the part of the President not to abandon his gold experiment and not to stabilize the dollar until he is sure prices have reacted favorably to his dollar manipulations were taken to be the reason for issuing the statement.

It came at the end of a day filled with renewed reports of stabilization conversations with foreign nations and of the imminent establishment of a free gold market.

Gold Price Unchanged.

The government today for the 12th consecutive business day left the price of gold at $34.01 an ounce, making the gold value of the dollar at home still 67.7 cents. Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, through which gold purchases are carried on, revealed that 446,000 ounces of domestic gold, costing $15,360,000, had been bought since purchases began on Oct. 25.

George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, called at the White House shortly after Acting Secretary Morgenthau, Attorney General Cummings, Gov. Black, and Mr. Morgenthau's general counsel, Herman Oliphant. The White House was careful to point out, however, that Gov. Harrison, who has been directing Federal district court proceedings, did not discuss stabilization or the volume of foreign gold purchases.

4 BILLION GOLD PROFIT

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—In his first public address since going to Washington as monetary adviser to the President, Prof. James Harvey Rogers emphasized tonight the possible vast stimulus to recovery resulting from "the gold profit" to be made from devaluation.

"Assuming we were to devalue the dollar by 50 per cent (for easy arithmetic), our 4 billions of monetary gold would become 8 billions," Prof. Rogers said.

"There would be a profit here of 4 billions. Although under present law this profit would go to the federal reserve banks, I think it is likely the government will take it."

Checks to Member Banks.

In that event, Prof. Rogers said, need for funds to finance the public works and other programs, the government could be expected to check this money out to individuals and corporations.

"The checks would go to members for deposit and would wind up as additional credits of member banks with federal reserves. This would mean an increase of four billions in effective cash reserves of member banks, with resulting vast stimulus to bank loans."

"Even if the federal reserve sold all possible earnings assets it could counteract only a small part of this inflationary movement."

Wants of Congress Control.

"This is a phase of devaluation heretofore overlooked but of great potential merit. It would be controllable, since its extent would be measurable in advance. It would come in addition to the already substantial price increases resulting from dollar depreciation."

Prof. Rogers termed the administration monetary policy discreet in comparison with alternatives that might come from weakening of the President's prestige and return of control over money to congress.

Chicago Bondholders Fight

To Save Utility Company

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—Hearings on an application to place the Central West Public Service company in bankruptcy opened here today in Federal District court. Counsel for Robert E. Wessling and Alfred Bersted, bondholders of Chicago, were granted the right to intervene in behalf of the company. They maintained the company is now solvent.

Bankers Fear Political Rule Through RFC

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Whether the administration at Washington will interfere in the management of banks to the extent of placing its own men in key positions in banks selling preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation is a question that is likely to be answered in the next two weeks.

The issue was brought to a head suddenly this week by a report from Washington that Walter J. Cummings, assistant secretary of the treasury, was being suggested in Washington for the position of chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

This threw a scare into bank officials all over the country, not because of any lack of confidence in Mr. Cummings' part, but because such a move would be interpreted by bankers as an indication that the federal government was following the policy of placing administration men in important positions in banks that comply with Washington demands to "take the government into partnership" by selling stock to the RFC.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, who was in Chicago Tuesday and Wednesday, stated in reply to reporters' questions that it was not the policy of the RFC to interfere in banks where it considered the present management "satisfactory." This assurance, however, seems to have been a little too uncertain for bankers and many of them are reported to have inquired personally of Mr. Jones just what he meant.

Concern was especially great in New York City, where the National City bank has just arranged to sell $50,000,000 of preferred stock to the RFC and where other banks have either made similar arrangements or are about to do so.

Previously the banks had been going on the assumption that any vacancies they might fill would be given to men who would be "acceptable" to the RFC as well as the directors of the banks, but that the picking and choosing would be largely in the hands of the directors heretofore, subject to the final stamps of approval by the RFC, the federal reserve board, and the treasury department.

Now, however, they appear to be less certain and are anxiously awaiting developments. A number of large banks throughout the country have vacant chairmanships or other high positions and are keenly interested.

In the case of the Continental bank it is possible that the abundant publicity about Mr. Cummings' candidacy may act as a boomerang and impair his chances of election if the RFC authorities should decide that it would be better not to give the impression that they are dominating bank elections.

Officers and directors of the Continental yesterday continued to maintain silence concerning their intentions with respect to filling the position of chairman left vacant some time ago by the resignation of Stanley Field.

That the Continental directors intend to elect a chairman has been known since Mr. Field's resignation. Naming of his successor, however, is not expected to occur before the annual meeting on Jan. 12, although the individual chosen may be made known before that time.

A complicating factor lies in the changes in the directorate which will occur early in January. The Continental now has 34 directors. Under a provision of the new banking act effective Jan. 1, no national bank may have more than 25 directors. That will necessitate some important changes in the directorate, and it is believed that the formal election of a chairman will be left to the directors chosen at the annual meeting.

Meanwhile, it is generally known that the Continental directors are considering several candidates, including George A. Ranney, vice chairman of Commonwealth Edison company, and R. A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston. Neither of these men, it is understood, would be willing to assume the job unless they were approved by the RFC, the federal reserve board and the treasury department.

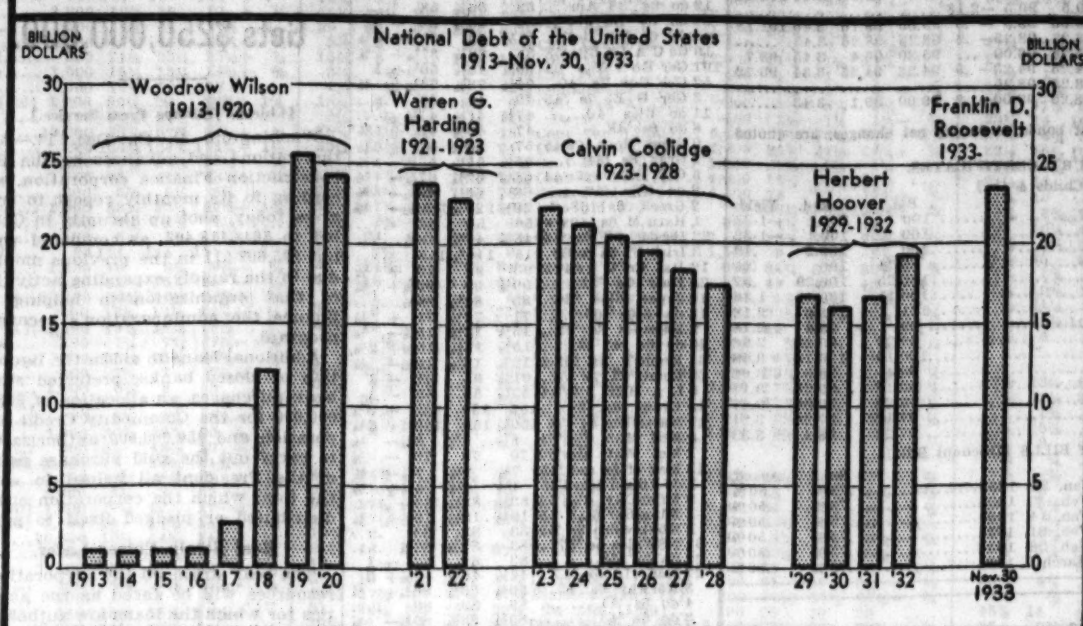

Another question that is worrying bank officials is the extent to which directors of banks that have no need for additional capital will be crowded by the RFC to sell preferred stock or capital notes to the RFC, regardless of the bank's sufficiency of capital and liquidity.

When Chairman Jones of the RFC spoke before the Illinois Manufacturers' association Tuesday night he avoided this issue. Printed copies of his prepared speech released to the press prior to the meeting, however, contained these remarks, which he omitted in his address:

"The reluctance, or shall I say hesitancy, on the part of some leading bankers to participate in the preferred stock program by participating in it themselves has been difficult to understand, especially since no class of business has had more governmental aid than banks."

"The banker who insists that he should not be expected to join in the program because his bank does not need the capital does not deserve the good fortune of his comfortable position."

Rise, Fall, and Rise of the Debt of the National Government

Dollar Value Plunges to 63.80 Cents

New York, Dec. 14.—The dollar fell sharply in foreign exchange today, losing nearly all the gains it had made earlier in the week on the talk of stabilization. The currency was weak throughout the day and closed at the lowest point reached during trading, 63.80 cents, down 1.33 cents from Wednesday's final value.

The reaction was ascribed in foreign exchange circles to the combined influence of renewed denials by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau of the reported stabilization plans, renewed agitation for devaluation by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma and others, and reports that the 1935 budget would amount to $5,000,000,000.

Gold Provides No Support.

The maintenance by the RFC for the two weeks successive of a gold price of $34.01 failed to offer any support to the dollar in the face of these developments. An additional circumstance tending to weaken the dollar was the realization that the seasonal period of weakness in sterling is now nearly over and that the support which the dollar has lately received from British demand will soon be withdrawn.

The pound sterling opened at about $5.06, up to cents overnight and forged ahead until it reached $5.12, where it closed, up 8 cents net. The franc came in at 6.08 cents, subsequently dipped as low as 6.04 cents and also closed on the top at 6.14 cents, up 18 points.

Other Currencies Rise.

Other important foreign currencies joined in the movement against the dollar. Guilders were 1.30 cents higher at 63.05 cents, belgas advanced 44 points to 21.84 cents, Swiss francs rose 15 points to 30.29 cents and Canadian dollars improved 31 points to a premium of that amount. The mark was 73 points higher at 37.43 cents and the lira was up 19 points at 8.25 cents.

Among bankers the renewed weakness of the dollar was accepted as a natural development of an unstable currency. The theory that the dollar has been "stable" in the last few months, merely because the RFC gold price has been unchanged, and that the dollar's exchange market have been less spectacular than they were early in November, has had little support in Wall Street.

BROKERS EXPLAIN LONDON 'LEAK' IN RFC GOLD PRICE

New York, Dec. 14.—Wall Street brokers found a simple explanation today for the "leak" which is alleged to have enabled London to day to obtain the RFC's purchasing price for newly mined gold several minutes before the treasury department's official announcement reaches England.

The brokers are convinced that there is no leak, but that more skillful and direct use of the private communication methods is responsible. Six large brokerage firms said they believed they were able to transmit the news abroad more swiftly by one to four minutes than the treasury department or its representatives.

The treasury department makes public the gold price at 9:45 a. m. Brokers receive the quotations within a few seconds on the news ticker. They usually station a man at the ticker who immediately notifies representatives of the cable systems. Firms with important foreign connections usually have a teletype printer in their offices which is linked directly with the cable system. In less than a minute the news is on its way and when the dispatch reaches London branch offices there receive it immediately through direct wires to the cable office.

STOCK EXCHANGE HAS A PROGRAM TO SELL ITSELF TO THE PUBLIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 14.—The New York Stock exchange, facing congressional regulation, has approved an extensive publicity and advertising program designed "to sell itself to the public." Brokers characterized the action taken by the exchange, which has always attempted to avoid public discussion of its affairs, as the most radical step enacted in many years.

Although spokesmen for the stock exchange declined to comment, it is understood that the plan calls for a sponsored radio program over a national hookup, a more liberal attitude toward press representatives, increased use of direct mail advertising, the lecture platform, and motion pictures. Although not yet included, it is said that officials have under consideration the use of paid newspaper advertising of the institutional type which is now used by many banks and clearing houses.

Approval of the plan was given today at a special meeting of the law committee, which was attended by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange. This committee, known as the "cabinet" of Mr. Whitney, is composed of five of the most influential governors.

The plan is not designed to avert public opinion immediately. Rather, it is said, the exchange proposes a long run change in policy for the protection of its business.

TELEPHONE USE SHOWS NEW GAIN FOR NOVEMBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 14.—For the third consecutive month the American Telephone and Telegraph company reported an increase in the number of telephones in use throughout the country in November. At the same time the company reported that telephone use for the month rose to that of the corresponding month last year.

The upturn in telephone connections was placed between 5,000 and 6,000. This estimate was below the gain of the preceding two months, but was regarded as a favorable development in view of the decrease reported by the New York Telephone company.

New York's loss was more than offset by improvement elsewhere, especially in the south.

Baldwin Locomotive Gets More Orders in November

Booking of the Baldwin Locomotive company and subsidiaries in November totaled $1,092,000, against $983,000 in October and $736,000 a year ago.

BRITISH SHIP LEADER DENOUNCES SUBSIDIES FAVORED BY HIS SON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 14.—A scathing denunciation of shipping subsidies was voiced by Lord Runciman, one of Britain's greatest shipowners, today in commenting on the speech made by his son, Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, to the house of commons last night in which he declared himself in favor of state assistance to shipping.

"You can't squeeze yourself into heaven by defying the natural laws," Lord Runciman asserted. "The policy of subsidy is neither sound trading nor sound finance. The countries that are subsidizing shipping or any other industry will soon realize how futile it is as a remedy for plunging enterprise."

"Neither a company nor a country can get out of a dirty mess by defying the natural laws."

France Levies Huge Tax on U. S. Firms

[Copyright, 1933, by the New York Times.]

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The French government has assessed American companies in France nearly two billion francs, covering taxes due under the double taxation law, despite the signing of an agreement abolishing this form of taxation by former Ambassador Walter E. Edge and former Premier Andre Tardieu in the spring of 1932.

This fact was divulged for the first time today by an irate importer who represented Washington's granting France a wine import quota equal to her pre-war imports while imports to France from America are now comparatively far below any such figures.

Assessment Held Secret.

The companies have been keeping the assessment secret because, apparently, they hoped the American government would intercede in their behalf. The American embassy refused to comment on the situation, so it could not ascertain whether a formal protest had been made.

Some of this taxation actually goes back forty years, when a few American companies first established subsidiaries here. The French have never collected anything on it, so if the companies have to pay it will represent a staggering amount in many cases.

So-called double taxation has been one of the thorns in the side of Franco-American relations for many years. It provides that any company or subsidiary of a company operating in France can be taxed the regular taxes to which all French companies are subjected, and also the taxes on the profits of the parent company and all the parent company's subsidiaries throughout the world.

First Was Protective Measure.

It was originally designed to hit companies which disguised their profits by ascribing them to their parent companies. Under the law all local companies must account for their profits and losses, and the parent companies must also account for their profits and losses.

One large American company here, for instance, when asked to make such an accounting, figured it would cost $70,000 for the audit. Under these circumstances many companies refused to make such accountings. The French government thereupon made its own estimates of the turnover, profits and dividends, figuring the tax on the largest amount possible.

In June, 1932, the American senate ratified this agreement, but it has never been presented to the French parliament. It could not go into effect until a year after approval by the parliament.

Stock Exchange Members Want Holiday on Dec. 23

New York, Dec. 14.—Members of the New York Stock exchange today began circulation of a petition to the board of governors to declare a holiday on Saturday, Dec. 23. Several of the commodity markets have already voted to close on that day, thus extending the Christmas recess.

ELECTRIC CODE BACKS WAR ON PUBLIC PLANTS

Utility Heads Seek U. S. Protection.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—The proposed code for the electric light and power industry has furnished a new vehicle for protests against the competition from publicly owned power plants. Negotiations on the code, some officials believe, may lead to a detailed restatement by the administration of its attitude on the problem.

Utility executives have told government officials that the pact for the industry should give the protection against "increased" governmental and municipal competition. Their ideas have been embodied in a tentative code which has been the basis of discussion with national recovery officials for the last several days. The power executives left today for New York, and they probably will return with a revised draft of the proposed code next week.

Concerned Over PWA Loans.

Before leaving, however, they pointed to loans for municipal and publicly owned power projects from the public works administration as one basis for their concern. "These commitments amount to $21,317,400 for twenty projects, and Secretary Ickes reiterated recently he saw no reason why they should not be continued."

The utility executives, among them Floyd Carlisle of the Niagara-Hudson Power and George B. Cortelyou, head of the Edison Electric Institute, have also told recovery administrators they had no assurance that increased costs under the code could be met by higher rates.

In virtually every state, power rates are supervised by state commissions and a preliminary survey of the attitude of these commissions on this question gave the power officials little comfort.

Only the power operating companies are to be included in the code, since the holding companies are interpreted as outside the scope of the industry law. If the question of municipal competition is thrust to the front, as appears likely, both rates and operating companies probably will be taken into consideration.

Status of Holding Companies.

Recently the federal power commission called public utility holding companies a menace and said corrective legislation was needed. This led to the prediction by Senator Norris (Rep., Neb.), that statutes putting holding companies out of business would be passed at the next congress.

The utility executives in their charges of unfair competition have included the Tennessee valley authority, whose nucleus is the Muscle Shoals power project. President Roosevelt has described Muscle Shoals, Boulder dam, and pending governmental projects as yardsticks with which to measure rates charged by private concerns. But in actual operation its directors have said they wanted it to have the least possible effect on soundly financed and operated private concerns.

President Roosevelt has said that the American people were not taking advantage of power because rates in many instances have been too high.

NASH MOTORS ANNOUNCES BIG SUPPLY ORDERS

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—The Nash Motors company today announced purchases of raw materials totaling three-quarters of a million dollars for immediate delivery to the Racine plant, where the new low-priced six is to be built.

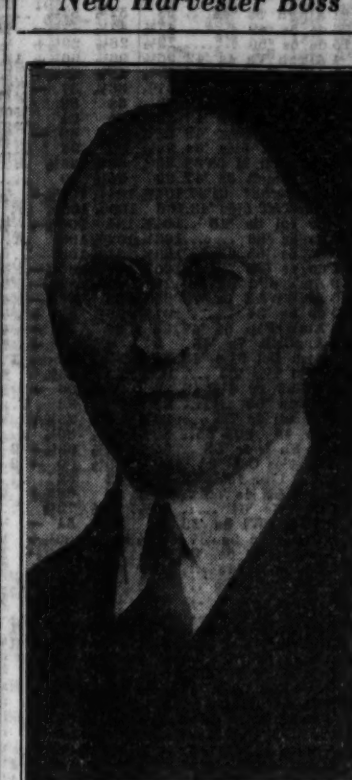

Production of the new cars, whose name and price will be made public after the first of the year, will be started as soon as possible. First models probably will be ready for exhibition at the New York Automobile show.

The number of employees installing new machinery at Racine will be increased from 350 to 1,000 by Jan. 1, and further increased until peak output of 400 cars a day is reached in the early spring.

NRA Fails as Recovery Measure, Says Professor

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—The adverse effect of the act of the National Recovery act on the recovery measure by Prof. Charles E. Remer of the University of Michigan in an address here last night. "That the NRA did something of use to the future of the United States we are ready to admit," said Prof. Remer, "but as a measure of promoting immediate recovery, it is not a success."

Prince Says He Has 'Hold' on Armour Co.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 14.—Frederick H. Prince, Boston capitalist, who arrived from Europe last night, confirmed today the purchase of a "substantial" amount of common and preferred stock in Armour & Co. and declared that he planned to be in Chicago on Monday to confer with Armour company officials.

Asked how much of an investment in the Armour stocks he had made, Mr. Prince jokingly dodged a direct answer by remarking that "it was enough to give me a hold on the company." He came back from Europe earlier than he intended, he added, because in the Chicago meat packing business "there is an opportunity for constructive work to be done."

The packing business today, he feels, offers possibilities for profitable investment such as are provided in few other lines.

Federal Attitude in Question.

Mr. Prince brushed aside questions as to whether he might encounter difficulties in assuming a dominant position in Armour & Co., while at the same time remaining president and controlling stockholder in the Chicago Union Stock Yards under the consent decree, which forbids packing companies to be interested in the stock yards.

"That," he said, "has nothing to do with the matter."

Mr. Prince did not talk about changes in the Armour board beyond saying that the question would not come up immediately. As the largest single stockholder, Mr. Prince believes he should have preponderant representation. How much that will be determined at later conferences.

May Speed Up Recapitalization.

Mr. Prince's arrival and his intention to start negotiations next week with Armour officials speeded up efforts by the company management to produce some new recapitalization plans for elimination of the preferred stock and the liquidation of back dividends thereon. Mr. Prince said he did not care to talk about recapitalization plans today. He did want to express some opinion on the railroad situation.

"We are on the upgrade and confidence is returning," he said. "The government is working on my plan for the railroads, and I believe it will help the general railroad situation. It provides for the operation of the most economical lines and the pooling of earnings. Competition between railroads is no longer necessary because trucks provide such competition."

PLAN NOT DRAFTED YET.

Officials of Armour & Co. said here last night that there had been no change in the status of the capital reorganization. No plan has been drawn up as yet. The preliminary work and proposals are being gone over.

The impending visit of F. H. Prince, Boston broker, to the city was not known officially but representatives of the company indicated that the matter will be gone over with Mr. Prince when he comes. Indications were that negotiations will take on new life with the arrival of the Boston capitalist, who has been accumulating shares of the company for some time.

To the holders of

Woods Brothers Corporation Ten Year 6% Collateral Trust Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

The undersigned have consented to act as a Committee representing the holders of the above-mentioned bonds in order to afford the bondholders a medium through which their interests may be best protected. The Committee intends to make a prompt study of all the conditions affecting the bonds and will make an early report thereof to the bondholders known to them.

Although no call for the deposit of bonds will be made now, the Committee proposes to call for the deposit of bonds in order to afford the holders of the bonds a medium through which their interests may be best protected. In the meantime the Committee desires immediately to get in touch with all bondholders and urges them to notify the secretary of their names, addresses and the amount of their holdings, so that they may be advised of future developments.

MONEY TURNOVER

2 BILLION TODAY; U. S. MAIN FACTOR

Federal Operations Boost Total; Market Calm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Dec. 14.—As a result of unusually heavy government financing the turnover in the money market tomorrow will be the largest for a mid-December date in several years. It is estimated that the total will reach around 2 billion dollars, of which more than half a billion dollars will be for cash. Such is the ease of the money market that no indications of tightness were visible today.

Government operations will account for nearly the entire amount of tomorrow's transactions. The government will redeem a maturity of 727 millions which will be taken up through sale of the new 2½ per cent one year notes issued in an aggregate amount of approximately 850 amount of approximately $200 millions. The maturing issue is being accepted in exchange for the new notes. Holders of $607,590,300 of the maturing loan have tendered them for such exchange. The balance of the new issue will be paid for in cash.

Pay Interest, Receive Taxes.
In addition to the large refunding operation the government will pay interest tomorrow on about $4,600,000 of its outstanding obligations in an amount estimated at nearly 100 mil-

Another source of income to Uncle Sam tomorrow will be war debts, but receipts will fall far short of the amount due. European debtors owe the government $152,952,637, of which $46,581,164 represents principal and $106,371,473 interest. The treasury expects to collect only $3,938,123. Corporation maturities payable tomorrow reach the comparatively small amount of $5,200,000. They consist of railroad, industrial and public utility bonds. However, dividend payments by a number of corporations will add many millions.

Treasury Analyzes Finances.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14. (AP)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Almost 1 billion 60 million dollars will pour into the treasury's coffers tomorrow and approximately 841 millions will be paid out, adding some 218 millions to the working capital with which the government is paying

Looking ahead, treasury officials estimated that Dec. 31, the end of the fiscal year's first six months, would find 1 billion 60 million dollars in the treasury's general fund, enough, they thought, to make the flotation of a bond issue to provide funds for increasing public works outlays unnecessary until March 15.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 14.—Moderate gains were recorded by a good proportion of the more active stocks on the New York stock exchange today. Weakness in the dollar was the chief source of the market's strength. Metal issues were a feature.

Trading was at a leisurely pace, and the bulk of it was once more for professional account.

Actual news of market importance was scarce, but there were a number of rumors about to spread on the exchange during the day were responsible for the movement, and had it that the government was about to resume its policy of marking up the price of gold at an early date.

Utility interests in the utility shares were maintained over the news that a delegation of utility officials had gone to Washington on an important mission, and the "dope" was that their trip had to do with a permanent code for the industry.

Communication shares which were in a mildly buoyant mood yesterday on rumors of impending mergers seemed to have lost their attraction marketwide today with the news in concrete form. Government supervision took the edge off the proposition so far as speculation was concerned.

Another group to come in for some selling was the tobacco. Estimates on November production which appeared during the day were responsible for their undoing. The figures indicated cigarette output last month had dropped 11 to 12 per cent in comparison with November last year.

Alcohol shares strong.

Alcohol shares came to the fore again after their recent period of hesitation. Boasting substantial speculative sponsorship, this group apparently is responsive to the continued heavy demand for liquor and the indications that there is little chance for any appreciable letdown in the buying movement at least over the holidays.

The sustained demand is expected to register in substantial profits for leading producers for the final quarter.

Silver shares recovered with a rise in the price of the metal, partly on the news that the Indian government was buying silver. United States Smeltering rose more than 3 points. Gold issues also strengthened. Home-stake rose nearly 7 points.

EDISON OFFICER
ASSERTS POWER
DEALS ARE FAIR

The management of the Commonwealth Edison company is convinced that it has with the other Chicago district utility companies is fair and equitable, George A. Ranney, chairman of the company, said yesterday.

The statement was made in reply to allegations contained in a suit filed Wednesday that under the contract the Edison company was saddled with the carrying expense of the excess producing facilities of the three other companies which are parties to the agreement. The action was brought by two Edison stockholders.

Mr. Ranney predicted that the outcome of the suit would justify the position of the management.

"Contracts of this character," Mr. Ranney said, "are based on sound economic principles of mass production and distribution, and have been adopted by various groups of operating utility companies. Their successful operation naturally results in co-operation between the several companies which are parties to the contract."

"In entering into and operating under the interchange contract, the companies serving the Chicago district have received and followed the best available engineering advice."

NOVEMBER SALES
HANG UP RECORDS

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 14.—[Special.]—Sales of Studebaker automobiles to dealers during November, 1933, were unusually large.

They were 13 per cent greater than the combined business for November, 1932, 1931, and 1930, according to George D. Keller, sales manager of the Studebaker Sales Corporation of America. They exceeded those of any November since 1924. They were 18.09 per cent above those of the best November since 1924.

Amounting to 8,105 units, these sales surpassed that of 1,047 for November, 1932, by 647.69 per cent.
